Germans Bomb Dover, Lose 17 Planes, Renew Attack in Blackout

English Admit Loss Of Destroyer; Nazis Claim New Successes In U-Boat Warfare

The War Today

BRITISH FLIERS claim their biggest single air victory of the war in destroying 17 of 80 Nazi planes in a half-hour battle over Dover; Germany claims new submarine successes, and Britain admits loss of a destroyer and trawler.

RUMANIAN REPORTS assert Germany set September 15 as deadline for settlement of Hungarian and Bugarian territorial claims.

Raiders Come Back

Copyright by New York Times

London, July 29.—Eighty Nazi bombers and fighters made a surprise dive-bombing raid on the port of Dover today but were beaten off in the fiercest air battle of the war.

In 30 minutes of spectacular fighting above the Channel, the air ministry said, "not a single bomb landed on the shore, seventeen German planes were shot down and only one British fighter failed to return safely." Three more German bombers were destroyed in other engagements, bringing the day's toll to 20.

Germans Renew Attacks

While these attacks were taking place, however, British bombers were not idle. They attacked military objectives all the way from northwest Germany to northern France, battering seventeen German airports in Germany, the Low Countries and France, damaging oil depots, docks, and freight yards.

One bomber pilot said his colleagues had successfully fired German oil tanks at Cherbourg Sunday night though no details about this attack were given.

Late tonight German aircraft were again reported over southeast, northeast and southwest England.

Begun With One Plane

In one southeastern town bombs smashed into a working class residential district, wrecking homes. Residents fled to air raid shelters but the first bombs exploded before all could take cover. There was no estimate of the casualties.

Other raiders streaked inland from the northeast and southwest.

Woman Plunges Off Calvert Street Bridge to Death

An unidentified white woman in a blue polka-dot dress plunged about 100 feet to her death shortly after last midnight from the Calvert Street Bridge to the pavement of Rock Creek parkway.

A shattered wrist watch and 34 cents wrapped in a handkerchief were found near the body. Hatless, with curly brown hair and wearing silk stockings and black slippers, the woman appeared to be 30 or 35, police said. A Goldband wedding was inscribed "C. W. H. to R. A. A. 10-27-37."

Her body landed fairly in the middle of the drive, near the door of a sewer construction shack of the Lombardi Construction Co. which is installing sewers nearby.

Willkie Expects Democratic Vote 'Not Bound by Rigid Ties'

Both Parties Have Common Viewpoint, Candidate Asserts

By the Associated Press

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 29. Wendell L. Willkie contended today that the only Democrats who would not support him for the Presidency were those either "bound" by party ties or controlled by "corrupt and nauseating party machines."

The Republican nominee, in response to press conference questions, asserted he could not see how Democrats who subscribed to the 1932 platform, the historic principles of the party and the beliefs of Woodrow Wilson, could vote against him.

Later he issued a formal statement saying:

"I do not know of any reason why any Democrat who subscribed to and believed in the 1932 Democratic Platform or believes in the historic principles of the Democratic Party, or who was a Woodrow Wilson Democrat, should not vote for me in preference to the President—not at all on the basis of personality—but on the basis of what he and I respectively believe and advocate.

"I think the Republican Party, through me, is likewise advocating the cause that represents the viewpoint of the Republicans of the country, namely, opposition to the policies and practices of the Roosevelt Administration, particularly

'Tom, Tom, The Piper's Son'

New York, July 29 (AP).—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt had this to say today in her column, "My Day," about those whom she described as "new adherents to the campaign of Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican nominee for President:

"When I read in the newspapers every little while of this or that new adherent to Mr. Willkie's cause, recruited supposedly from the ranks of the New Deal, I cannot help but smile.

"I think I could have named them months ago. They always have been adherents of some cause, but never of the New Deal.

"I feel like repeating over them all, the nursery rhyme:

"Tom, Tom, the piper's son,
Stole a pig and away he run.
The pig was eat, Tom was beat
And ran off crying down the street."

Heat Wave To Continue, 5 More Die

Only Temporary Relief in Sight; Maximum of 96 Forecast for Today

Merciful thunderclouds and a sprinkling of afternoon rain gave sun-tortured Washington slight relief last night after the addition of five deaths and nine prostrations to the casualty list of an 11-day heat wave.

Rain-cooled breezes swept over the city shortly before 3 p. m. and knocked 11 degrees off a top temperature of 94 in less than an hour. Showers that followed at 3:35 p. m. added to the city's comfort with temperatures dropping to the 70's by bedtime.

The office of District Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald ascribed the five deaths to "heat aggravation."

Teresa L. Bruner, 61, colored, died at her home, 1038 Sixth street northwest.

No Major Relief Soon

Hale Sears Buffinton, 32, a painter of 330 Tenth street northeast, collapsed and died at his home after having worked all day.

William Beckwith, 50, of 1303 P street northwest, collapsed at 1901 Twelfth street northwest, and died.

A certificate of death due to heat was issued last night by Coroner MacDonald in the case of Marion Williams, 45, of Swissvale, Pa., who died near the Lincoln Memorial Saturday.

The United States forecaster said last night he could find no positive weather sign of anything but temporary relief. The forecast for today and tomorow is "fair and continued warm, except for some cloudiness and likelihood of local showers in the middle or late afternoon."

The highest temperature today, the Weather Bureau said, will be about 96.

Weather Bureau records go back to 1932 before duplicating the length and intensity of the present heat wave. In August of that year the mercury remained in the 90s for 12 days.

Yesterday's highest temperature was reached at 2:50 p. m.

Six of the heat prostrations were admitted to hospitals. They were Thomas Tribble, 19, of 5317 Hayes street northeast, Casualty, and Zollie James, 28, of 308 E street northwest, and an unidentified "private case," both in Emergency.

Sarah Westenhaver, 78, of 906 A street southeast, and Learnon Dawson, 30, of 501 Henry street, Alexandria, both at Casualty; and Lawrence Colbert, 26, 1841 Vernon street northwest, Georgetown.

Other heat victims were Walter Miller, 38, of 1030 H street northwest; Helen Thomas, 32, of 2022 L street northwest, and William Frazier, 25, of 1224 H street northwest.

More than ten Federal agencies, including the Weather Bureau, decided offices were too hot for work and closed early. The order affected almost all employes of the

Argentina Hedges on Hull Plan To Protect Colonies; Roosevelt Asks Power to Call Guard

President Roosevelt yesterday asked Congress for authority to order out all National Guard units and Army reserve personnel for a year of "intensive training."

In his own draft of a Congressional resolution, accompanying his letter to the Senate, the President requested that the Guardsmen and Reserves be made available for duty anywhere in the Western Hemisphere.

"This group of men, who of necessity must be among the first to fight in the Nation's defense," he wrote the Senate, "have a right to the best preparation that time and circumstance permit."

If the resolution is adopted, President Roosevelt will be able to mobilize 237,000 Guardsmen, 125,000 Reserve officers and 50,000 enlisted Reserves in "successive increments"—to be placed in training as fast as equipment becomes available for them.

Heads for Debate

The President's proposal was announced as a closely related defense measure, the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill, headed for one of the sharpest Senate debates in years.

A favorable report on the far-reaching bill is expected from the Senate Military Affairs Committee at its meeting today, but Majority Leader Barkley said the measure will not come onto the floor for "several days."

Senator Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan, said:

"It is shocking to think that only a week ago this revolutionary bill was about to go through the Senate as easily as a new dam for Coopers-town."

He reported that the heaviest volume of mail ever received at his office, 10,000 letters and telegrams over the week-end, "shows sentiment 99 to 1 against the bill." This protest is especially significant, he said, "since no one yet has made any real effort to arouse the country on the question."

Debate Is Postponed

The Burke-Wadsworth bill would require registration for defense duty of all men between 18 and 64. About 1,400,000 men without dependents, from 21 to 31 years old, would be placed under arms in the first year after the bill's enactment.

Barkley said debate on the bill, which had originally been scheduled to start tomorrow, had been postponed to give Senators a chance for closer study of the measure.

No official sign of Administration backing for the bill has yet been given, but high officials of the War Department have testified before both the Senate and House Military Affairs Committee that one pur-

President Tours Norfolk Area To See Defense in the Making

By a Staff Writer

Newport News, Va., July 29.—President Roosevelt today made a whirlwind inspection tour of defense works in the Norfolk area, guarding the sea approaches to the Nation's Capital.

Then, asked whether he thought the 1814 burning of Washington could be repeated by an invader today, he decared that it would depend on when and by whom the invasion was attempted.

A year from now, he told reporters, we will feel a lot safer.

Not disguising the fact that the tour was an answer to critics who charge him with neglect of national defense, the President said at the end of a fast-moving day that the trip was a good eye demonstration of what the Government has been doing for national defense since last September, when war began abroad.

He announced that today's trip was only the first of a series that would take him by election to many other Army, Naval and Aircraft bases in the United States.

In businesslike fashion, and giving a minimum of time to ceremony, the Chief Executive visited Army, Navy and shipbuilding installations on an all-day tour with his highest Cabinet and Congressional advisers on national defense.

With a scarcely a halt, the President motored and boated from 9:45 a. m. until late in the afternoon, visiting the Portsmouth Navy Yard, the Naval Base at Norfolk, Fortress Monroe at Old Point Comfort, the general headquarters Army Air Base at Langley Field and the Newport News Drydock & Shipbuilding Co.

At his elbow while he was inspecting the naval establishments was Frank Knox, newly appointed Secretary of the Navy, making his

(Act of Havana Text, Page 7)

By the Associated Press

Havana, July 29.—Agentina hedged tonight on the important American foreign ministers' conference agreement on treatment of foreign possessions in America by making a reservation to its signature of the "Act of Havana."

Members of the Argentine delegation said that any signature put on the document here would have to be approved finally by the government in Buenos Aires.

Although they said the matter was merely an "academic question," the fact that Argentina, by making the reservation, left the door open to back out of an agreement that had been accepted by other nations as the most important continental defense measure ever taken in a Pan-American conference.

Promise Is Kept

In making the reservation at the last minute, Argentina kept her preconvention promise not to sign any binding agreements at this conference.

The diplomatic maneuver was executed so smoothly that many persons attending the conference did not immediately see the importance of it.

The Argentine action created a complicated situation with regard to the old Pan-American conference custom of unanimity.

The United States which always has been a stickler for unanimous consent to such matters, actually had the agreement of the 20 other American republics to sign the "Act of Havana," yet Argentina at any time could say:

"We withdraw our consent."

Germany, Italy Considered

Just as Argentina waited until the last minute on Thursday to introduce its own resolution on foreign possessions in this hemisphere, it waited until the "Act of Havana" was ready for the final plenary action—the formality of signature—before slipping in the reservation about the necessity of getting its government's approval.

It came when all the other delegates were certain that everything had been accomplished as planned and many of them already were thinking about transportation home.

The work of the conference was concluded at a private plenary session tonight, all but the formal signatures, which would be affixed at a public session Tuesday, approving a

Nazi 'Offers' Hit U. S. Trade In Argentina

But October Delivery Guarantees Are Only Talk, Survey Shows

By the Associated Press

Buenos Aires, July 29.—The recurrent stories of German offers to sign contracts for October delivery of goods to South America, with heavy self-imposed penalties provided for failure to comply, fall into that category of things that everybody talks about but nobody will acknowledge he has actually experienced.

Yet the talk goes on, in every level of Argentine commerce, with the purported German offers accepted as fact and thus having their powerful effect.

A thorough survey has failed to locate a single merchant who will say he has signed such a German agreement or has even seen one, with the exception of a few German-owned subsidiaries which are in effect selling to themselves.

Yet many Argentine businessmen acknowledge they are hesitant to make their usual contracts

Windsors to Sail For U. S. Thursday On American Ship

Lisbon, July 29 (AP).—The Duke of Windsor and his Duchess will sail for America on the American Export liner Excalibur next Thursday en route to his post as governor of the Bahamas, the British embassy said tonight.

United States diplomats William Phillips from Italy, John Cudahy from Belgium and George Gordon from the Netherlands, are to return aboard the same ship, Phillips on a short leave and the others because their diplomatic missions have been terminated by the Nazis.

Some of the Windsors' baggage already has arrived in America. The British liner Britannic, which slipped into New York today, had aboard 14 articles of luggage bearing either the Duke's name or the crest he used as Prince of Wales.

Rumania Gets Until Sept. 15 To Cede Lands

Axis Sets Deadline For Balkan Accord, Bucharest Reports

By the Associated Press

Bucharest, July 29.—Germany has given Rumania until September 15 to settle her territorial differences with Hungary and Bulgaria by direct negotiation, it was reported tonight. If there is no agreements then, it was said, the Axis powers plan to step in and impose their own settlement.

Other than expressing satisfaction with the outcome of the Salzburg conference with Hitler, Premier Gigurtu and Foreign Minister Minhail Manoilescu made no public comment. They reported direct to King Carol.

However, Juliu Maniu, leader of Rumania's powerful peasant party, opposed any further ceding of territory.

He said the real strength of Rumania's position is Germany's desire to keep war out of the Balkans at all costs.

Rumania's Iron Guard organization also has said there must be no further loss of territory and has declared that the people would fight first.

Sources close to the government indicated that Rumania might try a compromise to solve Hungary's claims, apparently with confidence of German backing.

The plan, these sources said, is twofold:

1. Outright cession to Hungary of the cities of Satu-Mare, Oradea and Arad, and their environs.

2. Exchanges of populations in other districts.

Pledges to Support Move for Senate Airing of Issue

By Robert C. Albright

Senator Van Nuys (Democrat), Indiana, yesterday pledged full support to Senator Burke (Democrat), Nebraska, in his move for public Senate airing of the third term as an issue.

Van Nuys, who fought side by side with Burke against the President's court plan, declared "nothing happened at the Chicago convention to change my conviction that a third term is violative of American traditions and a mistake."

A member of the Burke Judiciary subcommittee which will open third term hearings the week of August 12, Van Nuys conferred at length with Senator Burke. Agreement was tentatively reached on a course of subcommittee action closely patterned after the successful court plan fight.

Burke said he already had applications from "more witnesses than can possibly be heard." As in the court fight, it was learned that clergymen of all denominations, professors, heads of colleges and universities, business men, labor representatives, lawyers, economists and columnists will be invited to appear.

Van Nuys, the first Senate Democrat publicly to join Burke in his anti-third term drive, said he will confine his campaign activities this fall to working for the reelection of the entire Indiana State Democratic ticket, headed by Henry Schricker, candidate for Governor.

Parents Learn of New Blow Two Hours After Taking Older Daughter Home; Misfortune Dogs Family on Relief

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen O'Donald, of 1606 Thirty-third street northwest, went to Georgetown Hospital last night to bring home their daughter, Edith, 14, who had been there nine days as a victim of heat prostration.

As te couple left the front entrance of the hospital with their eldest child, another one of their seven children, 3-year-old Wiona was being hurried into the hospital via the emergency entrance. Wiona had been fatally injured when struck by an auto near her home at Thirty-third and Q streets.

WIONA

The parents didn't learn about the tragedy until an hour later. Two hours after the accident Wiona was dead.

Little Wiona, police learned, and her 4-year-old brother, Charlie, were on their way to the Georgetown Playground, on Q street around the corner from their home, when the accident occurred. According to the driver, Josef Aloysius Blair, 27, of 3701 Massachusetts avenue northwest, the children suddenly dashed off the curb, directly in front of his car. Lone witness to the mishap, Wilbur Hummer, 21, of 3256 Q street northwest, gave police a similar version.

Charlie managed to cross safely, but Wiona fell under the auto's wheels. Blair and Hummer, who was standing nearby, rushed the child to the hospital.

Blair was released in custody of his attorney for action of the coroner's

He Didn't Resign

St. Quentin to Be Replaced As French Ambassador

Count Rene de Saint-Quentin, French Ambassador to the United Since since March 3, 1938, will return to France.

He will leave the United States shortly, he said last night. He expects to be replaced, but he has not resigned.

The Ambassador made the statements on the heels of reports circulating through diplomatic circles that he has been recalled by the Petain government.

Other reports named likely successors to the tall, genial diplomat who came here a little more than two years ago, the appointee of the Daladier ministry. Last night the count would confirm none of them.

"I think I know who it will be," he said, "but I cannot tell his name."

Neither did he reveal whether his sympathies—or lack of them—with the present regime in France have anything to do with the pending shift.

"I have not resigned or asked to be relieved," he said.

Since the fall of France last month Count Rene de Saint-Quentin has been active in presenting the problems of his government to the State Department. And this led some diplomatic observers last night to believe he will continue in the diplomatic service at some other post.

The count's diplomatic career has been a long one. More than 30 years ago he was attached to the French Embassy in London. He later served in several European capitals, including Berlin, where he was first secretary.

Fighting for the Vote

District Suffrage Bill Faces Rules Committee Opposition

By James D. Secrest

An indication that the Sumners suffrage resolution may run into difficulties in the House Rules Committee came yesterday as the House Judiciary Committee prepared to take it up in executive session at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Approval of the resolution by a majority of perhaps eight or nine was forecast by Chairman Sumners. But the Rules Committee also must give it the green light if the legislation is to come to a vote on the House floor.

Chairman Sabath said the Rules Committee will give the matter "fair consideration," but he called attention to the priority of other rules already reported and to the long bills awaiting action by the committee.

"If we granted special rules on all bills for which requests have been made," he said, "Congress would be here until late fall."

While all polls of the Judiciary Committee have shown a good margin in favor of the resolution, the Rules Committee has several Democratic members who are known to be hostile toward any form of franchise for the residents of Washington.

Local suffrage proponents were busy yesterday guarding against the foreclosure of their cause by national representation as the Federation of Citizens Associations informed Chairman Sumners that it was "in wholehearted support" of

THE GREAT UNKNOWNS
(Dedicated to one of my favorite Supreme Court Justices.)

"You journalists," said the justice, "give too much publicity to the big shots in the Capital who don't need it. But you ignore hundreds of able men here who are doing extraordinary work. Why don't you throw your spotlight on some of them?"

Well, here goes. And none of these gets as much pay as a good shortstop.

Maybe it isn't fair to call these experts unknown . . . In their own fields they are very well known.

But the general public seldom hears of them, though their work is often more important than that of Senators and other big shots whose names you see regularly in the headlines and who get twice as much of your money.

In Washington there are hundreds like these.

Politics Denied On Defense Funds

Charge by Sen. Holt Called Baseless By Lowell Mellett

Charges that the President is using the national defense fund for political purposes by making public lists of contract awards compiled by States yesterday were declared to be untrue by Lowell Mellett, director of the Office of Government Reports.

Mellett said the baselessness of the accusations is proved by the fact that the information was distributed without regard for party affiliation and simply as a service to State and Federal officials who are beginning to be deluged with requests for data.

Aroused by charges by Senator Holt (Democrat), of West Virginia, that Democratic members of Congress were being provided with information for use in the Presidential campaign, Mellett pointed out that the only Congressmen who did not receive compilations were those from eight States which did not receive defense contracts during the period covered by the report.

To each Governor and to the Representatives and Senators of 40 States, Mellett explained, were sent statements of contracts let from June 13 to July 12 broken down by States and including names of firms receiving the contracts.

As evidence of the strictly nonpartisan character of the service, Mellett produced letters from leading Republican Senators and Representatives thanking him for the information and asking for more. In letters accompanying the statements, Mellett advised that his office is planning to distribute similar information on the first and fifteenth of each month.

Mellett said a similar service was provided by his office in the past, covering other Government contract expenditures.

The National Defense Commission, meanwhile, announced compilation of contract awards covering $1,650,000,000 in defense expenditures from June 6 to July 17.

Knudsen Urges Spending Now As Defense Saving

Immediate spending for national defense as a saving to the Nation was urged by William S. Knudsen, national defense commissioner, in a radio interview last night.

He pointed out that large amounts of money spent at the start of the national defense program will save the manufacturer enough to pay for plant expansion and extra tools. This would eventually result in a saving to the Government, he said.

Knudsen, who spoke over an N. B. C. network, predicted that by autumn American airplane capacity would jump from 900 planes monthly, the present capacity, to 1,500. Present production of airplane motors is 2,200, he said. Knudsen was interviewed by Robert S. Allen and Drew Pearson.

Court Clears Six In Buchalter Case

New York, July 29 (AP).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled today that supplying money to fugitives from justice—even as much as $500 a week to the Nation's No. 1 racketeer—is not a violation of Federal laws against harboring and concealing fugitives.

The unanimous decision reversed and set aside the conviction of five individuals and two corporations charged with conspiring to harbor and conceal the now imprisoned industrial racketeers, Louis (Lepke) Buchalter and Jacob (Gurrah) Shapiro.

Curiously, the opinion was based largely upon a previous legal interpretation by former Federal Judge Martin T. Manton, who now is serving a Federal prison term for obstructing justice.

Force of Necessity

By the Associated Press

San Francisco, July 29.—The United States probably will have to embrace to some degre "a policy of barter or compensation trade" pending the restoration of normal economc processes after the war era, Joseph C. Rovensky, international financial authority, told the National Foreign Trade Council conventon today.

At the same time, he said, this country might maintain "in so far as possible the continuance of reciprocal trade agreements where the position of the other countries permits a free interchange of goods on a multilateral basis."

Rovensky, vice president of the Chase National Bank of New York and president of the Bankers Association for Foreign Trade, said Secretary Hull's reciprocal trade policy was "sound in conception under normal conditions and has been ably administered despite the extreme difficulties which have arisen to impede its practical operaton.

Expediency and Necessity

"Once the conflicts throughout the world have subsided, it is to be hoped that his policy will receive broader recognition and more general application by other countries.

"It is entirely probable, however, that before this happens a period will intervene when, in order to keep our foreign trade going, we . . . shall also adopt trading practices born of expediency and necessity and outside the realm of free trade principles, and that we shall, because our own national welfare is also greatly involved, lend our assistance and cooperation to those countries which play the game squarely with us."

Rovensky did not further amplify his remark about barter prospects nor mention what countries might be involved.

Economic Front Suggested

An "economic front" made up of the American nations and the countries of the British Empire was suggested by James A. Farrell, retired steelmaster, to match Europe's prospective totalitarian economic bloc.

He said the United States should continue to look toward Europe, regardless of the outcome of the present war, as a potential market for its surplus agricultural and industrial goods, but that it probably would have to deal with a union of dictatorships.

Farrell, former head of the United States Steel Corporation, is chairman of the council.

He said the uncertainty of America's trade outlook in the Orient in view of the Chinese-Japanese conflict and the prospective independence of the Philippines made it necessary to strengthen "our bargaining power with a European economic bloc comprising our former leading markets."

"With Europe under a dictatorship," he said, "we would have to match the power of a European economic union with the combined power of this Western Hemisphere in bargaining our way through to a reciprocal commercial understanding.

"Pan America and the British Empire combined would establish an economic front to the rest of the world with bargaining power adequate to secure equality of treatment and fair dealing in international commerce."

Immediate preparations in the Western Hemisphere to meet a "potential threat" of "economic vassalage" involving the nations of Latin America were advocated by Edward J. Noble, Undersecretary of Commerce. He suggested formation of "a counter economic force on this continent," backed by "adequate financial support" from the United States.

Gamble Is Serious

"It is a downright serious matter to chip in several hundreds of millions of dollars on such a risk . . ." but "not to do so might be an even greater gamble with the possibilities of an existence under the blessings of a totalitarian-dominated civilization."

He cited lack of financial stability "in some countries" as a "vulnerable spot," and said "certain it is, that no association for mutual protection is stronger than its weakest member . . .

"The fact that our markets for some $600,000,000 worth of goods annually might also be threatened (as a result of the European war) would be of little moment compared to the subordination of one or all of those (Latin American) countries to the political ideologies of a totalitarian-directed Europe."

Legislators Get Excess Profits Tax Plan Today

Levy Is Calculated From Combination of Average Income, Yield

By the Associated Press

A tax on excess profits calculated from a combination of average income and yield on invested capital was being whipped into shape yesterday for presentation today at a joint meeting of Congressional tax experts and some members of the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means committees.

Although no decisions have yet been reached on the form of the tax or the rates, The Post learned last night that a tentative Treasury proposal will run along these lines:

In the case of corporations of $500,000 invested capital or less, the excess profits tax would apply on profits over 6 per cent of invested capital, if the corporation's earnings for the years 1936-39 have averaged 6 per cent or less; if the average earnings have been between 6 and 10 per cent, the tax will apply on profits above that average point; and if the earnings have been over 10 per cent of invested capital for the three-year period, the excess profits tax will begin at 10 per cent.

8 Per Cent Base

According to another version, 8 per cent instead of 6 per cent is the base level at which the tax would begin to apply.

For corporations with capital over $500,000, it is tentatively proposed to apply the exemptions already described to the first $500,000. But on capital in excess of that figure, a 4 per cent exemption would be granted if average earnings for 1936-39 have been not more than 4 per cent; if the earnings have been between 4 and 10 per cent, the excess profits tax would begin at that point; and if the earnings have been over 10 per cent, all profit over 10 per cent would be taxed at the new rates.

Six per cent instead of 4 has been suggested as an alternative base figure in this category.

For new companies with no 1936-39 record, excess profits would be considered to start at 8 per cent of invested capital.

Rates Not Decided Upon

In calculating invested capital, it is proposed to allow small companies to include borrowings in the figure, provided the total is not in excess of $100,000.

But for sizable borrowings up to $1,000,000, it is suggested that 66 2-3 per cent be permitted to be included in the total of invested capital; while 33 1-3 per cent of borrowings in excess of $1,000,000 could be included in capital investment.

Rates are not even tentatively decided upon; but one proposal that may be accepted entails a levy of 20 per cent on "excess profits" up to 15 per cent of capital investment (after exemptions have been allowed), running on a graduated scale up to a maximum 50 per cent tax on very high "excess profits."

It is understood that, in general, the proposed levy would be lighter than the corresponding excess profits taxes of the last war.

Browder Asks to Have Conviction Set Aside

Earl Browder, Communist candidate for President, petitioned the Supreme Court yesterday to set aside his conviction on a charge of falsifying a passport.

Browder was convicted in the Federal Court of Southern New York and sentenced to two years' imprisonment and fined $2,000.

Browder insisted in his petition that the "use" he had made of the passport was to show it to port officials as a means of identification as an American citizen on his return to this country.

Larger Jobless Benefits Voted Rail Workers

Senate Approves Increase; Rejects Plan To Reduce Pay Tax

By the Associated Press

The Senate approved larger unemployment benefits for railroad workers yesterday in accepting a number of amendments to the 1938 act establishing a Federal system of railroad unemployment insurance.

The amendments, which will affect nearly 1,000,000 railroad workers, were approved after the chamber rejected a substitute sponsored by Senator Gurney (Republican), of South Dakota, and other Republicans. This sought to increase unemployment benefits slightly while reducing unemployment taxes upon railroads when the insurance reserve reached specified levels.

Asserting that a $150,000,000 reserve fund already had been accumulated, Senator Wagner (Democrat), of New York, urged the increased benefits.

Wagner contended that average weekly payments of $7 to unemployed railroad workers under the Federal act were "inadequate" and below an average of $10 weekly for State unemployment programs.

"These additional benefits can be provided without one cent of additional taxes on the railroads," he added.

The present 3 per cent payroll tax on carriers, he said, provided about $60,000,000 annually and he added that only $16,000,000 had been spent last year for unemployment benefits.

Senator Gurney asked the Senate to approve a reduction in payroll taxes on railroads graduated according to the size of the reserve funds.

Gurney said the present 3 per cent tax should be reduced to 2 per cent when the reserve was between $100,000,000 and $125,000,000, and to 1 per cent if the reserve was over $125,000,000.

Norris Advocates Adjournment to Reduce 'Hysteria'

Senator Norris (Independent), of Nebraska, said yesterday that "Congress has become the hysteria center of the country," and urged adjournment on the ground that further sessions would be "dangerous," but others held that prospective defense measures made chances remote for leaving the sizzling Capital.

"There is not a member of Congress who is in shape to pass upon legislation," Norris said in an interview, referring to the heat wave.

"Congress has not done a damn thing since before the Republican convention and it's in no mood to do things right now. All this talking and bickering only tends to produce nysteria."

Majority Leader Barkley (Democrat), of Kentucky, who unsuccessfully urged adjournment before the political conventions, said that "no one can predict when Congress will adjourn" on account of pending measures.

Senator McNary (Republican), of Oregon, Republican leader and Vice Presidential nominee, was unchanged in his demand that Congress stay on the job even during the fall campaign.

Sawyer Says Willkie Was 'Tearful' Over Browder, Cites Magazine Piece

Charles Sawyer, Democratic National Committeeman from Ohio, yesterday asked Senator Taft (Republican), of Ohio, whether Wendell Willkie, if elected, would "undertake to secure a pardon or parole" for Earl Browder, Communist leader convicted of passport fraud.

SAWYER

Sawyer cited an article he said Willkie had written in the New Republic March 12 in which "he became tearful over the fact that Mr. Earl Browder has been sentenced to two years in the penitentiary and had been given a $2,000 fine.

Sawyer wrote Taft because, he said, he had received a letter from the Senator soliciting a contribution for Willkie's campaign. The letter, on stationery of the Senate Appropriations Committee, indicated that Taft was soliciting "my fellow attorneys in Hamilton County" in behalf of the Ohio Republican finance committee.

Sawyer replied that he was sure Willkie would "cheerfully contribute to his own campaign."

"He will doubtless do better," Sawyer wrote, "than he did when he was a Democrat and contributed $150 to the national campaign. Furthermore, he has a lot of friends who have a lot of money"

New York, July 29 (AP).—Jacob Potofsky, assistant general president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America (C. I. O.) today urged the 180,000 members of that organization to support President Roosevelt for a third term.

In letters to the members, he declared the union took the lead in drafting President Roosevelt, and added that "this is no time to go window-shopping for suitable and willing but untried candidates for President."

Agriculture Secretary Wallace, Democratic Vice Presidential nominee, has administered sugar quota legislation "to give as little advantage as possible to American growers," Senator Thomas (Republican), of Idaho, charged in the Senate yesterday. Thomas urged expansion of domestic quota production and urged the Administration to permit American growers to build reserves of sugar as a defense step.

"This Administration," he said, "has followed a policy which has tended to discourage in every way possible the domestic sugar industry."

Lincoln, Nebr., July 29 (AP).—David Lasser, former president of the Workers Alliance, said here today a new organization of unemployed and relief workers will be perfected at Chicago, August 19-21.

New York Greets Liner America

New York, July 29 (AP).—Down to the sea in ships went hundreds of New Yorkers today to welcome America's newest and largest liner as she proudly came up from the sea on her maiden voyage to her home port.

Gleaming queen of the American Merchant Marine, the S. S. America—a 34,500-ton vessel costing $17,500,000—was given one of the most impressive receptions in years in New York's haze-hung harbor.

She was home and New York showed it.

The America, herself, carrying 851 passengers—Congressmen, shipping representatives, newspapermen and others—was gaily decorated for the voyage from Newport News, Va., where she was built.

Her reception started far out in the bay when Navy blimps, Army planes and Coast Guard ships greeted her. The procession grew steadily and by the time the America reached the Upper Bay some 50 craft swarmed around the big liner.

From the Battery to her pier there was incessant noise—the whistles of tugboats, ferry boats, freighters, fire boats, scows; the deep-throated fog horn of the America; the roar of planes; the honking of automobile horns; the blare of bands; the cheers of spectators.

Thousands watched the arrival from vantage points ashore. Hundreds were aboard sight-seeing vessels, tug boats and launches, including craft carrying official greeters.

All in all, it was a reception like the greetings in the old-time, pre-depression days. It was the first such reception for an American ship since the Washington arrived for the first time in 1933. Since then, New York has welcomed the British Queen Mary and French Normandie in royal style and today's affair, while not as elaborate as those, followed the same pattern.

Capt. Giles C. Stedman, her skipper, said the 729-foot ship touched 24 knots in a test during the trip from Newport News and "could go faster" although built for 22 knots.

The America, the first ship contracted for under the Maritime Commission's 10-year building program, was launched a year ago with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt as sponsor. She will start active duty August 10 in the West Indies cruise service.

Guild Officer Sees Threat To Labor Act

Proposed Definition For Professional Would Limit Law, He Says

Victor Pasche, executive secretary of the American Newspaper Guild, said yesterday that proposed new definitions for professional and administrative workers under the wage-hour regulations would "defeat the purpose of the act or whittle down its coverage."

Pasche said that a new set of definitions, supported by the American Newspaper Publishers Association, would make all jobs which call for the exercise of judgment or discretion exempt from the wage-hour law. This standard, said Pasche, would "exempt a majority of all wage earners in the country, if not cancel out the act entirely."

The guild official gave his statement in the final session of the wage-hour division's hearing on proposed amendments to the present definitions for executive, administrative and professional workers in the newspaper business, communications industry and others.

Professionals Exempt

Under the act, "bona fide" administrative, executive and professional are exempt from minimum wage and maximum hour standards.

Pasche said the publisers' association "would like to have the entire newspaper industry exempted from application of the Fair Labor Standards Act, and if that can't be done they would like to have most of its employes ruled out."

He said that three journalism school deans, who last week urged changes in the definitions, "would like a situation in which only journalism school graduates could qualify for newspaper employment."

Both publishers and deans of the journalism schools, said Pasche, had expressed "solicitude" for giving newspaper employes a "professonal status" which would remove them from the protection of the act.

Says Employes Want Protection

"Employes have expressed themselves clearly in favor of obtaining the protection intended by the wage hour law," Pashe said.

Elisha Hanson, attorney for the ANPA, asked Pasche whether guild organizers had not originally solicited members on the basis that it was a "professional organization." Pasche said it had not.

Under additional questioning by Hanson, Pasche said the guild "by and large" refused to enter contracts on an hourly pay basis.

"Even if the administration should change the definitions," asked Hanson, "how would that affect negotiation of contracts by the guild or mechanical departments?"

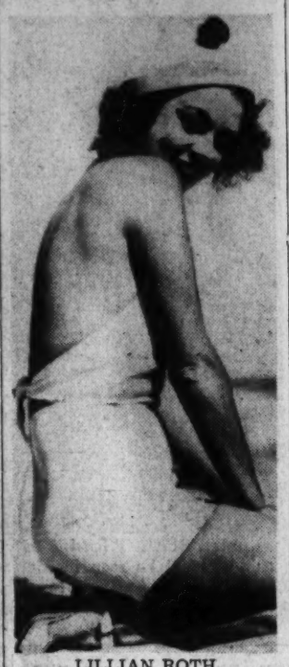
Other Labor Representatives Heard

"I wasn't arguing that point," said Pasche, adding that the guild wanted protection for all persons covered by the act.

Pasche was one of half a dozen labor union representatives, including members of radio and screen unions, who opposed changes in the definitions in a day-long hearing, before Harold Stein, wage-hour examiner.

Stein said he would report his recommendations on the proposed changes in definition to Wage-Hour Administrator Fleming in "three or four weeks."

Wagers $5,000 On Roosevelt



LILLIAN ROTH, stage and screen actress, told Republicans and anti-third-term Democrats yesterday, in effect, to "put up or shut up." She deposited a certified check for $5,000 with a Chicago commission broker to be wagered that President Roosevelt will be re-elected.

Wage Board to Enlarge Staff To Act on Fair Labor Complaints

Expanded activities of the District Minimum Wage Board, under an agreement reached yesterday with the Labor Department Wage and Hour Division, will necessitate enlargement of the board's staff to cope with an expected increase in business, Mrs. William Kittle, chairman, said last night.

The board, it was announced, will handle all complaints of violations under the Fair Labor Standards Act in Washington. Heretofore, the board's functions had been restricted to problems relating to maximum hours and minimum wages of women and minor workers.

Investigations of all reported wage and hour violations will now be conducted by the District group under an agreement announced yesterday by Col. Philip B. Fleming, Administrator of the Labor Department Wage and Hour Division.

At least one and possibly more inspectors and several new office workers will be added to the board's staff in order to take care of the new duties, Mrs. Kittle said.

The agreement is in accord with contracts signed with State departments of labor by which State agencies handle such cases in their respective jurisdictions.

Under terms of the agreement, complaints received by the Wage and Hour Division will be forwarded to the District board's offices in the same manner that complaints are now sent to regional offices in the various States.

Senate Report Lays Abuses To Railroad

By the Associated Press

The Missouri Pacific system was charged yesterday with "milking" numerous subsidiary railroads to the "verge of bankruptcy" between 1926 and 1931, in a report by a Senate Interstate Commerce sub-committee.

The report was written by Senators Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, and Truman (Democrat)) Missouri.

In a summary of financial operations of the 80-company Missouri Pacific system, the Senators said that "when one railroad is controlled by another, and the latter is controlled by a holding company, dividends may be declared without regard for the best interests of the railroads themselves, but rather to further the interests of the holding company in control."

The report said many of the "abuses" on the Missouri Pacific system followed acquisition of the 80 companies in 1930 by "Alleghany Corporation, the Cleveland holding company formed by the Van Sweringens with the banking assistance of J. P. Morgan & Co."

In order to obtain dividends, the Senators said, it was necessary for the Missouri Pacific system to "juggle its accounts, lay off employes, cut payrolls to the bone, skimp on maintenance, postpone necessary improvements of road and equipment, borrow money to pay interest, defy accounting regulations of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and finally to despoil its own security holders by declaring dividends out of capital."

The report said "dividends of many companies in the Missouri Pacific system were continued until December 1931; in February 1932 the Missouri Pacific was waiting on the doorstep of the Reconstruction Finance Corparation for Government aid, and in 1933 it was bankrupt.

"The improvident dividend policies engaged in by Missouri Pacific system roads both before and after acquisition of control by Alleghany Corporation were one of the causes of the current bankruptcies of the Missouri Pacific and many of its subsidiaries, hastening them and intensifying their effects."

Women's Bureau Opposes Home Work in Program

Opposition to industrial home work was voiced by the Women's Bureau, Department of Labor, in its first report yesterday on standards for the employment of women in the defense program.

Miss Anderson

The report, prepared in collaboration with the Labor Advisory Committee, representing eight major union groups in which women are active, held that "home manufacture of industrial products is not likely to result in the best production methods."

"As a system it is one of the worst forms of exploitation from the viewpoint of the workers and of competition among employers," it added. "Women as the industrial home workers suffer particularly from this system."

Miss Mary Anderson, director of the Women's Bureau, said, "Women can do many jobs as well as, if not better than, men, but it is not the aim to have women replace men."

The advisory committee said that women excel in work requiring care and constant alertness, skill but little strength, and that requiring manipulative dexterity.

Its report warned against effort to speed up production by means of longer hour schedules.

Seattle, July 29 (AP).—Great Britain has taken over a French order for 300 Douglas attack bombers, Boeing Aircraft Co. officials disclosed today.

The French order had resulted in a plant expansion program, soon to be completed, costing the French $3,000,000.

Officials said the order was handled jointly by the Anglo-French purchasing mission and the contract contained a clause permitting the British to take it over.

The company plans to have the first of the bombers in the air by January, 1941.

New York, July 29 (AP).—Secretary of War Stimson got his first 18-gun salute this morning.

Stimson and his new assistant, former Federal Judge Robert Paterson, arrived at the Army's Mitchel Field, on Long Island, from the secretary's West Hills home to take a plane to Washington.

Field officials thumbed over the regulation books and found that the Secretary of War is entitled to an 18-gun salute on entering office and an additional salute once a year, and figured that while they had him handy to some guns, they might as well do him the honor.

New York, July 29 (AP).—The New York Telephone Co. announced today that it had addressed a letter to each of its 40,000 employes requesting "detailed information, not hitherto felt necessary, about their citizenship."

The letter, which lists the provisions of the laws pertaining to the secrecy of communication, read in part:

"Current conditions serve to emphasize our individual obligations to our country and its traditions, that it is up to each of us to do everything in his or her power to guard against those conditions which have contributed to the tragic events abroad, and to cooperate for the preservation and strengthening of our own national unity."

Senator Reynolds (Democrat), of North Carolina, protested in the Senate yesterday what he said was the practice by some government contractors of purchasing insurance from foreign companies.

Reynolds said he was informed that one firm holding a contract for $30,000,000 worth of construction work in the Panama Canal Zone had paid a $300,000 premium to Lloyds of London for insurance on its workers.

He contended that Lloyds paid virtually no taxes in the United States.

U. S. Employes Ask Uniform Heat Policy

By Edward Ryan

James B. Burns, president of the American Federation of Government Employes, yesterday urged Government personnel chiefs to work out a uniform policy for excusing employes from their jobs in hot weather.

Burns, in a letter to Dr. Frederick M. Davenport, chairman of the Council of Personnel Administration, said that unbearable heat reduces the efficiency of Government workers. He cited the Agriculture Department heat policy, whereby employes are dismissed whenever the "effective temperature," combining humidity and thermometer readings, reaches 84, according to the scale used by the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers.

Burns suggested, however, that a lower "effective temperature" than 84 be used in a Government standard hot weather policy and urged that when the uniform policy is adopted it apply both in Washington and the field service.

Aim of the personnel chiefs, he said, should be "the standardization of procedure which would automatically insure relief for the thousands of Government employes in activities housed in other than air-conditioned quarters here and elsewhere."

A standard policy, said Burns, "would remove the personal element in determining that work should continue in one building while it ceases in another."

It was reported earlier that many of the personnel chiefs individually had expressed interest in the Agriculture heat policy, also being tried in Commerce, and several had indicated that they would seek adoption of the "effective temperature" plan in their agencies.

The Social Security Board is on the lookout for trained Government workers with legal education to take over 100 new jobs in the expanding Bureau of Old Age and Survivors Insurance, officials said yesterday.

The jobs call for employes with Civil Service status and at least two years of law school training. Starting salaries are $1,620 and $2,000, and officials said that the new employes who make "outstanding records" will be eligible for some expected new $2,600 jobs.

Their work will be to adjudicate insurance claims in the Washington office. Employe applications for transfer to the new jobs are being taken at the Board's personnel office, 1724 F street northwest.

Calendar: Two bands in "a batle of music," and a floor show, will be presented on a "show boat" cruise aboard the S. S. Potomac for members of the District Department, American Federation of Government Employes, starting at 8:45 p. m. tomorrow. . . . The District Federation of Federal Employe Unions will take its annual Potomac cruise August 15.

jury and he forfeited $4 collateral on minor charges of failing to exhibit his driver's permit and auto registration card. He had left them at home, police said.

The misfortune was the worst of a series that have beset the O'Donald family during the past three years.

Edith, the oldest, according to her mother, has been living with an aunt in Maryland Park because the O'Donald's, on relief, have had a hard time trying to feed and clothe the large family. A week ago Sun-Edith suffered a sunstroke, and when taken from the hospital yesterday was still very weak.

O'Donald, who is a 50-year-old war veteran and a painter by trade, is tubercular and too ill to work, Mrs. O'Donald said. Mrs. O'Donald, 33, is a practical nurse, but has found little work.

Until Wiona's death there were seven children, between 2 and 14 years old. Several have no shoes, clothing, or beds, Mrs. O'Donald revealed. Wiona, she said, was barefooted and dressed only in underwear when hit by the auto.

"I'll have to worry about shoes when summer is over," Mrs. O'Donald added. "Right now my main worry is Liona's funeral. We haven't a cent for the burial."

Swiss Deny Nazis Seek Their War Supplies

Copyright by New York Tribune, Inc.

London, July 29.—Despite a denial by Swiss officials that Germany had "requested" a share of Switzerland's war reserves of oil, food and grain, official British circles at London said tonight that they expected a confirmation of the Nazi demands 'any day now."

Meanwhile, the British government, it was reported, has given notice to the Swiss government of its intention to terminate the existing war trade agreement between the two countries, under which the Swiss were permitted to accumulate reserve stocks, now demanded by the Germans. Termination of the agreement would be a prelude to intensification of the British naval blockade of continental Europe, which would "ration" even more severely Switzerland, and other European neutrals, in order to prevent excess supplies from falling into enemy hands.

Dr. Barnett's spade bid on the second round effectively prevented Marcus from leading that suit, with his ace-queen holding. Clubs, diamonds and hearts all broke nicely, and declarer ran off 13 tricks to win his contract and one more.

Seven clubs or seven hearts can be made, but no team dared it. Clubs would be a better declaration than either hearts or no trump, for in addition to eliminating spade losers, declarer would have an opportunity to ruff out losers in the side suits if they did not break.

One might call Dr. Barnett's spade bid something of a psychic, for, while that was not his intention, it certainly had the effect of a psychic. There are many bluff plays that can be compared to bluff bids; the false-card is one of these.

Noel Coward to Visit Capital With Information for Lothian

By Inez Robb.

International News Service Staff Writer

New York, July 29.—Noel Coward has returned to America, but not to Broadway, in a new part and a new production. The esteemed English author, actor and playwright arrived from London today aboard the Britannic to star in a war drama spiced with mystery, salted with adventure and devised by his own government.

As the personal messenger of Alfred Duff Cooper, minister of information in the Churchill cabinet, Coward bears information destined for Lord Lothian, British Ambassador to the United States.

He will go to Washington tomorrow, he said, without revealing whether his stay there would be more than fleeting.

Coward refused even to hint at the nature of the information, which apparently was too important to be intrusted to mail, cable or trans-Atlantic telephone.

If he refused to discuss his mission he was voluble, if unexpectedly serious for an international wit, on several other subjects. He passed confidently over any possible invasion of England and said that winter would be a great and terrible ally for his country. He believes that Europe will not only be laid waste by famine but by pestilence during the coming winter months.

"Winter will confront the United States with a stupendous problem," Coward said. "You will be asked to feed a starving continent and it will be your generous impulse to do so.

"But if you would preserve liberty and freedom throughout the world, I beg of you to harden your hearts and to close your ears. It is an awful decision, and it must be made in the face of unimagined suffering.

"But if you feed Hitler's victims, you feed Germany itself. This is no longer a fight between England and Germany, but a war for the survival of the things free men value above all others.

"It will certainly be interesting if that tiny little island of ours can outfight Hitler, and I am absolutely certain that she can."

The seven-day wonder of salon society was as suave and carelessly impeccable as ever today as he sweltered—he even manages to do that debonairly—in New York's July heat-wave. But the sleek and scintillating sophistication that has been his hall-mark for two decades was missing. There were still flashes of his old wit but, on the whole, the new Coward is a serious man.

YOU, TOO, CAN AVOID BALDNESS

YOU: My scalp almost drives me crazy—it itches, is thick with dandruff, and my hair is getting very thin. What is the matter?

THOMAS EXPERT: Some of the 14 local scalp troubles which cause 85% of all baldness are attacking your hair growing structure and making it impossible for your hair to grow as nature intends it should.

YOU: I've tried everything—can't you do something to help me? I don't want to be bald!

THOMAS EXPERT: We can help you save your hair. We have helped a quarter-million other persons during the past 20 years.

YOU: What does Thomas treatment do?

THOMAS EXPERT: Thomas experts first determine the exact cause of hair loss. We then rid your scalp of local infections which results in stopping the itch and in normalizing your hairfall. We then stimulate the dormant sources of hair-growth and help nature to grow hair.

YOU: Can you help everyone?

THOMAS EXPERT: No, we treat only the 14 local causes of baldness. We examine each person's scalp—without charge or obligation—and those who do not come within the scope of our treatment are frankly told.

YOU: Let's start today. You have 45 offices—have been successful for 20 years—"such popularity must be deserved."

'My Love Came Back' to Rhythms of 'Hot Swing'!

Next Film at Earle Is Amusing Musico-Drama; Eddie Leonard, Famous Minstrel, Near Death; This, That and the Other About the Theater

MUSICAL, BUT NOT A MUSICAL, if you know what we mean, "My Love Came Back" will offer a distinct contrast to its three-week predecessor when it opens on the screen at the Earle Theater this Friday.

BELL

There are none of the lugubrious implications of war, tragedy or thwarted lives in this Warner Brothers' subject, designed, quite obviously, for the sheer purpose of providing "escape" to the masses in quest of entertainment. Revolving about the romantic developments in a celebrated conservatory of music, this tuneful item follows more or less the pattern of a long list of earlier screen plays that have devoted themselves to the emergence of a new type of music from ancient classical standards. Dusty Rhodes, a student of the stodgier kinds of melodic charm, decides finally to "swing it" as a convenient means of substituting dollars for art. The star violinist of the Brissac College of Music, against her better instincts, goes along with him—largely through force of comparable circumstances—and the result is an unequivocal triumph for all concerned.

This does not come about, however, until one has been caused to wonder how the innocently philandering patron of the arts is going to square his monetary benefactions with an understanding wife and a couple of misunderstanding children. The tricky business was successfully maneuvered at yesterday afternoon's preview and probably will be at every performance after the picture spreads itself across the Earle screen, come Friday.

Olivia de Havilland, making her first screen appearance since her memorable performance as Melanie in "GWTW," is the young virtuosa of the piece. One of the most remarkable aspects of her chore before the cameras is that, to one who knows little enough about it, she seems to finger her violin as if she really were playing it with the skill of a Kreisler or an Elman. Eddie Albert is similarly deceptive at the piano.

Charles Winninger, Jeffrey Lynn, Grant Mitchell, Spring Byington, Ann Gillis and William Orr are the others who do most to make this musico-drama something a little bit out of the groove—or in it, according to the point of view. Not big, but buoyant.

An anonymous telephone message, scribbled on a desk pad while this column was absorbed in similar domestic discomfitures, brings word that that veteran minstrel man, Eddie Leonard, lies at the point of death in the Paramount Hotel, in New York, following a major operation performed last Friday. Eddie, whose last personal appearance in Washington was at the Earle Theater, is one of the old-school, burnt-cork artists and almost the last of his tribe. His inimitable soft-shoe dances and his "wah-wah-wah" style of singing will remain in ancient memories long after Eddie has departed this mortal coil—which everyone who ever knew him hopes will not be soon.

Walter Kerr, young drama instructor at Catholic University, is enjoying the authorial thrill of seeing two of his plays presented in the same week in the Capital. His dramatic version of "The Vicar of Wakefield" will be the piece de resistance of the Summer Festival performance in the National Sylvan Theater tonight. Tomorrow night, in the University Theater, his latest comedy, "Art and Prudence," will be acted by the drama group of the Department of Speech and Drama. The Rev. Gilbert Hartke, O. P., has directed the latter work, for which Ralph Brown has designed the settings.

As a check against our own enthusiasm over what seemed to us a film of unusual significance at just this time, we inquired of Manager Hardie Meakin as to precisely what public appeal "The Ramparts We Watch" might be exerting at his Fifteenth street opera house. It is, to all intents and purposes, hanging the customers from the chandeliers, running far ahead of the first week of "My Favorite Wife," which remained at RKO-Keith's until most of us got tired of counting the weeks. I'm not sure, yet, whether it was four weeks or five. Anyhow, "Ramparts" bids fair to do better.

Remember an attenuated, blond, Washington youngster by the name of Dick Nash, who made something of a local reputation as a lariat-swinging impersonator of the late Will Rogers, a dozen years or so ago? Well, Dick now has teamed with a young woman by the name of Evans, from Rockford, Ill., and they are scoring a current hit as Nash & Evans on the bill at the Roxy Theater, New York. Yeah, they're still doing a comedy rope-spinning act. Just thought you might like to know.

The 300,000 attendance mark for Paul Green's historical drama of "The Lost Colony," at the Waterside Theater, Manteo, N. C., was reached last week. The 300,000th ticket was presented to Mrs. John A. Buchanan, Durham, S. C., on her seventeenth visit to Roanoke Island to see the play.

'Fallen Angels' Dialogue Is a Welcome Tonic

By Richard L. Coe

Noel Coward's brittle banter falls like the gentle rain from heaven these next two weeks out at Cross Roads Theater and a downright relief it is, too, after a summer's diet of down-to-earth lines and everyday generalities on our barn stages. "Fallen Angels" is the play and it's of the prewar Coward who spun off those gossamer trifles about our decadent betters.

For "Fallen Angels," a new play to this locale, covers 24 hours of merry cuckoldry in London of 1937. Its mores and setting are of that group of people whom only yesterday Inez Robb described as those "who went to the same places at the same time in order to do nothing together." And what a mahvalous time they had the Cross Roaders will show you, with beauteous Catharine Ryan leading the pack. It's swell fun.

Julia and Jane are two dear friends. They live in adjacent flats and their husbands play golf together. When they get new maids with unbecoming names like Jasamine they change the names to something like Saunders. They both look back on gay flings each had in Italy before their marriages. One of the fondest memories both have is Maurice. Ah, Maurice!

And now Maurice has sent each appropriate word that he is coming to London. The ladies are delighted, their husbands are away and with only a few internal bickerings they plan to receive him with open arms, figurative and literal.

Of all the past generation's playwrights, of course, no one could tell this tale so spicily, so brightly as Noel Coward and tell it he does with whipping interjections that make Miss Clare Boothe's lines in "The Women" seem as though they had been lifted from Capt. Billy's Whiz Bang.

Catharine Ryan is enticingly elegant as the more uninhibited of the two schemers. She looks the part, dresses the part, spoofs about charmingly, yet remains enchantingly feminine throughout. Her drunken scene alone rates her one of this department's closely guarded gold-encrusted cowbells.

In a less juicy part, Elizabeth Winburn, who did so well a few weeks back in "A Woman's a Fool," offers a nicely contrasting picture of a more restrained woman who is out for the same things.

There isn't much for the men to do and, thanks to the ladies, no one misses them a bit. In a part that has a dangerously terrific build-up Austin Gattis is surprisingly effective as Maurice even down to the suave manner of that rapid liar. Forney Reese and Sidney Bassler are the husbands while Esther Kessler is the amazed Saunders.

Howard Wentworth's direction has happily emphasized the pace of the piece. Try "Fallen Angels" and you'll regain for a few hours the era of glorious nonsense.

The New Yorker

By Leonard Lyons

New York, July 29.

". . . and you've got to decide about our vacation-plans immediately . . . Yes, dear, I know the column keeps you busy . . . What? Busy as a one-armed paperhanger? . . . Well, if you think that's being busy—what about that two-armed paperhanger named Hitler?'

11 P. M.: "Well, here's the bet I lost to you, about my father's nomination," Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., states, paying off at the Stork Club. "When we made that bet—in April, wasn't it?—I felt that his personal reluctance to continue would prevail over whatever emergency arose. I was right, in April—but you win" . . . "Those English fliers must have a tough time, bombing only at night," Dick Merrill declares at Toots Shor's. "To give you an idea—I've been flying the N. Y.-Miami route for years, and know every small town en route. Yet at night, when the lights go out in those towns, I can't recognize many of them at all."

12 P. M.: "The Empress Zita," a fashion designer reports at the Havana-Madrid, "isn't coming to N. Y. yet. She's waiting until her clothes arrive from Europe, before showing N. Y. what a refugee-empress looks like" . . . "Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Maeterlinck were in for dinner," the headwaiter states at the Rainbow Room. "Auguste, our wine-captain, served him Botard-Montraecht, and Maeterlinck asked how Auguste knew that was his favorite wine. Auguste said: 'I used to serve you, sir, 18 years ago, in the Tavern Royale, in Brussels'" . . . "I played golf with Gene Sarazen," Eddie Cantor relates at the Riviera, "and at the 18th hole I asked him: 'Well, Gene, how do you like my game?' Gene said: 'I suppose it's all right, Eddie—but I still prefer golf.'"

1 A. M.: "I spoke to Henry Wallace, after his nomination," an editor informs at the Barberry Room, and he said that Roosevelt has a 'Map-Mind.' He explained—that most people can't visualize huge projects unless they see them first—but the President has the faculty of reducing broad things to scale . . . "The police chiefs of N. Y. held their convention here," Hy Garden confesses at the Astor. "So I had a printer make up phony summonses and pasted them on all their parked cars—as revenge for all the overtime parking summonses I've ever received" . . . At Sardi's, Douglas Gilbert tells John Golden, the producer, about the new book he has written about burlesque. "When will it be published?" asks Golden. "October? . . . Well, I may not be in town then, so I'll buy my copy now." Golden deposits $3.50 with one of the waiters, in payment for a copy of the still unpublished Gilbert book.

2 A. M.: "At 11 p. m. the lights went out at John Perona's Westchester Bath Club," a witness reports at Lum Fong's. "Perona didn't mind the dark, but it meant that he couldn't open his cash-registers, which are run by electricity—and the customers still hadn't paid their checks. Bill Plankington, whose trailer always has been ridiculed by the Perona set, finally saved the day. Bill removed the small generator from the trailer in which he lives, and connected it with the cash-registers, in time for all the bills to be paid" . . . "This producer fascinates all people at first meeting—but later they usually take a violent dislike to him," a playwright relates at the Gay 90's. "So, when a girl who once loved that producer told Noel Coward she now hated that man, Noel said: 'Of course. First the fever, and then the rash.'"

3 A. M.: "I just can't get this line off my mind. It haunts me," Dashiell Hammett confided at the 18 Club. "On the train I met a lady who told me her husband was a sea-captain, and had been lost at sea. Then she sighed, and said: 'They found nothing, except his body'" . . . "Here's a new kind of Dale Carnegie stunt," a salesman assures at the Hurricane. "Myron Nathan, who owns the largest office-furniture place in the world, says he can read a man's personality just by studying his desk" . . . "Victor Moore was up here," Sally Rand informs at the Cocoanut Grove. "He hadn't seen me work in 2 years, and he told me my routine has changed. Moore said: 'You're wearing your skirt shorter, Sally'" . . . "A Democratic Youth Movement is being organized, to combat the Fascist and Red youth groups in America," a ringsider reports at Leon & Eddie's. "Many prominent names will be on the roster."

4 A. M.: "Sally Ryan, the sculptress-grandaughter of Thomas Fortune Ryan," a socialite states at the Beachcomber, "will offer to do a portrait in bronze of the first person who donates $2,000 to the British war-relief fund" . . . "Jay Jostyn, who plays the D. A. in the radio series, 'Mr. District Attorney,' has been trying to meet Tom Dewey," a radio official relates at the Kit Kat. "Every week, regularly, Jay sends two passes to the broadcast to Dewey, but so far Tom never showed up" . . . "When Frank Sullivan reviewed Fred Schwed's book about Wall Street, 'Where Are the Customers' Yachts?' in the Herald Tribune," a reporter informed at the Cafe Pierre, "he wrote that if he ever woke up and found that he was J. P. Morgan, he'd take Schwed in as a partner. So Schwed wrote to Sullivan: 'If I ever woke up and found I was Mrs. Ogden Reid, I'd hire you as editor-in-chief, at a huge salary.'"

5 A. M.: "Actors, actors," Director Alfred Hitchcock sighs at Reuben's. "Disney's absolutely right. He handles them by drawing them—which is the best way of handling them" . . . "That reminds me," a producer informs, "Disney has decided upon the title for his new picture—the one in which Leopold Stokowski worked. The title will be 'Fantasia'" . . . "Henry Dunn has resigned as treasurer of AGVA," an agent states in Lindy's. "And Frank Veloz, of Veloz & Yolanda, has been offered the presidency of that union" . . . "There's a tip out on Cherry blintzes, fellas," Damon Runyon advises some of his horsemen-colleagues, who immediately order that dish. C. C. Green, the Broadway jeweler, arrives and discovers the group feasting on the blintzes. "Before I order," Green asks, "what's the handicap on those blintzes?"

6 A. M.: ". . . and you seem pale, dear . . . Anything happen in the clubs? What? Oh, so you drank orange-juice to keep pace with those Scotch-drinking friends of yours? . . . And it was drink for drink? No wonder you're sick . . . Who can drink so much orange-juice?"

In Hollywood

With Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, July 29.

You never realize how much ham you've got in you till you dine with pals from the theater. Dinner was at Bob Norths. He used to sing with the Ziegfeld Follies. When he no longer could afford to be an actor, turned producer, did lot of good silent pictures, and now carries on at Republic. Helen Broderick was there—just back from New York and a visit to Moss Hart at his Bucks County, Pa., farmhouse, where she read the new play Moss and George Kaufman wrote for her, which is the best part she's ever had—but she realized that for two years, instead of being able to jump from her bedroom into her swimming pool, she'd be facing bare walls of a theater dressing room, so just couldn't do it—and came home. And wonder of wonders—retained the boys' friendship, 'cause they understood how she felt.

HOPPER

Helen says, "You don't realize how this sunshine gets you until you go back East."

Moss Hart had just planted 3,500 pine trees. They were so close together that in a year or so even a rabbit won't be able to squeeze through. He wanted a forest—he'll get one!

When you're a guest of Moss, you find a row of buttons at the end of your bathtub so you have music by remote control (maybe as a boy he never knew the joy of singing in the tub). You press a button for Gershwin, Kern, Berlin, or Porter. Well, Helen gave herself a two-hour bath with Gershwin's music, and is hoping to make enough money in the next ten years to install the same thing in her own home.

We are trying to persuade Max Gordon to move his producing plans out here, so even in the sunshine we could get a whack at the theater. And who knows? There was a gleam in Max's eye, which, unless all my teachers of mind-reading missed their mark, makes me believe he was interested.

When the Shuberts produced that Olsen and Johnson "Hellzapoppin" show in Boston, it was the worst flop the Shuberts had ever had—which is going some. They apologized all over Boston for it. Went to New York and it was panned worse than "Abie's Irish Rose" ever was. Why you could have bought it for a nickel. Up to noon the day after it opened, not one ticket had been sold. Then Walter Winchell went to work on it, and they haven't had a vacant seat for three years.

"Which," said Max, "reminds me of you. Having nothing better to do, I turned on the radio one day in my New York office and heard 'lemons' then Hedda Hopper on the air. Now I suppose you're working the same kind of a blitzkrieg Winchell did. Wish I'd asked you what kind of pictures you liked before I did 'Abe Lincoln in Illinois.'"

When Clare Booth sold him the story of "Kiss the Boys Goodbye," she wrote it to Max in a letter. He bought it, then she wrote her play. The play was nothing like the letter, but he'd lost the letter and couldn't prove it.

Which took us to Bill LeBaron, who runs the artistic end of Paramount Studio, with Frank Freeman taking care of the business part. Bill wrote the musical comedy, "The Very Idea." Max had a piece of it. As he said, "Everybody in New York had a bigger slice of it than Bill."

And proving that ham comes out when you least expect it, a few months ago Bing Crosby persuaded LeBaron, who, believe me, has his hands full keeping all those Paramount babies in line, to have a little fun, too. So LeBaron wrote some lyrics for "Rhythm on the River," and produced it with Bing and brought Oscar Levant from "Information Please" for it.

Louella O. Parsons'

Close-Ups and Long-Shots Of the Motion Picture Scene

Hollywood, July 29 (INS).—There may be funnier comedians in the world than Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, but if there are I haven't happened to meet them. This pair were so funny on the Kate Smith radio show that when I went to New York to be on the program, they had me and everybody who listened in stitches. Many times the boys have talked of making pictures and now at last they are actually coming to Hollywood August 29 for "Riviera."

LOUELLA O. PARSONS

For your information, "Riviera" is "Love Insurance," by Earl Derr Biggers, and Universal plans to make it one of their big pictures. Jerome Kern furnished the music and Allan Jones and Robert Cummings will be the featured players.

I can think of no one better fitted to fall heir to Douglas Fairbanks' dashing "Zorro" roles than Ty Power—and that's just exactly what Darryl Zanuck is planning. He had no more than seen the first rushes on "The Californian" (the former "Mark of Zorro") than he made up his mind that the fair-haired boy of the Twentieth Century-Fox lot would do a series of "Zorros." These swashbuckling Robin Hood yarns of early California days are already in preparation, being scripted by John Taintor Foote, who did "The Californian."

Difficult to believe all this chit-chat that William Powell and Diana Lewis are fighting like mad, although the rumors won't be downed. Every time I have seen these two together they seemed completely happy, so let's give their marriage a chance. They haven't been married a year yet. Bill's next picture will be with his favorite actress and screen wife, Myrna Loy. This time it's "Married Bachelor," by Manny Seff, a comedy of two married people that sounds a lot on the order of "The Thin Man."

Chatter in Hollywood: I must print that Penny Singleton and Robert Sparks will be married any day now—even if they should deny it. When I heard the story that Penny was about to obtain a divorce from her husband, Dr. Lawrence S. Singleton, she denied it. Two weeks later she obtained her divorce. Well, anyway, Penny and the producer of the "Blondie" series will soon say "I do!"

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Chester Morris is shopping for a house for his bride-to-be, Lillian Kenton Barker. They will wed after November 10, when his divorce is final. Jockey Jackie Westrope gave a party for Nan Grey in honor of her birthday at the Cafe Lamaze; the Don Ameche baby will be christened Michael; Linda Hayes, RKO acrtess, will wed Lew Crosby, radio announcer, when her divorce becomes final in February.

Woody Van Dyke, who has been a captain in the Marines, has been summoned to Washington, and he will go as soon as he finishes his picture; Mary Brian and Barry Trivers, Florine McKinney's ex, applauding Slapsie Maxie at his eatery; Cesar Romero beaued Alice Faye to Ciro's Saturday night; Artie Shaw glimpsed at the Cocoanut Grove with Pauline Byrne, who was one of the six-hits-and-a-miss girls.

That's all for today, see you tomorrow!

Britain Demands Tokyo Death Probe

Writer Ends Life After Arrest On Spy Charges

By the Associated Press

Tokyo (Tuesday), July 30.—Great Britain has demanded a full investigation into the death of Melville James Cox, veteran English newspaperman who, Japanese said, committed suicide after his arrest on espionage charges, reliable sources disclosed early today.

Britain also has called for substantiation of charges of a British "espionage network" operating in Japan following Tokyo's action in rounding up several prominent British businessmen.

Japanese officials said Cox, a Reuters correspondent, dodged his guards and hurled himself through a second-story window of the police headquarters while being questioned.

British officials were not inclined to accept a purported farewell note Cox was reported to have left.

Domei, the Japanese news agency, said the note was scribbled by Cox to his wifeand intended as a will. It read:

". . . I know what is best always, my only love. I have been well treated, but there is no doubt about how matters are going."

The Japanese foreign office issued a statement declaring Cox had been arrested on spy charges and "threw himself from the second story room of the Tokyo military police headquarters although guards [illegible] to prevent him."

Referring to the purported note, the statement concluded: "In light of the above note it would seem that, with progress of the investigation, the deceased became aware of the fact he could not escape conviction."

Regarding the arrest of other Britons, the statement said:

"In view of the ever increasing activities of foreign organs of espionage conspiracy in this country lately, the military police, under the direction of the prosecutors, arrested as a first step July 27 those constituting part of the British espionage network covering the entire country."

Churchill May Speak

London, July 29 (AP).—Prime minister Churchill may make a statement in Commons tomorrow on British representations to Japan over the arrest of 11 British citizens on charges of espionage.

Public indignation was apparent over the arrests and the reported suicide of Melville J. Cox, and there was talk in some quarters of retaliation, particularly in view of Britain's recent concessions to Japan in closing the Burma road to war supplies for the Chinese government.

The House of Commons is to meet in secret session tomorrow, but the Tokyo developments may result in a public debate.

Chinese Reject Peace Overture

Hongkong, July 29.—China was reported today to have turned down unconditionally Japanese peace overtures giving Japan five northern Chinese provinces outright, plus indirect hegemony over the Asiatic possessions of France and Britain.

Foreign quarters close to the Chungking government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek listed the Japanese proposals:

1. Outright cession by China to Japan of five provinces, Hopeh (which includes Tientsin and Peiping), Chahar, Shantung, Shansi and Suiyuan.

2. Recognition of Wang Ching-wei, Japan's puppet in Manking, as president of a Chinese republic made up of the remaining provinces plus British Burma, French Indo-China and Thailand (Siam), in which China and Japan would share economic opportunities.

(This proposal apparently was predictated on a defeat of Britain by Germany. France's defeat already has jeopardized her Asiatic possessions and Japan has wrung concessions from both Britain and France to increase her blockade of China. (Thailand is independent but unable to defend herself.)

3. The status of Manchukuo would be left in abeyance indefinitely.

Chiang Blocks Acceptance

When the proposals were communicated to to the Chiang government, it was said, the generalissimo led a successful fight to block their acceptance.

It was noted that early in July the Japanese press alleged that Chungking authorities were discussing peace seriously, but the reports did not reveal the terms.

British Shell Finds Mark, Damages Italian Warship

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

DIRECT HIT—Made aboard an Italian battleship July 9 during an engagement between British and Italian squadrons in the Mediterranean, photo shows Italian gun crew on the deck strewn with debris immediately after a British shell had found its mark. Nazis Raid Dover, Lose 17 Planes circled over Wales, dropping 14 bombs in one area. No antiaircraft fire was heard.

The Dover raid appeared to be Germany's first real test of British coastal defenses in a mass attack on a port, and it started innocently enough, with a single German reconnaisance plane rising through a great cloud into the blue and circling at well over 20,000 feet just outside the port.

Antiaircraft guns took a few pot shots at him just to make him keep his distance, but before they could do much more, the first formation of eight dive-bombers appeared. Immediately all guns began to bark and fighters began to spiral up to meet the raiders.

Keeping the sun at their backs, forcing the antiaircraft gunners to fire into the glare, that first formation waited till it got about a quarter of a mile out from the town and then went into a roaring dive.

Drop Bombs in Harbor

Two bombers hit by antiaircraft shells, went down in a smoking spiral into the sea but the other six kept going and dropped their bombs into the harbor.

By the time the second formation of German planes came near the harbor, British Hurricanes and Spitfires were high in the sky, ready to intercept them. They got above them and kept swooping down on them, then climbing up again and taking another crack with their eight machine guns.

Whenever possible the Messerschmitt fighters stayed above the German bombers in the hope of preventing these British attacks but in a few minutes as wave after wave of bombers arrived in flying triangles, the sky above the port was filled with diving planes of every description.

In most cases the Germans managed to keep their formations but the nearer they got to shore the heavier the fire became and they obviously were unable to bomb with any accuracy.

The town, meanwhile, was deserted except for a few air raid wardens in the streets, gunners who coordinated their fire with the attacks by the British fighters, and in the early part of the fight, their fire filled the air with white rings of smoke.

Spitfires from one squadron alone destroyed four Messerschmitts and a bomber; and Hurricanes of another squadron accounted for four Junkers and a fighter. Near the end of the fight 12 bombers, chased by fighters, came down almost to sea level in an attempt to escape but at the end of their terrific dive the Hurricanes pumped the rear bomber full of lead and he dove into the Channel with a great splash.

Guns Bring Down Two

The air ministry statement said the last wave of bombers did not even manage to get through the defenses but returned to France without delivering an attack. Altogether, officials said, the antiaircraft guns brought down two bombers, and fighters got seven Messerschmitts and eight bombers.

The air ministry described the defending fighter force as "strong" and it is estimated that as many as 150 planes were in the air during one stage of the battle.

The destroyer Wren has been bombed and sunk by German aircraft, the admiralty announced today. Desperate battles between screen destroyers convoying merchantmen through the Straits of Dover are now almost a daily occurrence and it is presumed that the Wren was sent to the bottom in one of these encounters.

An unspecified number of the Wren's crew of 134 were lost with their ship.

In the same fierce action another destroyer, the Montrose, shot down two German bombers.

The Wren is the twenty-eighth destroyer lost since the outbreak of the war, when Britain had 175 in commission. Since then others have been added to the naval force which it was recently reported, is stronger now than on September 3.

Another naval loss announced today was the trawler Staunton, sunk by an enemy mine. Some of her crew were lost.

Bombed Town Named

London, July 29 (AP).—The ministry of information, relaxing its restrictions against naming towns attacked, gave permission tonight to name Dover as the scene of today's major air battle. Earlier the action was referred to only as over a "southeastern port."

Nazis Await Attack Signal

Berlin, July 29 (AP).—Germany today still waited for Adolf Hitler to give the "go" signal for a blitzkrieg attack on Britain, as German warplanes and submarines harassed vulnerable British shipping in the English Channel.

The Nazi high command communique emphasized U-boat raids on Britain's commerce. To a toll of 48,000 tons it previously credited to one submarine, it added 30,750 tons more, including two 6,000-ton merchantmen in raids along the British coasts.

British bombers, it said, failed to hit any military targets in Sunday night raids on German objectives, and air operations cost Britain 11 planes and Germany only 2.

Two British Ships Arrive At New York With Refugees

By the Associated Press

New York, July 29.—The armed British liners Britannic and Cameronia steamed into New York Harbor today, carrying 1,323 passengers, including 372 children, one of the largest contingents to arrive aboard belligerent vessels since the war began.

Passengers on both reported meeting large convoys bound for England—ships loaded with food and war supplies. Britannic passengers said they met 49 ships in convoy the second day out and 65 many of them oil-laden tankers, the next day.

Aboard the Britannic were Lord Primrose, 11-year-old son of the Earl of Roseberry; George Vivian Smith, 6, and his year-old sister, who were greeted at the pier by J. P. Morgan, the financier who earlier had given a haven to five other young English children—including Davina and Simon Bowes-Lyon, 10 and 8, niece and nephew of Queen Elizabeth.

2,000 Refugees Reach Canada

An Eastern Canadian Port, July 29 (AP).—Two ships carrying nearly 2,000 war refugees from England, among them Mrs. W. Somerset Maugham, wife of the British author, arrived safely here today.

More than 1,000 of the passengers were children. Mrs. Maugham said she would travel through Canada and the United States and keep parents in England advised of the welfare of their children.

The Ranee of Sarawak, en route to New York "on a good-will tour" and a hoped-for interview with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt on the plan for removing children from the British Isles, also was aboard.

1,000 Children to Come to U. S.

London, July 29 (AP).—The United States committee for the care of European children disclosed today it will send 1,000 children from the war zones to the United States in about three weeks if a ship is available.

The children of various nationalities will be billeted in the United States by Americans who have already offered to care for them.

Clipper Brings Royal Refugees

New York, July 29 (AP).—Four more children of the former Empress Zita of Austria-Hungary arrived today to join their mother as refugees from the Nazi military conquests.

Archduchesses Charlotte, 19, and Adelaide, 26, and Archdukes Karl Ludwig, 22, and Rudolph, 20, came on the Yankee Clipper with 24 other passengers.

The former Empress, driven into exile when her husband's empire crashed in 1918, arrived July 20 with her daughter, Archduchess Elizabeth. Two sons already were in this country.

Nazi 'Offers' Hit U. S.-Argentine Trade

in the United States or elsewhere.

A representative of one North American steel company, hearing day after day of "authentic reports that his German competitors were posting cash guarantees for October and Novemer deliveries, made what amounted to a door-to-door survey.

"I was not able to find any company in Buenos Aires which had been offered steel on delivery-or-penalty terms," he declared, adding that some German firms here had bought steel in the United States to complete construction projects.

Various German-controlled firms have depended on North American raw materials since the war.

This is particularly true of the chemical and medical supply industries.

The nearest thing to an actual German penalty-contract found was the case of two German electrical firms which posted guarantees of 2 or 3 per cent in bidding on government contracts of 45,000 and 60,000 pesos—comparatively negligible.

Even these bids, informed persons said, contained ample escape clauses. Yet their low offers, based on prewar prices, caused delay in awarding the contracts to any other firms.

Informed sources in Brazil said Germans in that country had bought steel, chemicals and sewing machines in the United States to meet their deliveries, and related that at least one lot of United States manufactured steel was marketed under a German company's trade name.

These sources said German price offerings were usually lower and terms more advantageous than those of other countries. They said there were stories in Brazil, too, of Germans offering delivery of German-made goods from October onward, with penalty clauses calling for 10 to 40 per cent of the merchandise value to be paid if delivery fails—but the payment is specified in German trade marks, on which Germany sets the exchange rate.

These offers were described in Brazil as having the same design as here—to forestall orders elsewhere, principally in the United States, and to spread the belief that Germany is confident of a quick victory.

German firms in Uruguay are reported offering to deliver German products, particularly machinery, but without guarantees. There, too, the effect on purchasers is the same.

French Create Court to Fix 'War Guilt'

New Tribunal Decreed To Try 8 Former Cabinet Ministers

By the United Press

Vichy, France, July 29.—A decree creating a high court of far-reaching authority to try at least eight former cabinet ministers on charges of bringing about France's military disaster was approved by Marshal Petain's council of ministers today.

The decree, prepared by Minister of Justice Raphael Alibert, creates a high court to fix the "war guilt" of the French leaders without regard to existing military and civil courts.

No official list of persons to be arraigned before the high court has been announced but it is certain to include former Premier Edouard Daladier, former Premier Paul Reynaud, former Navy Minister Cesar Campinchi, former Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos, Gen. Maurice Gamelin, former Foreign Minister and Socialist Leader Leon Blum, former Minister of Interior Georges Mandel, and former Air Minister Pierre Cot.

No "Mass Trial"

There will be no "mass trial," the government said. Each will be granted an individual hearing.

Mandel, charged with "treasonably negotiating" with the British after France's decision to surrender, faces a possible death sentence under a wartime decree which he himself was instrumental in drafting. The others will be indicted on political charges and will be liable to the maximum punishment of lifelong imprisonment if convicted.

Evidence, it was understood, will go back to the days immediately after the World War and will involve "all of those figures who prevented France from adopting a secure military position."

It was said evidence will be introduced bearing on the question of why the French general staff remained on the defensive for nine months on the Western Front without taking any initiative.

The position of Mandel was said to be "particularly grave" because he allegedly plotted, after fleeing to Casablanca with Daladier and the others, to fly to London and help form a French government there in cooperation with Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Deny Mandel Conspired

London, July 29 (U.P.).—British authorities today officially denied allegations that Georges Mandel had "treasonably" conspired with the British government.

"While several French statesmen were in North Africa Mr. Duff-Cooper, minister of information, and Viscount Gort, commander of the B. E. F., flew there to get in touch with them," an official statement said. "The local authorities made it clear that such contact would not be welcomed and both left North Africa without communicating with Mandel or any of the others."

Death Penalty Decreed

Vichy, France, July 29 (AP).—Frenchmen who enroll in any foreign army or enlist others for service in behalf of a foreign power are subject to the death penalty under terms of a decree published today by the Petain government.

Those already in foreign armed service and remain there are included in the decree.

There are thousands of French troops in England who, while not enlisted in the British army, are continuing the war at Britain's side. Whether they are included awaits a final interpretation of the decree.

The death penalty also is provided for anyone delivering arms, munitions or other war materials to a foreign power from stocks on hand in France, even if these stocks are not government owned.

The only exceptions made in any of these cases are in the event that special permission is granted by the Vichy government. This is not the case in regard to troops and officers remaining in England.

Another decree today annulled the wartime requisition of property belonging to Germans and Italians.

Gayda Skeptical

Rome, July 29 (AP).—Profound "skepticism" over the sincerity of France's "political reform" was expressed today by Virginio Gayda, editor of Il Giornale d'Italia and editorial spokesman for Premier Mussolini.

Gayda intimated that French leaders hoped to lull the powers which defeated her, then turn back "to her old loves and customary affairs."

Fascist Planes BombArmored Cars in Egypt

Vehicles Discovered Beyond Frontier Of Italian Libya

By the Associated Press

Rome, July 29.—Italian planes pursued British armored cars beyond the frontier of Libya into Egypt yesterday and damaged them seriously with bombs and machine-gun fire, the Italian high command reported today.

The Italians claimed to have shot down two British Blenheim planes in an air fight, and said two of their own aircraft were missing.

[Authoritative British sources reported some British patrolling troops were missing in a fight on the Libyan-Egyptian frontier.

[British headquarters in Cairo said: "In the western desert an observation patrol of light armored fighting vehicles which had penetrated far behind the enemy's front was spotted and subjected to a continuous low flying attack by Italian bombers and fighters.

["Some casualties in men and vehicles were suffered. On other fronts there was nothing."]

Running Air Battle

Copyright by New York Times

Cairo, Egypt, July 29.—A British Sunderland flying boat, attacked by three formations of Italian monoplanes after it had bombed and strafed Italian ships, shot down two Fascist fighters yesterday in a thrilling running battle.

Another patrolling Sunderland which met a similar attack from the Italians riddled one so badly that it broke up in the air. A companion plane abandoned the combat apparently badly damaged.

Both flying boats succeeded in reaching their base.

Royal Air Force bombers, escorted by fighters, scouted Italian positions in eastern Libya. One flight met a large formation of Capront CR-32's, and in the subsequent dog fight saw one Italian plane shot down. One British fighter is missing.

Later another British reconnaissance group which sighted two grounded fighters, attacked and set them aflame. One Italian Caproni bomber was totally destroyed with two others damaged when British planes strafed and bombed the Mille Airdrome in Eritrea. In the Diredawa area of Ethiopia, a French pilot and crew operated with the R. A. F. on reconnaissance flights.

4 Die in Aden Bombing

Aden, July 29 (AP).—Four natives were killed and 15 wounded when Italian air raiders dropped several bombs on this British free port in southwestern Arabia olday.

There was no material damage and antiaircraft guns soon drove off the attackers.

Sidelights of the War

'Red Cross' Planes Accompany Germans on Channel Raids

British Accuse Nazis of Using Craft For Communication Purposes and For Making 'Bogus War Films'

By the Associated Press

London, July 29.—A twin-engined German seaplane marked with red crosses was towed into a southeast harbor today and found to be unarmed and equipped with hospital cots and medical supplies.

British fliers forced the plane down into the Channel, and earlier had reported shooting down two "Red Cross" planes which they accused the Nazis of using for "valuable reconnaissances."

The pilot of the salvaged plane, which carried a crew of four, told his captors the machine was one of a fleet provided at the request of German bomber crews who have been attacking Channel shipping and asked that rescue planes be provided if they were shot down into the sea.

The air ministry said German seaplanes painted white and marked with the red cross had been observed "for some time" flying over British convoys within a few miles of the British coast.

The ministry said that papers found on the crews showed that the planes were used as communication aircraft by Major General Tittel, commander of a German infantry division, and also for making "bogus war films" for the German war news service.

100th Raid Warning Sounded in Malta

Valletta, Malta, July 29 (AP).—The hundredth air-raid warning in the seven weeks of British-Italian warfare sounded today to the accompaniment of heavy antiaircraft fire. Enemy planes turned back before reaching the island.

Ammunition Dump Explodes at Gibraltar

La Linea, Spain, July 29 (AP).—Four British soldiers were reported killed and seven injured today in the explosion of an ammunition dump in Britain's great rock fortress at Gibraltar.

Reports reaching here said a carelessly handled grenade set off a magazine of antiaircraft shells.

DeGrelle May Head New Belgian Government

By the Associated Press

Bern, Switzerland, July 29.—Freed from prison in the French Pyrenees, fiery Leon deGrelle, longtime leader of an aggressive Fascist minor party in Belgium, was reported tonight to be on his way back to Belgium—possibly to head a new pro-German government.

Word reaching the Swiss frontier indicated that deGrelle's release was effected at German request; that the man whose pro-Nazi Rexist Party bid for power before the war, then lost in the elections, might become premier in his German-occupied homeland.

These reports hinted that King Leopold, whose surrender precipitated the Allies' defeat in Flanders, would remain King of the Belgians and would be asked to approve deGrelle as his premier.

With 2,000 of his followers, deGrelle was arrested because of known pro-Nazi sympathies May 10, the day Adolf Hitler smashed into the Low Countries.

London to Buy U. S. Planes Ordered by French

Seattle, July 29 (AP).—Great Britain has taken over a French order for 300 Douglas attack bombers, Boeing Aircraft Co. officials disclosed today.

The French order had resulted in a plant expansion program, soon to be completed, costing the French $3,000,000.

The company plans to have the first of the bombers in the air by January, 1941.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS
Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste
If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills. —Adv.

Legislative Surprises

The days when Congress passed New Deal measures at Executive command without bothering to read and digest the provisions of the bills presented to it are now unpleasant memories. Many disturbing legislative surprises resulted from that hasty action. Sober perusal of complicated statutes not infrequently revealed hidden purposes and extraordinary grants of power which had escaped the notice of many legislators.

There are some indications, however, that Congress has relapsed into the practice of legislating recklessly. The public has just learned, for example, that the Navy bill rushed to passage before the recess for the Republican convention gives the President power to commandeer for Government use any existing manufacturing plant or facility essential for national defense.

Such authority may be necessary to prevent any lag in our rearmament program. But it is an unprecedented grant of power in times of peace. One may be reasonably sure that if Congress had taken time to reflect, the proposal would have been thoroughly debated.

Another instance of legislative haste is revealed by the careless phrasing of the recently passed law providing $15,000,000 for vocational training for national defense. The Board of Education has voted to discontinue the local program under this act unless the Comptroller General decides that the District is entitled to share in these funds. If the program should be dropped, 27 teachers would lose their jobs and about 500 would be affected.

The District government is accustomed to being a victim of legislative caprice. But it scarcely expects to be discriminated against when national defense is an issue. Hence it appears that Congressional carelessness rather than intentional neglect accounts for this latest mix-up in local governmental affairs.

Migrant Labor

Millions of Americans have vicariously shared the hardship of that migratory farm family, the Joads, by reading John Steinbeck's "The Grapes of Wrath," or by viewing the screen version of the novel. Mr. Steinbeck's powerful narrative is said to present an authentic picture of actual conditions, but it is, after all, only a partial picture dealing with a special group of farmers driven out of the mid-continental dust bowl and lured to California by false promises of work.

Taking the country as a whole, we have many types of migrant problems—those presented by "regular" perennial migrants, and those of the industrial worker as well as the farm laborer. Some States and communities are more affected than others by mass shifts of workers, but the problem is Nation-wide. Natural catastrophes such as droughts and floods and prolonged depression swell the number of those who take to the road. But at all times there is a flow of labor from State to State, creating many social and economic difficulties for the communities receiving the influx.

A special House committee has been authorized to study this national migrant problem and recommend legislation to mitigate the hardships it involves. The committee has begun hearings in New York City where it expects to interrogate migrants seeking jobs in New York, New England and New Jersey. Later it plans to extend its inquiries to other parts of the country.

The committee starts its work lacking even reliable estimates of the number of migrants. However, it is believed that several million workers belong in this category. As pointed out by Representative Tolan, chairman of the committee, the problems created by the movement of this army of job-seekers are "much too vast" for the State and local governments to deal with effectively. Indeed, the inability of local agencies to cope with the difficulties created by migratory job-seekers largely accounts for the barriers that have been erected under various pretenses to prevent the free movement of Americans within their own country.

Harassed communities can hardly be blamed for trying to protect themselves against the discomforts and dangers to health which follow in the wake of homeless and jobless families. Nevertheless, exclusionist policies and hostile attitudes toward migrants constitute a serious threat to national unity. They engender hatred and bitterness and set class against class.

So the inquiry is important from the political as well as the economic and social viewpoints. The committee's first task is to acquire fuller information about the volume and character of interstate migration. Only then will it be possible to plan for reestablishment of certain migrants in fixed abodes and improvement of working conditions for others who perform essential services in seasonal industries.

The House committee has a difficult assignment but, according to its chairman, it is not handicapped by starting its investigations with any preconceived remedial plan in mind.

Military Conscription

Congress is preparing to debate the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill with full realization of the momentous issue it poses. Fortunately, there seems to be no disposition to rush this measure through in double-quick time as has been the case with some other defense bills. A question so vital to the cause of democracy can be properly decided only through full compliance with democratic procedure.

The national interest demands, also, that partisanship shall play no part in the debate. When questions of national defense arise there should be neither Democrats nor Republicans in our legislative halls, but only Americans. If the bill is adopted, members of all parties will be drafted for military training. Compulsory service in peacetime would prove a mistake from the very beginning if any substantial number of the people should conclude that it was being imposed upon them by one political party.

It may be assumed at the outset, however, that leaders on both sides are genuinely interested in national defense. Advocates of the measure believe it is essential to safeguard the United States against a fate similar to that which befell France. Opponents believe that America can be defended without conscripting its man power at the present time.

So the question is really one of judgment as to what is essential to our national security. Opponents of the measure must admit that we now live in a world which is openly ruled by force. It is not impossible that the United States may soon find itself surrounded by potential enemies. Nor should we forget that our Government has assumed the enormous responsibility of protecting the entire Western Hemisphere against aggression. The Havana conference has brought all the American republics a step nearer to cooperation in that task. Yet the chief burden must necessarily fall upon the United States.

Everyone familiar with our present military and naval establishments knows that we are not now adequately prepared to defend our own interests, much less those of all the Western Hemisphere. A gigantic rearmament program is going forward to correct this deficiency. But mere appropriations and even completed airplanes, guns and tanks do not make a modern army. Trained men and tested leaders are also essential.

By thus reviewing our national position in these turbulent times a strong argument for compulsory military training is built up. But that argument contains a number of weak points. It has not been proved, for example, that compulsory service is essential to obtain the military and naval forces which the Nation needs. If we can attain sufficient strength by the voluntary method to discourage all thoughts of aggression against the New World, certainly that method would be preferable.

In modern armies the skilled mechanic is more important than the man who merely carries a gun on his shoulder. Mechanized warfare has brought a revolution in training methods. Many of the new recruits to be brought into the service will learn skills that will be highly useful to them in civilian life. This fact suggests that a call for one-year volunteers might supply more men than the Army is prepared to train at present.

It is true, of course, that provision for short-enlistment volunteers has been included in the Burke-Wadsworth bill. But the element of compulsion remains. The bill would give the President the enormous power of mobilizing almost the entire man power of the Nation with no further action on the part of Congress save the appropriation of the necessary funds.

No reasonable objection can be raised to the registration of men between the ages of 18 and 64 so that they may be fully classified as to training, special skills, physical disabilities and family obligations. Such a list would be invaluable to the Army and Navy if they should at any time be authorized to draft men for service or training. But Congress ought to be thoroughly convinced that such a step is necessary before actually sanctioning a compulsory draft in peacetime.

If enacted as permanent legislation, the Burke-Wadsworth bill would undoubtedly lead to more intense regimentation of industry and encourage the conscription of wealth as well as men. That issue should be courageously faced in Congress. The larger question is: To what extent must individual freedom be sacrificed in the interests of national defense? The most that can be hoped is that Congress will approach this momentous issue with full realization that, while security against attack is a first essential, the American people also highly prize that freedom from compulsory service which is traditionally associated with our brand of democracy.

Nonpartisan Defense

Reports that letters have issued from the White House addressed only to Democratic members of Congress, advising them of the amounts to be spent on defense contracts in their respective States have proved to be erroneous. It appears that the Office of Government Reports sent statements to all members of Congress concerning the amounts to be spent in their respective States under contract awards of the Army and Navy.

Such information should be made available to Congressmen as a matter of interest and concern to them and their constitutents. Current reports of this nature also provide the best kind of guarantee against the allocation of contracts with a view to strengthening political fences.

The Democrats and Republicans have joined together to support the defense program wholeheartedly and any attempt by the Administration to take all the credit for it would be entirely unjustified. It is most unfortunate that the Republican platform adopted in Philadelphia endeavored to make a partisan issue of defense by trying to fasten full responsibility for our unpreparedness upon the New Deal.

The fact is that the country is unprepared because neither party clearly foresaw the danger that threatened. With better understanding of the forces that are at work in Europe and Asia has come united, nonpartisan support for all measures essential to the Nation's defense. It is at least reassuring to know that alert Congressmen are on the lookout for any evidence that the defense program is being used for partisan purposes.

Guinea Pigs Go Nuts

Up at Columbia University two earnest psychologists have been diverting themselves this summer by inducing severe neurotic states in guinea pigs. Their experiment evidently had something to do with the old question of environmental versus hereditary factors, but the moral seems to be this: If it is possible to drive a guinea pig nuts, simply by playing a few practical jokes on it, what chance have human beings to remain sane in the kind of world in which we are living?

In case you wish to try the experiment here is the standard technique for making a complete nervous wreck out of our old laboratory pal, caveus porcellus. Place him on a V-shaped platform a little distance away from another platform having two doors, one black, one white. Behind the black door place a dish of food (hearts of celery will do nicely). So construct the platform that if the pig jumps through the white door he will fall through a hole. If he shows signs of trying to cross up the experiment by refusing to jump at all, just encourage him by squirting a few jets of compressed air at his hindquarters.

After a few thousand jumps he begins to get the idea and thereafter uses the black door. This is called "adjustment." As soon as you are satisfied the pig is thoroughly adjusted you lock the black door.

Thus, after a few hundred bruises on the snout, the guinea pig lapses into a state of melancholia and indecision. This is called "abulia" just to make it Greek. Anyhow, by this time the pig has begun to consider himself a miserable failure in life and to believe that nobody really loves him. He begins to exhibit the psychomotor symptoms which presage a breakdown of personality. He doesn't even try to jump any more. He just stands there gnashing his teeth at you. This is your cue to turn on the compressed air full blast.

The little varmint develops a persecution complex. And, after the proverbial manner of neurotics, he blames his frustrations and failures on almost everybody but himself.

The experiment can be continued as long as the supply of guinea pigs holds out. Although we haven't tried it yet, it sounds as though it might be almost as much fun as getting ready for M-day or watching Aunt Minnie try to escape alive from the "walk" and "don't-walk" signs on Union Station plaza.

Jeeter And Uncle Tom

From the Buffalo Evening News

Now that Jeeter Lester is about to close his record-breaking career on Broadway in "Tobacco Road," it may be of interest purely as a speculative enterprise to consider the reasons for his popularity. Some of these reasons seem obscure and probably all will never be accurately analyzed. Certainly Jeeter was in striking contrast with that old Southern favorite, Uncle Tom. Both were products of Southern sociological and economic conditions, but Uncle Tom was all sweetness and light. So were Little Eva and almost all the others except Simon Legree. As for Jeeter, he seemed wholly lacking in a moral sense, and his associates from the half-witted Dude to the turnip-eating Lov Bensey were an unsavory lot. Although some have tried to argue that the principal interest in the Lesters was concerned with their sociological status, it may be doubted. Probably, most persons were simply amused by Jeeter's almost total lack of normal moral standards. He represented something of the Old Rogue that is said to exist even among the best people.

No Appeasement

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I always read The Post editorials because they are consistently honest and intelligent, so I was unpleasantly shocked by your July 20 editorial—"Hitler's Offer."

You say that England should consider that offer, vague and dishonest as it is. Have you already forgotten Munich? Your entire article appeared to be conciliatory toward Hitler—a beginning of a very perceptible movement toward appeasement of the insatiable monster of Europe.

We know that there are plenty of Chamberlains in this country who—in the vain and inglorious hope of maintaining the economic status quo—are willing to sacrifice our freedom and independence; but I hope The Post will not join the appeasers. Why can't we face the brutal reality that the world revolution is in full swing; and that we cannot escape the economic consequences even in our silly isolation. The least we can do is to hold fast to our principles and ideals. Like England we must be willing to die rather than relinquish our human rights under the heel of Hitler.

Instead of writing editorials to appease the Nazi dictator, you should be educating your readers to an attitude of mind regarding this new world in which we live. The world, in the throes of bloody revolution can never be the same again. Whether we like it or not, we must steer a new course into untried frontiers. We must become a nation of pioneers, not appeasers and standpatters. As pioneers, we must be prepared to make sacrifices, to endure hardships and disappointments and heartbreaks, maybe violent death; but there must be no breath of cowardice among our leaders nor in the decent press.

Acceptance Speech

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: That was an interesting editorial on Roosevelt's acceptance statement. Your appraisal of it as "a convincing, and undoubtedly sincere, presentation of motives and reasons" persuading the President to accept was fair, and I believe correct. But along further in your expression was something which did not seem to jibe. You quoted F. D.'s reference to "self-appointed commentators and interpreters who will seek to misinterpret (my) motives." You opine that this intimated a strong sympathy for a society in which "all commentators are appointed by the chief of state himself, or by a reliable propaganda minister."

Now, as you read your statement again, don't you think it sounds a little silly? Whom do the comfortable, pontifical commentators, far from the maddening crowd's ignoble strife, represent?

You express doubt and anxiety about a fancied "Messianic complex" which, to you, seems to possess the President; to him other hands seem "inexperienced."

But on the other page (of The Post's two brilliant inside pages) Walter Lippmann has something to say about the matter: "Mr. Roosevelt was nominated because in his party he was uniquely qualified (sic) in the midst of an extraordinary situation." MODERATOR.

On Youth's Protest

It protests against enforced military training and demands greater opportunities for free scholastic education. J. L. K.

On Experience

To the Editor of The Post.—Sir: Mr. E. M. Peterson, on your correspondents' page, chides the Republicans for harking back to Thomas Jefferson for arguments no longer applicable, as he says, against a third term.

He also intimates that in a critical situation a sincere and capable man is doing a good job, "a man of large experience and unquestionable loyalty to country."

As one who has voted Democratic but never New Deal; as one who has replaced experienced foremen with inexperienced foremen—with good results—in my employ I'd like to answer, "No!"

Herbert Hoover was sincere and capable; a great Secretary of Commerce such as we won't see again in a hurry. Whatever his technical mistakes or the conditions of which he was a helpless victim, he was a man of unbelievable capacity, knowledge, equipment, thoroughness, who didn't have an ounce of Tammany dazzle in his make-up, therefore had to absorb abuse from those who had. Red-hot Democrat that I was, I had to admit all this.

Yet when a raw recruit succeeded him, there followed what even New Deal enemies acknowledge was a good job—for 100 days. Too bad it stopped there!

Yes, what they sometimes call inexperience may be just the remedy needed; save that what they will be getting this time will not be inexperience.

Would Weigh Terms

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In a recent editorial The Post expressed the opinion it would be wise if Churchill's government in England should at least ask the nature of the proposal that Der Fuehrer would make in the name of Germany; a letter on July 24 heartily approved of this sentiment, and so does the writer. It is useless to say no one can make terms with another because of mendacity of the other party. For the other party feels likewise that his opponent is likewise mendacious. If the arbitrament of arms is to be tried, it may as well be tried after consideration of terms as before. In fact when all is said and done, in case either of victory or defeat, terms must ultimately be made.

If South Carolina and New England abolitionists had been willing to wait and seek better understanding, the war that rent our own country might never have been fought. If England had been willing to follow Burke and Pitt and other councilors of better treatment of the colonists, perhaps the Revolutionary War might either have been long postponed or never fought.

Mr. Roosevelt claimed to be attempting to master the money powers of this country in his own rise to power. Germany claims that money powers are blind to human interests and fair play. If we lived in a land about the size of Texas and had been pent there for years and commanded to pay war debts and costs of war that we believed others had part in causing, perhaps we, too, would follow a leader that broke our bonds and released us from such conditions.

Power Of Prayer

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: All over, everywhere, in every language, in every heart, there is one sound, war—rumors of war. On every face one notices fear, bewilderment, wanting to grasp at a straw in order to save oneself.

Yet, through the ages, we have been warned by the prophets that we would know the "Time of the End" by this sign. By the "end," the prophets meant the end of a cycle and the beginning of a new one based on divine precepts, making an end to human greed, selfishness, prejudices and preconceived notions. Only then, when man's will gives way to the will of God, will the "Promise of All Ages," the Kingdom of God on earth, be established.

Why not take religion as a criterion—religion not as a theology or ceremonial dogma, but a proper attitude toward God applied in action? Why not become conscious of the power of prayer? This is the only language by which man can talk to God. This is the only power by which we can be guided to establish a righteous social order—and thus be protected from disintegration and destruction.

The following is a prayer that appeals to me because it is so universal—all humanity can pray it:

"May the time not be distant, O God, when Thy name shall be worshipped in all the earth, when unbelief shall disappear and error be no more. We fervently pray that the day may come when all men shall invoke Thy name, when corruption and evil shall give way to purity and goodness, when superstition shall no longer enslave the mind, nor idolatry blind the eye, when all inhabitants of the earth shall know that to Thee alone every knee must bend and every tongue give homage.

"O may all created in Thine image recognize that they are brethren, so that, one in spirit and one in fellowship, they may be forever united before Thee. Then shall Thy kingdom be established on earth and the word of Thine ancient seer be fulfilled: the Lord will reign for ever and ever."

ETHEL M. HUNT.

Washington, July 25.

The Hatch Act

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Civil service rules and regulations, the original Hatch Act together with its recent amendments, have deprived Federal workers of their right of free speech, press and assembly guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States. One of the most cherished our basic rights, the opportunity to express oneself on political issues and candidates in the only effective way possible—through a political party—has gone by the board so far as Government employes are concerned.

It is not difficult to understand why there has been little opposition from workers in the service. With jobs in private industry scarcer than the proverbial hens' teeth, Government employes know that they are more fortunate than other wage earners. They are more secure in their jobs. They are not likely to trade three square meals for nothing but the right to be free men.

And so the loss of democracy has its roots in the economic conditions of the Nation. As the world beyond the orbit of the career worker's daily life, as this world slides deeper into economic stagnation, more and more will wage-earners lose their democratic rights. Now Federal employes suffer. Later other workers will receive the same treatment.

The White Steps Of Baltimore

I REALIZED I had not been in Baltimore for some time. Yet I could see at a glance it hadn't changed. It was the same large, sprawling, thickly populated, industrial city that it had been since the first time I had ever seen it when I was 10. The only difference was that I was seeing it now with a new gaze. You know how that is. Sometimes it even happens that way with people you haven't seen for a while.

It was early in the morning and I had an hour on my hands. The streets were filled with that bright, golden, morning sunlight that gilds commonplace things and makes them stand out in newly heightened relief. Along some of the streets, poplar trees, looking a little wilted from the daily pressure of midsummer, threw a transparent shade on the sidewalks that in places had been washed off and were still wet. But the thing that really struck me all over again was Baltimore's one great individual characteristic—its white steps.

A city is fortunate to have a single outstanding facial characteristic like that. Not all of them do, and as far as I know Baltimore's famous white steps are not duplicated anywhere else in the world. You know what they're like: three or four, possibly five, steps of wood painted white or of white marble, leading up to a tiny platform a few feet wide before the door. Nearly all the houses with these white steps are brick, and many of them have the lower facing of the house, from the pavement to the floor of the first story, painted white too. In Baltimore, there are blocks of these white steps, miles of them. I sat in the car and watched women up and down the street on their hands and knees washing off those steps with cloths they dipped in pails or pans of water and I wondered why everyone had white steps. I got out of the car and walked down to the corner where there was an old-fashioned drug store. I knew it was old-fashioned because it didn't have any neon signs on the front, and I imagined that inside there would be two or three electric fans suspended from the ceiling with propeller-like blades that turned slowly with a swish. I expected too that inside there would be little tables and chairs with legs of heavy twisted wire, and there might also be someone inside who could tell me where the idea of the white steps came from.

The only person in the store was a young man who was washing off the mirror behind the soda fountain. At the top of the mirror were festoons of grapes frosted in the glass. I sat at the fountain on a tall round stool that had legs of heavy twisted wire, and asked him for a soft drink. Overhead was an electric fan with propeller-like blades that turned slowly with a swish.

"I've been noticing all these white steps outside," I said. "I've never seen them in any other city. Can you tell me why so many houses in Baltimore have them?"

He said he didn't know. He said he had lived in the house next door all his life and that it had just always had white steps. He said either he or his father painted their steps once a year and that his mother kept them clean. He guessed they had them because everyone else did, and that was all there was to it. I said perhaps that was reason enough.

I went back out into the street and stopped beside some white steps three or four doors away where a large woman who wasn't young was carefully wringing out a cloth in a bucket of water. Her steps were spotless, and on her little platform were two jardinieres of highly polished brass in which were plants. I repeated my question to her.

"Well, now, that's funny you should ask that," she said. "Here I've lived in this house for 32 years and I've washed these steps every day for 32 years when the weather wasn't too bad, and never once have I thought why. I just have them, that's all. They're my front porch and my front yard and they're going to stay white as long as I can keep them so."

I still don't know why Baltimore has so many white steps. Neither, it seems, do the people who paint them and wash them know why. But all of us know that they are there, and it must be because in America, regardless of where we live, it is a common trait to want to be no different from our neighbors. Those steps are just there, and they are as much taken for granted as the water in the Chesapeake Bay.

Exercise Vs. Heat

To the Editor of The Post.—Sir: The extreme heat of the past week or so, and what to do about it, has become the problem of most people.

A recent experience of the writer may be interesting to some, mainly because it violates most of the rules and is opposite common sense on the subject, but nevertheless helped me over the present heat spell.

Being a semishut-in, I was suffering more from the heat the past week than well folks. I was called upon in an emergency which required that I walk 15 minutes upgrade during the hottest part of the afternoon. In my condition at the time I did not think it humanly possible that I could make the trip, but the emergency demanded it, so I started off.

After several blocks, I was surprised to find myself getting stronger and feeling more comfortable than when I started. By the time I reached my destination I was enjoying my walk and a little later walked back when I could have had a taxi. B. A. WALKER.

President On Defense

Request For Militia And Reserves

Following is the text of the letter sent by President Roosevelt to the Senate yesterday asking Congress to grant him authority to order the National Guard and the Officers Reserve Corps into active training:

The increasing seriousness of the international situation demands that every element of our national defense structure be brought as rapidly as possible to the highest state of efficiency, in training as well as in equipment and material.

The National Guard of the United States, an integral and vital part of the Army, comprises a body of men who have voluntarily assumed an obligation to serve the Nation in any crisis. To the extent possible under normal conditions, the officers and men of the National Guard have prepared themselves for this service, and I am assured that today the Guard has reached the highest state of efficiency in its peacetime history.

The developments of modern warfare are such, however, that only the seasoned and highly trained troops can hope for success in combat. Our citizen soldiery, no matter how willing and earnest, can not possibly attain the necessary degree of efficiency through their normal training activities. Even our professional soldiers required months of intensive training to bring them to their present satisfactory state. We know too well the tragedy that ensues when inadequately trained men are assailed by a more skillful adversary.

The Right To Be Prepared

Some weeks ago I asked the Congress for authority to order the National Guard into active service should an emergency require this action when your body was not in session. That proposal is no longer sufficient, as I am now convinced that the security of the Nation demands that this component of our Army be brought to the highest possible state of training efficiency more rapidly than its present program permits. Moreover, this group of men who of necessity must be among the first to fight in the Nation's defense have a right to the best preparation that time and circumstance permit.

Realizing as I do the personal sacrifice that a period of extended active duty demands of the National Guard, I have deferred until now any request for immediate action in this respect. I can not, with clear conscience, longer postpone this vitally essential step in our progress toward adequate preparedness, and I am therefore transmitting herewith legislation that, if enacted, will enable me to order the National Guard of the United States to active service for such period of intensive training as may be necessary to raise its efficiency to a point comparable with that of our small regular establishment.

If this authority is granted, I propose to order the Guard to duty in successive increments to permit the effective use of training facilities and equipment immediately available. Each increment will, of course, be released when it attains the desired state of efficiency.

Active Service Needed

Of equal importance is the Officers Reserve Corps. This splendid body of officers has had little opportunity for service with troops, and to the maximum extent possible their training should now be perfected by an adequate period of active service. If ordered to active duty, they can acquire the desired efficiency and at the same time supply the increased need for officers in our expanded regular Army. The authority I am requesting is therefore drawn so as to include the Officers Reserve Corps.

I ask your earnest consideration of this program and your prompt and favorable action thereon.

Text of Legislation

Here is the text of the proposed legislation the President sent to Congress on the subject:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that during the period ending June 30, 1942, the President be, and is hereby, authorized to order into the active military service of the United States for a period of not to exceed one year, any or all members and units of any or all reserve components of the Army of the United States, and retired personnel of the regular Army, with or without their consent, to such extent and in such manner as he may deem necessary for the strengthening of the national defense: Provided, that the members and units of the reserve components of the Army of the United States ordered into active Federal service under this authority shall not be employed beyond the limits of the Western Hemisphere except in the territories and possessions of the United States, including the Philippine Islands.

Section 2. All National Guard, reserve and retired personnel ordered into the active military service of the United States under the foregoing special authority, shall, from the dates on which they are respectively required by such order to report for duty in such service, be subject to the respective laws and regulations relating to enlistments, reenlistments, employment, conduct, rights and privileges, and discharge of such personnel in such service to the same extent in all particulars as if that had been ordered into such service under existing general statutory authorizations.

Section 3. All laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith are hereby suspended to the extent that they may be in conflict with any provision hereof.

Imaginary Interviews: Mr. Willkie and The President

Franklin—I'm glad to see you, Mr. Willkie. Are you eager for the fray?

Wendell—I can't remember ever looking forward to anything more eagerly. And you?

Franklin—Maybe we both mistake apprehensiveness for eagerness. I have pictured the possibilities, but I never dreamed I'd be disputing the White House occupancy with a public utilities man.

Wendell—You're no more surprised than I am.

Franklin—Did you wish to talk things over with me?

Wendell—Well, I didn't come here to fix the lights.

Franklin—I thought it might be a good idea if we talked over the foreign situation in the interest of a common front. I feel that this country is in grave danger, especially in view of recent events.

Wendell—You are not referring to the Republican nominations?

Franklin—No. They were not at all bad. If the Republicans had to bother to put anybody in the field against me this year, it might as well be you. I am glad to know that both tickets will be headed by a Democrat.

Wendell—I'm a former Democrat.

Franklin—So am, I!

* * * *

Wendell—By the way, here's a card for you. It's the name of a moving company.

Franklin—But I'm not moving.

Wendell—That's a matter of opinion.

Franklin—I can assure you that I am staying here.

Wendell—A man can't tell today where he will be tomorrow. Look at me!

* * * *

Franklin—You certainly swept the convention. How did it happen? Did most of the delegates owe you for an electricity bill?

Wendell—No. They all figured it was so dark in this country under the Democrats that it would be a good idea to have a man in Washington who could improve the lighting system.

Franklin—You exaggerate. Things are not dark in this country.

Wendell—Then why do the New Dealers do so much stumbling?

* * * *

Franklin—Say, on the level, Wendie, I looked over that Republican platform. Don't tell me you can carry out those pledges.

Wendell—If I were you, Franklin, I wouldn't dwell on the matter of platform pledges.

Franklin—Okay. Let's forget platforms.

Wendell—It's the usual course.

Franklin—Well, you and I ought to put up a great radio battle.

Wendell—Have you ever listened to me on the air?

Franklin—I have heard you, but I can't say I listened.

Wendell—You WILL . . . from now on.

* * * *

Franklin—Nicely put. Let's drink a toast.

Wendell (as both stand)—To the people's choice in November!

Franklin—May the best Democrat win!

The Draft Bill

THERE WILL BE submitted in the Senate this week a bill for what is called "selective, compulsory military training and service." This description, as given in the bill itself, omits the word "universal." The proposed system is universal. It applies to every male between the ages of 18 and 64.

In the Senate there will be debate, estimated as likely to take ten days. There will likewise be debate in the House. In both chambers, it is desirable that debate should be long enough to fully acquaint the public with the meaning and implications of the measure. On its face, it is by far the greatest departure from American practice and point of view ever made in peacetime. The qualification "peacetime" is probably unnecessary. By some of the implications of the measure, it is the greatest departure ever made in peace or war. The bill should be debated and discussed until it, and every implication of it, every future consequence of it, is understood by every person it affects. That means, literally, everybody. Every male between 18 and 64 is directly affected, in all 42,000,000 men, and their families.

THE BASIC provisions of the measure are that:

(a) "All male citizens . . . between the ages of 18 and 64 . . . shall present themselves for registration . . .

(b) Men registered shall be divided into two main categories.

(c) "Men between 21 and 45 . . . shall be liable for training and service in the land and naval forces.

(d) "Men between 18 and 21, and between 45 and 64, shall be liable for training and service in or near the communities and areas in which they reside, in such home defense units of the land and naval forces as are now established or as may hereafter be authorized by Congress."

FROM THE FIRST class, men between 21 and 45, "the President is authorized to select for training and service . . . and to induct into the land and naval forces . . . such number of men as in his judgment, whether a state of war exists or not, is required in the national interest for such forces."

About this measure, it is going to be impossible for men to make up their minds on the basis of familiar symbols. Men cannot decide they are for this bill or against it on the basis of the public men who are for it or against it. The measure expresses the wish of the Roosevelt Administration. At the same time, its sponsors are not New Dealers. The sponsor in the Senate, Mr. Edward R. Burke, of Nebraska, is a Democrat who will not support Mr. Roosevelt because of the third-term issue. Similarly, the sponsor in the House, Mr. James W. Wadsworth, of New York, is a Republican. To make the situation more confusing, the measure is opposed by one of the most thoroughgoing New Dealers, Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska. No, there is no easy way for the citizen to take a stand on this bill. He must go through the process of making up his own mind, by examining the measure and following the debate and discussion of it.

No one should make up his mind solely on the basis of how the measure will affect him or members of his family. This is a time for sacrifice in the national interest. Citizens must judge whether the bill actually is in the national interest; whether it is imperatively called for; whether any other way—voluntary enlistment, for example—would do as well; whether the measure in its final form, after debate, is so written as to make certain it will terminate when the emergency ends; or whether the bill may have the effect of bringing about a change in the structure of American society.

No measure such as this can be interpreted as if it were in a vacuum, as if it stood alone. Every such measure must be interpreted in the light of the times in which it is brought forward, in the light of existing conditions, especially when those conditions are new and subject to controversy.

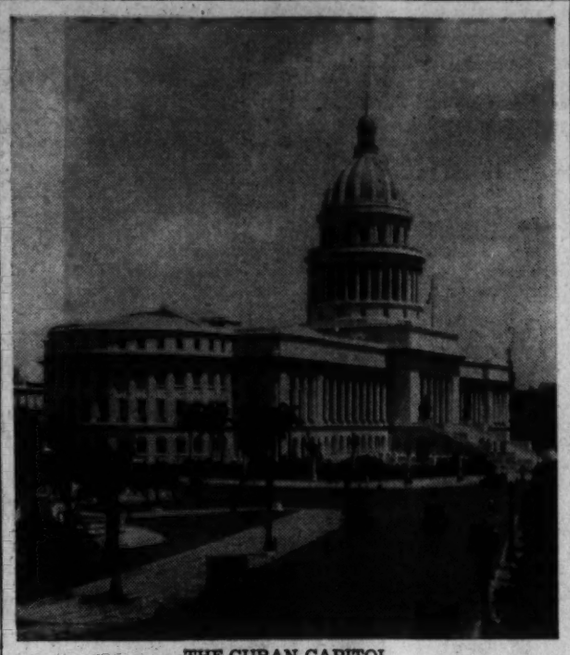
We can make a beginning by comparing the conditions accompanying this measure, and conditions at the time of the only other universal draft America has ever had.

THE FORMER draft, in June, 1917, was enacted when the country was actually at war—war against Germany had been declared some ten weeks earlier. But this distinction from the present bill is immaterial. It is agreed that, whatever should be done in time of war, is better done in advance of war, if war is known to threaten.

At the time of the 1917 draft, several conditions were absent from the world which are now present, and which are pertinent. In 1917 there was no bolshevism, no communism nor nazism nor fascism. The idea of dictator government in the modern sense had not emerged. The whole notion of totalitarian society and government, of collectivism, the organization of all society in the service of the state, the subjection of every individual to the will of the state—that did not exist in 1917.

In 1940, that exists. It exists and tends to spread. We and Britain are the only important countries left which retain the principle of individual freedom. It is to defend this principle, to oppose collectivism, that we now arm.

We must judge this conscription bill, carefully and in detail, by whether it is the best possible defense of individualism; or whether it contains within itself any faintest seed of that collectivism which we are supposed to resist.



THE CUBAN CAPITOL
where the Act of Havana to prevent the transfer of European possessions in this hemisphere to non-American powers was worked out by delegates of the 21 American republics.

'Act Of Havana' Text

How Americas Will Act In Emergency

Havana (Monday), July 29 (AP).—The text of the act of Havana on the provisional administration of European colonies and possessions in America.

The second meeting of ministers of foreign affairs of the American republics:

Whereas, the status of territories on the continent belonging to European powers is a cause of deep concern for all governments of the American republics;

That as a result of the present European war the conquest of said territories, repudiated in and by the international relations of the American republics, may be attempted, thus imperiling the essence and form of American institutions;

That the doctrine of inter-American solidarity agreed upon at the meetings of Lima and Panama demands a policy of vigilance and defense in order that systems or regimes in disagreement with its institutions shall not hinder the pacific life of the American republics, the normal developments of its institutions and the rule of order and law:

Protective Reservations

That the course of military developments in Europe and the changes resulting therefrom may create a grave menace that any territorial European possessions in America become strategic centers of aggression against the American continent;

Declares:

When American islands or areas at present held by non-American nations are in danger of becoming the subject matter of exchange of territories or sovereignty, the American republics, having in mind the security of the continent and the opinion of the inhabitants of such islands or areas, may establish regions of provisional administration, under the following reservations:

(a) That as soon as the reasons making such measures necessary shall cease, and provided it is not detrimental to the safety of the American republics, and under the principle which the present declaration reaffirms, that the peoples of this continent have a right to self-determination, such territories shall either be organized into autonomous territories, should they appear capable of constituting or maintaining themselves in such a state, or be reinstated to the former situation;

(b) That the areas alluded to shall temporarily be placed under the provisional administration of the American republics and that this administration shall be exercised with the dual purpose of contributing to the safety and defense of the continent and for the economic, political and social benefit of the said areas, and it hereby resolves:

To create an emergency committee made up of one representative each of the American republics, said committee to be considered constituted from the date of the appointment of two-thirds of its members, who shall be appointed by the governments of the said republics within the shortest time possible.

Any Nation May Act

That said committee shall meet at the request of any of the signers of the resolution.

That if, prior to the date on which the agreement entered into at the present consultative meetings goes into effect, it should become necessary, as a measure of imperious emergency, to apply its provisions to the end of safeguarding the peace of the continent, taking into account, in addition, the opinion of the inhabitants of any of the regions herein above alluded to, this committee shall assume the administration of the attacked or menaced region, acting under the provisions of the aforesaid convention or agreement. As soon as this agreement goes into effect the authority and functions exercised by the committee shall be transferred to the inter-American territorial administration.

If the necessity for emergency action be deemed so urgent as to make it impossible to await action by the committee, any of the American republics, individually or jointly with others, shall have the right to act in a manner required for its defense or the defense of the continent.

Should such a situation arise, the acting republic or republics shall immediately submit the matter to the committee, in order that the latter may consider the actions taken, and adopt adequate measures.

Books And Things

Pioneer Photographer

WILLIAM HENRY JACKSON, author of "Time Exposure" (Putnam, $3.50), is 97 years old. That, I supposed as I picked it up, was why his book was published. I was wrong. It was published because William Henry Jackson kept good diaries, had exciting experiences and has a lively memory—and because, at 97, he is still, restlessly and alertly, William Henry Jackson.

He can remember when his Uncle Edward came back from the Mexican War. The keenest memory of his entire life is of the election eve parade in Troy, N. Y., in the first Lincoln election year of 1860. He himself fought at Gettysburg. He had painted landscapes on window screens (15 cents a screen) in Troy; he sketched backgrounds of Niagara Falls and of the Pyramids of Egypt on photographs in Rutland, Vt., before he volunteered; he was retouching the Burlington (at "F. Styles' Vermont Gallery of Art") when the war ended; and in 1867 he headed for the West. For five years he served the United States Geologic Survey, making some of the first and finest photographs ever made of the Yellowstone, the Grand Canyon, the Hopi villages and Mesa Verde. He had a photochrome business in Detroit for a quarter of a century, which went bankrupt when he was 81. Five years ago he painted four 30x60 murals for a Government building in Washington; 2 years ago he flew to his seventy-fifth reunion at Gettysburg.

The first 40 years were the best; the most extraordinary thing about this book written close to the century mark is that it breathes the living spirit of youth. Two-thirds of "Time Exposure" is a lively story of a lively American lad, stumbling across the continent in the 1860's and 1870's.

Jackson quit at Salt Lake City and went to work on a Mormon farm. When he had saved $8 more than the fare to California he joined, as passenger, a wagon train for the Coast; Los Angeles was then a sleepy town of 5,000 people. He slept under the stars in what is now the Hollywood Bowl, worked six weeks at a sort of ranch hotel, then, though not quite certain from which side to mount a horse, he started in wrangling a bunch of 200 half-broken Spanish ponies, eastbound for Omaha. He tells precisely where he worked, what he was paid, how he worked; he quotes from his diary. It is a fresh and authentic record of a lost America.

In Omaha he married, but hardly settled down. The transcontinental railroad was then the great romance of American life. Jackson spent his summers photographing the new rail routes. There were no streamliners then; complacent engineers stopped the train when Jackson wanted to take a picture. Once at least the train was forced to stop for hours; a herd of half a million bison was blocking the track. In 1870 Dr. Ferdinand Hayden, of the United States Geologic Survey, stopped in Omaha, studied the young man's railroad and Indian pictures and invited him to join him on a "survey." So it came about that Jackson was in the first party of white men ever to see Mammoth Hot Springs—and his photographs were largely helpful in creating, in the Yellowstone, our first national park.

Photography was no snapshot business in those days. Jackson carried with him a sort of tent "dark box." When he had focused his camera he would return to the box, sensitize a wet plate, hurry back while the plate was still moist, make his time exposure and rush to develop his plate at once. He could not move his dark box until the plate was dry. One of the joys of photographing Mammoth Hot Springs was that, by washing his plates in the water that bubbled at 160 degrees Fahrenheit, he could cut his drying time by half, and so make two or even three pictures in an hour! In the summer of 1877 he experimented with "sensitive negative tissue," moved rapidly and made twice as many pictures as usual, in the Hopi country. But not one picture "came out."

Mother's Thoughts

WALKING DOWN to the chain store to buy bread, eggs, soap, cigarettes and gin for the family, Mrs. George Spelvin, American, thought somewhat as follows:

Well, fun is fun, sister, but I don't remember reading where you ever got elected to anything, so if you don't mind I will politely ask you to politely keep out of my affairs like raising my kids, because they just happen to be my own kids, and they may not be so hot, but they are not as dumb as some, either, and anyway I will ask you to politely mind your own business.

Because, after all, it seems to me I know quite a lot of kids around our neighborhood, and so far as I know I never heard any of them talking about going to youth meetings to make speeches or vote about this and that and, sister, I am going to tell you I would damsite rather do my own raising. Because, after all, I am the one who gets the headaches and how do I know what goes on at these youth meetings, and I notice they are very partial to going out in the country, and to be very practical about it, sister, I wasn't born yesterday, so how do I know they don't choose up sides—if you know what I mean? So I will prefer to keep mine home as long as I can provide the necessities of life and maybe we aren't modern, and you may have the right idea and maybe I am just a dope, but I always think that when it comes to raising kids that is a family affair and not something you do by making speeches and passing resolutions in meetings.

AND IF IT COMES to that it isn't always whether you have got a lot of money or you just nickel your way along from week to week with the bare necessities and a few cigarettes and once in a while a Tom Collins, because God knows the old man certainly deserves to get a Tom Collins out of life once in a while, especially this hot weather and so much worry going on. But you take some families where they have plenty of money, if you want to see what I mean, like the way money isn't the only thing, because it all depends on the way you raise them in the home and whether they have got the right kind of character.

And if they don't get the right kind of character and raising in their home, whether it is rich or poor, they certainly don't figure to get it in meetings where they meet all kinds, and how do I know what kind they are meeting in these meetings or where they go after, especially with these Communists telling them it isn't modern to stay decent any more and your parents are a lot of dumb monkeys to interfere with whether you don't stay decent, if you get what I mean.

AND WHILE I am on the subject, I will be frank to say frankly it is all right with me whoever you go with and you can say they aren't Communists, but that is your story and I would be the last person on earth to interfere about your friends, but as far as I am concerned a lot of them certainly look like Communists to me and moreover, like I said, I am not going to farm my responsibility over to any youth crowd no matter who says so. Because between us in our whole family up to our kids there never was anybody ever finished high school, and all I read is the headlines and the funnies and sometimes a love story in the magazines if I get the time, but we have to get along with what brains we have got and we positively don't go around trying to raise other people's kids for them.

So, like I was saying, we may be all wrong, but it is the best we can do, and, say, ten years from now when the results are in I will be glad to compare results with anybody else's results, and if I have made a mess of my job I will hear plenty about it from God. Bread, eggs, soap, cigarettes and gin.

Havana And The Battle Of Britain

THE MEASURES agreed upon at Havana derive their whole significance from the struggle between Great Britain and the Nazi domination of continental Europe. But for the possibility that Hitler may conquer Britain, break the British blockade, achieve something very like naval supremacy in the Atlantic Ocean, and incorporate British industry, shipping, foreign investments, and finance into the totalitarian system, the problems discussed at Havana would not exist.

AS LONG as the British are in control of the Atlantic Ocean, even though our own navy is in the Pacific, nothing serious can happen in the French, Dutch, or Danish possessions in this hemisphere. As long as the totalitarian states are confined to continental Europe, no invasion of this hemisphere is conceivable, no bases can be seized in Greenland, in the Azores, in the Cape Verde Islands, and on the west coast of Africa, which would serve as stepping stones to the domination of any part of this hemisphere. No uprising of a fifth column anywhere is to be feared because the forces available in this hemisphere would be sufficient to suppress it.

As long as Britain continues to blockade the continent, there is no problem of how competing producers are to do business on equal terms with a totalitarian monopoly. But if Britain falls, there will disappear the last free market outside of the Americas; there will remain only the regimented market in what is left of Europe, and access to this market through the machinery of buying, paying, shipping will be under the control of Berlin. A large part of this hemisphere, especially the great South American nations of the temperate zone, would then become economically dependent upon the European monopoly with which they would have to carry on three-quarters of their trade; and in a military sense, they would at once be vulnerable to internal revolution and external pressure. For the Atlantic Ocean, particularly their part of it, would be commanded by the Axis.

IT WOULD THEN be a serious question whether they could maintain the independence which they have enjoyed in the century which followed the British naval victory at Trafalgar and the defeat of Napoleon at Waterloo. They would be faced with the imminent prospect of being reduced once more, like the Balkan nations of Europe, to the status of colonies and protectorates.

If, as the result of the conquest of Britain, the command of the Atlantic Ocean is lost to the American nations, the consequence will not be the mere substitution of a German Empire for the British Empire. The German Empire is avowedly and, wherever it is established, efficiently carrying out the greatest social revolution of modern times. It is the imperial socialist revolution in which the whole regime of private property, contract, free labor is being liquidated into a gigantic, continental, regimented, monopolistic socialism. It is with this new revolutionary regime that the nations of this hemisphere will then have to live and do business. They will be compelled to choose whether to be incorporated into it, which means a revolution within each of them, or to organize in order to withstand it, which means a radical reorganization of their own internal economies.

THE BATTLES around Great Britain and around Gibraltar will decide whether the independence of the nations of this hemisphere can be defended in the future as it has been in the past—by sea power. If the battles are lost, only those regions can now be defended by the United States where it can now land an army and base an air force. The Battle of Britain will, therefore, decide whether the United States must maintain permanently a very large army, and whether American industry must be regimented permanently on military lines. For if once the British fleet is lost, and the shipbuilding facilities of all Europe are under totalitarian management, there is little prospect of our being able to achieve even parity, much less mastery, in the Atlantic Ocean. We shall, therefore, be driven to maintaining a great army because we shall no longer be a sufficiently strong naval power.

This in itself, the need to raise and equip a great army, will compel us to conscript men and to regiment our economic life. But the Battle of Britain will decide also whether this transformation within the United States is to be temporary or permanent. If the British prevail, and the Hitlerian Empire falls, we shall be able to return to the essentials, though probably never again to all the incidentals, of a free economy. But if the war is lost in Europe, and therefore also in Africa, in Asia, and in most of South America, we shall be isolated in the region from Canada to Panama amidst totalitarian empires which control most of the highways, almost all the shipping, most of the industry, and all the external markets of the world. We shall, of course, survive. But the inexorable price of our own survival will be the radical reorganization and the planned direction of our own system of production and our own methods of doing business.

FOR PRIVATE competitive trading and unplanned competitive production and private investing based on estimates of private profit in a free market will produce neither the armaments we shall need if we are isolated; nor will they give us the equality of bargaining power needed to do business with, and yet not to be exploited by, the gigantic, continental monopolies of Europe and Asia.

Such success as has been had at Havana is due to the fact that the governments realize, even if many of their peoples have not yet realized, that if the Battle of Britain is lost there will be lost at once not only the existing base of the security of the American nations, but that there will be inaugurated a social revolution which will overturn every regime that is not well prepared and grimly determined to resist.

IN FACT, of course, no agreements that could have been reached at Havana would be sufficient to protect the independence of this hemisphere if Britain is destroyed as France has been destroyed. That must have been obvious to anyone at Havana; if the great catastrophe should take place, the measures of self-defense required will surpass anything now under consideration.

What apparently is being done at Havana is to prepare the ground, not for action in case Britain is totally lost, but for the situation which may very well exist in the near future, where terrific blows have been struck but no decision has been reached. It is in such a situation, with the blockade and counter-blockade both in effect but neither conclusive, with the whole world situation in great confusion, that the decision apparently taken at Havana will be important. For then it will matter that the French and Dutch possessions should not be used as bases of operation, that fifth column uprisings should not get out of hand, and that economic necessity, due to the piling-up of surpluses, should not drive many American nations into the position of having to submit to Hitler by becoming his allies.

If on these interim problems the Conference has agreed on measures as effective as possible with the means at our disposal, it will have done good work.

JANET WERTZ DISPLAYS PATRIOTIC TRINKETS

Red, white and blue earrings have come to town.

And golden eagles with rhinestone wings; silver eagles with red, white and blue wings and angry red eyes; red, white and blue airplane pins; red, white and blue bows to be worn in the hair; cigarette cases and compacts with rippling American flags.

The women are buying them. It's a part of the patriotic upsurge.

This patriotic costume jewelry is appearing in shop windows, and shop managers say the sales are very good.

One store carried about 30 different items of such jewelry. One saleswoman said "it is a pretty line and selling fast. It reminds me of the times just before the World War."

In Richmond, Va., according to the Associated Press, novelties with the words "God Bless America" are enjoying a heavy sale. Principally, ladies' pocketbooks have appeared with these words, stamped on both sides.

Rawhide belts, stamped with patriotic slogans, also are on the counters for the women trade. Expected to be popular here was the minjature "Uncle Sam's" tall hat, a glittering jeweled adornment for the women's coat lapels, a tiny novelty pin to brighten the attire and to indicate where the women stand in all this war business.

"Polly Want a Spot of Tea?"

'Hi Ho! What's the Hour? 4 P.M.? Why It's Time for Toto's Tea'

Toto finds it good to the last drop

By Scott Hart.

The British in Toto, the parakett, takes possession of its tropical eyes each afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The eyes, ordinarily two bright orbs which somewhere, in ancestry, anyhow, captured considerable dreaminess, takes on at 4 p. m. a severe irascibility.

Toto wants its tea then. The tea must be steaming, with a suggestion of cream, and brought on time. That's the point. That's the British in Toto. That's environment overbearing heredity.

The British took Toto when very young and they must have given him tea. They must have acted a certain, emphatic way about their tea at 4 p. m. Toto doesn't seem affecting his irascibility when 4 p. m. nears. He seems to be acting up to the hypothesis:

"There hasn't been any tea for a week,

"The bottom is out of the universe!"

The very thought of such possibilities arouses the parakeet. He's always been that way. He was given, 24 years ago, to M. K. Moorehead, a United States consular officer, and Mrs. Moorehead, of 2400 Sixteenth street, northwest, by an officer of the Royal Navy.

All about the world the Mooreheads carried Toto. They were constantly having visa troubles with him and he made the front pages in Paris.

He astounded everyone on shipboard once in the sweltering Red Sea—when tradition wilted all about—by demanding, with a severity of tropical throatings, his cup of steaming tea.

Yesterday, in Washington's heat wave, he sat with a cool complacency in a window of his owner's apartment, looking down his sizable beak at the birds in the yard below. He snapped fractiously at a doll and a toy duck, as his wont, because he believes them to be alive or at least muscling in on his territory—the apartment.

But as 4 p. m. approached, the irascibility occurred. "Come on, come on," he said. Which are the words his owners think he says best—and somehow showing considerable of the British challenge in these times.

Should Wife, 21, Leave Her Kin, Take Her Baby And Settle in California, to Oblige Sailor Husband Who Now Wants to See Her, After Long Indifference?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am 21 years old; have been married three years, and have a baby two years old. My husband is in the United States Navy. Eighteen months ago he was sent to California, and he kept saying he would send for me, but he never did. Then, three months ago, he was sent to Honolulu and he is still there.

Now, he writes that he is geting 30 days' leave beginning the last of this month, and he wants me to meet him in California, so that we can be together during his leave. He goes back to Honolulu at the end of the leave, and expects to remain there until October. He wants me to come prepared to stay in California until he can rejoin me there in October.

My family doesn't want me to go until he is back in California to stay, as it would mean I would be there alone (after his leave) if I went now. I don't know anyone in California. Should I go now, as he wants me to? Or should I wait until he is back in California to stay? Everyone I have asked so far, gives a different opinion. I would like your advice immediately, as he expects me to meet him the last of this month. Sincerely,

Building Sound Marriage Is Wife's First Business

DEAR W. J.: If you are financially able to make the trip, and if the journey would work no inhumane hardship on the baby (get an able doctor's opinion on this point), then by all means join your husband in California for the month of August. This is what any wife who loved her husband would do, in similar circumstances; particularly if she were interested in building a permanent marriage in the face of all handicaps, and building it in such a way as to keep alive in the relationship a mutual feeling of genuine affection, loyalty, consideration, good will, etc.

Perhaps your husband now worriedly regrets the indecisiveness or short-sightedness which kept him from sending for you during the previous 18 months. Now that he is in Honolulu and unable to see you and the baby even if he would, he may appreciate as never before all that you mean to him. Or he may have an urgent oresentiment that the separation, if much longer continued, will wreck the marriage. Then, too, the unsettled condition of international affairs may give him intuitive reason for wanting to spend as much time as possible with his family, while he is yet free to claim the privilege.

There is a whining childishness about your reluctance to go now with the intention of staying on after his leave, until he can return in October—simply because you "would be there alone" during that brief period, and because you don't know anyone in California." I have very little sympathy with your family's attitude of saccharine solicitude at the prospect.

As a married woman and a mother, presumably you are responsibly-minded and socially resourceful enough to meet the routine requirements of the "settling-in" adventure. If his plans work out, you would not be uncompanioned for more than two months, at most. And it's quite possible you need to get out from under your family's wing and develop some independence of thought and action.

Whether the project works out happily or not, I think it is a gamble that you should take—both for the sake of your marriage and in the interests of social self-development. If you don't go, and the marriage gradually falls apart, you never will be sure whether you couldn't have saved it, by making this move.

If the trip turns out to be a so-called "wild goose chase," for the possible reasons that (1) he doesn't get transferred back to California in October, or (2) that you find you have grown irreconcilably incompatible and therefore would be happier apart than together—still, you can mark it down on the profit side of the ledger that you measured up to what was expected of you, in the way of a generous partnership effort.

As I see the picture, there is a chance you may gain much by going. And nothing of value affecting the marriage is to be preserved by your hanging back. The maintenance of your marriage is the most important piece of business in your life; and I believe that anyone who had a detached, unselfish wish for your success in that enterprise would counsel you to set sail for California in a jauntily pioneering spirit—cheerfully expecting the best and philosophically insulated against any "worst" that might develop.

First Fall Felts Are Simple and Wearable

Your first fall felt is as essential as your first fall dress or suit, maybe more so, for you will wear it with varied costumes. Here are two simple, wearable styles. If you like outdoor spaces and country tweeds, you'll feel at home in the high crowned sports hat at left with its fluffy feather shooting high. If your brow is clear, and you prefer starry-eyed young hats, the halo at right would be a pretty choice. The scooped out brim is trimmed with a belting bow, a nice compliment if there are forward curls or a pompadour hair style

Poor Posture, Not Age, Cause Of Neck Hump

Prevention Better Than Cure, but Exercise Helps

By Ida Jean Kain

THAT HUMP at the nape of the neck may have started in your schooldays when you bent over your algebra—but it still isn't a bump of knowledge! Later on, you make matters worse by knitting, reading and working with the head tilted forward—and blame it on age.

But if you have a hump there, you are not as interested in its start as you are in its finish, so we'll give the cure first, then the preventive.

There are only a few exercises which work. Any number of exercises get those particular muscles into action but most of them increase the tendency to a forward head and neck. A bad example is the one in which you lie on the back and raise your head to look at your toes.

Get to Work With Exercise

Exercises in which the head is pulled back are best.

1. POSITION: Lying face downward on the floor, arms down at sides.

MOVEMENT: Keeping the arms straight, clasp the hands behind the back, and forcibly contract the back, shoulder and neck muscles to raise the head and chest off the floor. Hold and release. Repeat six times.

2. POSITION: Lying on the back on the floor, stretched to full extension.

MOVEMENT: Keeping the back of the head on the floor, arch the back, and contract the back muscles to lift the shoulders slightly off the floor. Hold and release. Repeat four times only.

3. POSITION: Standing erect but at ease.

MOVEMENT: Hunch the shoulders up about the ears, then rotate back, down and around. The rotation should include the entire shoulder girdle.

4. POSITION: Stand facing a wall, chest and toes touching the wall, chin level.

MOVEMENT: Keeping the chest against the wall, the chin level, pull back with the head. This exercise has the added advantage of reflexly contracting the abdominal muscles.

Prevention Better Than Correction

But prevention is better than correction any time. The way to prevent this teddy bear hump is to make good posture a habit. Never let your head poke forward. Try to keep the back of the neck in as straight a line as possible. If you maintain that line, the chin is level, the chest and lower abdominal wall are lifted, and the figure is in correct alignment.

A WOMAN'S

WASHINGTON

Dynamic, Blonde Lady From Down Under Brings a Refreshing Touch to Diplomatic Scene

THAT REFREHING breeze blowing through the frequently musty corridors of diplomatic Washington can be attributed to Patricia Jarrett, the vital blonde Melbourne girl who is serving as secretary to Mrs. Casey, wife of the Australian Minister. Her present job is to help Mrs. Casey with the intricacies of establishing a new legation. She also handles the radio when the two go off on airplane flights together.

Pat Jarrett

In Australia she is known as a topnotch newspaperwoman. She has been telling readers of the Melbourne Herald about sports events for nearly eight years. She accompanied the Australian women's cricket team on a 12 months' tour of Europe and England—the first time the Herald ever sent a reporter abroad. She has covered the Empire Games and other international events previously reserved for men only. An athlete herself, she is considered an expert on women's sports; her unique collection of sports records held by women has been insured for several hundred pounds.

Her presence in Washington is due indirectly to the Russo-Finnish war. She had been assigned to the Olympic Games in Finland and planned to return home via America, which she had never seen. But the Russians got to Finland first, so she took a year's leave and came here anyway. After a month in Hollywood, whence she sent articles on film stars and Boeing planes to Melbourne, she received a wire from Mrs. Casey. The two had met on the boat trip from Australia. Feeling she could do her country more good in Washington than in Hollywood, she broke an appointment with Norma Shearer and came East.

STREET SCENES—A small girl roller skating on H street northwest between Sixth and Seventh on a recent hot afternoon, keeping cool under a large black umbrella. . . . Two puzzled gents in Farragut Square toeing an object they had noticed lying on the sidewalk. It was one of those new lipstick-proof scarlet-tipped cigarettes. . . . Small fry thumbing a ferry ride over the ford at the Rock Creek Park Zoo entrance.

Several days after her picture "Hopscotch" went on exhibit at the Phillips Memorial Gallery, Bernice Cross went calling with her husband, Jim McLaughlin, curator of the gallery. Their hostess commented on the picture, which, to get technical, is a college, made up of odds and ends of materials. "Where did you find that plaid material for the little girl's dress?" she asked.

Bernice cast a guilty look at Jim. Suddenly a grieved enlightenment swept over his face. "I KNEW I'd seen that plaid before," he moaned. "It's from my new shirt!" "Just a very little piece out of the tail," Bernice said.

Cold Entree
Hot Dessert

IT LOWERS one's temperature just to think of cold food. A cold supper means a cool cook. But there is still the idea that too many cold cuts, salads, frozen desserts, and iced drinks weigh like lead on the stomach. For a long time there have been advocates of hot soup followed by a cold buffet. But this is a changing world, so why not a hot dessert to top off a cold meal? It is an innovation and highly satisfactory.

APPLE MAPLE CRUNCH is a delicious hot dessert, although it may be topped with vanilla ice cream if desired. Here is the recipe:

Apple Maple Crunch

Wash and peel 6 large, tart apples. Cut them into eighths, and put them in a buttered baking pan. Cream ½ cup butter until soft and add ½ cup flour and ½ cup maple sugar. When fine and crumb-like, sprinkle over the apples. Bake in moderate oven, 360 degrees for 30 minutes. Mix 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon cinnamon and ¼ cup maple sugar and sprinkle over the apples. Then sprinkle with 1 cup pecan halves and cook 15 minutes more. Serve hot, topped with vanilla ice cream. Serves six.

How High Is a High Hat?

Contrary to general belief a high hat is not high. The average opera or folding silk hat has a 5¼-inch crown, ⅛ inch lower than theaverage felt snap brim hat. the opera hat has a 5½-inch crown, ⅛ inch higher than the average felt snap brim. Height in silk hats varies slightly with the size. In the opera hat up to size 7¼, the crown is 5¼ inches. Over 7¼, the crown is 5⅜ inches.

The Gentler Sex

By Malvina Lindsay

Dog Day's Defense

A DOG DAYS' defense program was presented to Congress yesterday by Mrs. Henrietta DeGoofey, president of the Do Something About It League.

Mrs DeGoofey

The famous reformer appeared before the Senate Committee for Public Meddling with a proposed bill to make life more bearable in August." Among its outstanding provisions were.

The prohibition of Sunday afternoon callers—and of unexpected visitors at all times.

The barring of women in black crepe and jersey dresses or velvet hats from public appearance until after September 1.

Elimination of pork chops, fried potatoes and similar items from restaurant menus.

The licensing of women—by a district board of esthetics—to wear slacks and play suits in public places other than beach or playground.

The exile to a concentration camp of certain groups of people designated by the reformer as "humidity pests."

May Drive Women To Screaming

"I am asking you gentlemen to take measures to save the sanity of the Nation through August," Mrs. DeGoofey told the committee. "Unless something is done soon, approximately 30,000,000 women will start screaming any minute."

"Are you having the audacity to try to change the weather, Mrs. DeGoofey?" asked Senator Chinn, the committee chairman.

"Not the weather, but the way people behave in it," was the reply. "Now it would be much easier to stand a 98-degree temperature if we didn't also have to look at certain sights—women in bare legs and high heeled slippers, women parading in slacks and play suits who should be in Mother Hubbards, women—and men also I may say—in swim suits who should never have been released from their Turkish bath cabinets.

"However, unesthetic as those sights are, the worst is yet to come. Within a few days, flocks of black human crows will invade the downtown streets—women who are trying to get into their new fall clothes before other women do. These women, togged out in sleazy black jerseys, crepes and satins will not only make the rest of us stifle by merely looking at them, but they will give those of us who are still in summer dresses inferiority complexes that may ruin our later lives.

Sunday Afternoon Caller Denounced

"Another summer offender who must be squelched quickly is the Sunday afternoon caller. As you know, I have been campaigning for years against the overnight guest in all forms and at all seasons. Now I have added the Sunday afternoon caller—in fact all unexpected callers—to my blacklist.

"The Sunday afternoon caller is a special menace because Sunday afternoon is probably the most difficult time of the whole week to live through, and no one wants his—or her—misery on a hot afternoon, after a full dinner, added to by the arrival of a carload of chattering guests expecting cool drinks and entertaining bon mots. The only place for anyone on Sunday afternoon is HOME."

Mrs. DeGoofey presented a list of "humidity pests" that she demanded be sent to concentration camps where they could "have a grand time persecuting each other." Among those listed were:

'Humidity Pests' Are Listed

"Persons who go around smirking nobly and saying they don't mind the heat.

"Chummy individuals who get up picnics and take special delight in dragging to them the stay-at-home-with-a-good-book—ers.

"Whining women who complain because they have to stay in town in 'all this heat.'

"Brisk persons who think up worthwhile projects for non-brisk persons to engage in.

"Vacationists and other travelers who are going through the city and who look up people who don't want to be looked up."

Senator Tweet, Mrs. DeGoofey's old enemy, objected to the program on the ground it was "too trivial for Senatorial attention while Rome was burning."

"Senator Tweet," said Mrs. DeGoofey, "you know as well as I do that nothing would delight the Senate so much as to have some trivial matters to discuss from now on until after election."

"I challenge that statement," exclaimed Senator Tweet.

"What is the Senate discussing now for the most part but trivialities?" retorted Mrs. DeGoofey. "Moreover, think what a splendid chance my program would give Congressmen to make speeches and at the same time avoid stands on international matters! Think how it would keep the voters' minds absorbed on unembarrassing issues—"

"I believe you have something there, Mrs. DeGoofey!" exclaimed Senator Chinn. "The committee will take your plan under advisement."

Picture Framing Hint

Anne Shirley mounts two or three small pictures on a piece of highly polished wood, then "frames" the wood with a large cork mat. The cork mats are ordinary place mats designed for summer luncheons.

Beauty Secrets

By CAROLYN ABBOTT

Hot Weather Pick-ups

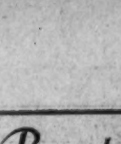
WITH THE thermometer hovering around 100 degrees these days, it takes deep plotting to preserve a bath-fresh appearance. It's difficult enough to keep fresh and dainty when you rush home for repairs. But when you dash straight from the office to a dinner engagement you need some quick overhauling to counteract a wilted look.

There are many new beauty aids on the market to help you outwit the hot weather onslaught. For example, there are compact cotton discs about the size of a half dollar that unfold into full size wash cloths when dipped into water. These are handy for quick sponge baths and facial pick-ups.

Nothing is more cooling and refreshing than an eau de cologne or toilet water rub-down for a quick bath. Besides, perking up your down and out look, they impart a feeling of cleanliness and elegance. One new summer "cooler-offer" is "Azalea" cologne that preserves the fragrance of those spring flowers. Another summer toilet water that imparts the coolness and freshness of new cut grass is "Blue Grass Flower Mist."

As a substitute soap and water bath, apply toilet water or cologne generously with absorbent cotton. And for an after-bath gesture spray them over the body with an atomizer. If the feet feel tired and are wet with perspiration, rub them with toilet water.

Lighter Complexion
by using
Mercolized Wax Cream



A simple way to remove the dull, drabness of your complexion and reveal the lighter, lovelier skin tones. Just use Mercolized Wax Cream as directed. Its active ingredients help to flake off the older, darkened surface skin in minute, almost invisible particles, revealing a fairer, fresher, underskin.

Saxolite Astringent tightens loose surface skin. Gives a delightful sense of freshness. Reduces excess surface oil. Dissolve Saxolite Astringent in one-half pint witch hazel and use daily.

Phelactine Depilatory removes unsightly facial hair quickly. Pleasant and easy to use.

Many Forsaking Cool Vacation Spots For Jobs at Willkie Headquarters

Undaunted by Recent Egg-Throwing At Picture of Nominee Idol, Women Rush to Join Up as Volunteers

By Dudley Harmon

Undaunted by the recent egg-throwing at the picture of their idol over the door of headquarters on Fifteenth street, many Washington women are rushing to join up as volunteers in the Wendell Willkie campaign.

Miss Anne Perin, who prefers a summer in Washington to the life of a staid resort, no matter how cool, starts work today. Mrs. Howland Chase will return from her farm in the country the end of the week to Work for Willkie. Others bitten with the same bug include Mrs. Lowndes Jackson, a Junior League officer; Mrs. Blaise de Sibour, who is a distant cousin of President Roosevelt, and Mrs. Joseph McCammon, who is working as a secretary at headquarters.

McConihe's Son Signs for Willkie

Dropping in there yesterday, we found as many shirt-sleeved men coming in for information as there were immaculately white-linened ones. An average of over a hundred a day sign the "Win With Willkie" book kept for visitors. To some of the signatures are appended such qualifications as "Democrat," "Former Democrat" and "Jeffersonian Democrat." The signers include F. Moran McConihe, whose father, Malcolm McConihe, is Democratic National Committeeman for the District.

E. Cortlandt Parker was taking his turn at the desk when we came in (the volunteers work in two-hour shifts). Mrs. Parker is now vacationing in Fishers Island, but her husband reports that as soon as she returns in September she will join the growing force at headquarters.

A friend of ours who recently went by train to New York reports that she sat next to a bejeweled dowager who, as soon as they pulled out of Wilmington, suddenly announced in horrified tones:

"I've lost my pin."

So agitated was she that her fellow passengers scrambled about on hands and knees looking under chairs for what they believed was a diamond brooch. Finally the porter was summoned. When he heard of the tragedy, he baceme agitated and said:

"What kind of a pin is it, madam?"

"It's red and white and has the name of Willkie printed on it," she explained.

So great is the Willkie fervor becoming that local ladies are even wearing their buttons on their evening dresses. A survey would probably show that they are also being pinned to nightgowns. But nobody, to our knowledge, has yet emulated the Newport woman who four years ago had a Landon pin made of diamonds and rubies.

Dora Miller Here After 20 Years in Paris

"The French people are not Fascist-minded and the great majority of them are not angry at the British for taking their ships."

This good news from a country from which little news comes any more was brought by Miss Dora Miller, just arrived after 20 years residence in Paris. A leading American stylist, she flew here on the Clipper. Yesterday Mrs. Robert Sherrod entertained at a small and pleasant luncheon in her honor in a private dining room at the Carlton.

In her mad dash with thousands of other refugees before the German invasion, Miss Miller found little or no anti-American sentiment among the French. "Mostly they blame themselves for the tragedy," she said.

Over a lunch which was as cold as possible, from iced daiquerries to frozen raspberry parfait, Miss Miller told of her adventures getting out of France. Unlike most of the refugees, she and her husband went out by train. They slept on gunny sacks outside the station, dressed wounds for French soldiers, huddled on the wooden benches of their third-class coach for hours when their train was bombed, and before leaving helped French friends bury family silver in the garden.

Silver Tea Service Buried in Garden

"The first place the Germans will go is to the banks," their friends said. "A garden is perfectly safe. Why, this silver tea service here was underground for several months in the war of 1870."

Miss Miller and her husband, who is Novelist Alan Updegraf, left everything they own, except for two typewriters and an overnight bag, in Paris. Yesterday morning the fashion expert conferred with Red Cross officials here and predicts that Americans will still be able to send relief supplies to the unoccupied part of France.

Miss Elizabeth Waters Weds A. H. Graeff at Chevy Chase

Bride Is Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Easter Waters, of This City; Couple Will Make Home in Washington

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Waters and Allan Hathaway Graeff took place on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. J. Hillman Hollister officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Easter Waters, of this city. Mr. Graeff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Beard Graeff, of Longmeadow, Mass. Masses of gladioli and ferns adorned the church for the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a deep ivory taffeta gown, veiled in organza. It was made with a deep V neckline, trimmed in old point d'venice lace which extended down the front and formed a jacketlikетrim. Her gown ended in a long train. Her veil, of point applique, had been worn by her mother before her.

Miss Helen Wolcott served as maid of honor. She wore a blue chiffon gown made with a high neckline, short puffed sleeves and a full skirt. Her hat, of lacy straw, was trimmed with blue velvet ribbons. She carried a bouquet of pink and blue larkspur.

James Heaton, of Kensington, Md., served as best man. Ushers were Charles Emory Waters, brother of the bride, Francis D. Allen, and Durwood Boeglen.

The bride attended Goucher College. Following their honeymoon the couple will live in Washington.

MISS MARGARET J. MARTIN

Margaret Martin And Robert Gill Are Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Martin, of Washington and Jacksonville, Fla., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margaret J. Martin, to Robert G. Gill, of New York and Washington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Gill, of Gould, Ark.

The wedding will take place on August 17.

The C. A. Willmuths To Make Home Here

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alexander Willmuth, who were married on Saturday afternoon, will make their home at 1800 Kenilworth avenue here.

The bride, the former Miss Kathryn Elizabeth Spengler, is the daughter of Mrs. John Spengler, of Washington, and the late Mr. Spengler. Mr. Willmuth's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John P. Willmuth, of this city.

The couple was married at the Spengler home, the Rev. John J. Corbett officiating. The bride, who was given in marriage by her mother, wore a gown of pastel pink with a redingote and a white hat. She carried an arm bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and blue delphinium.

Mrs. Frank H. Benson was matron of honor, dressed in a pastel blue silk jacket dress with matching hat and carrying a cluster of pink tea roses and delphiniunm. George Raymond Jones, of Arlington, was best man.

Mrs. Willmuth is a member of Phi Sigma Epsilon. Her husband, who is a graduate of the University of Maryland and the Washington College of Law, belongs to the District of Columbia bar and is a member of the Sigma Nu Phi legal fraternity. He is an examiner for the U. S. Patent Office.

Males Abound At Parties Now

The Washington axiom that there are thousands more women here than men is being reversed during the heat wave. Now it's rare to see a party where the men don't outnumber the girls by 3 to 1.

Rounding up a sufficient number of ladies for summer bachelors kept here by work is now a hostess' main problem. Mme. Benech, wife of the Naval Attache of the French Embassy, was loaned a boat over Sunday for cruising on the Potomac. She ended up as one woman among about 12 men, several telephone calls to her friends having proved futile.

Boating parties on the Potomac and Chesapeake Bay over weekends continue to be the favorite method of getting away from it all. Members of the Polish Embassy staff have been motoring over to Annapolis every Sunday and hiring a small motorboat. Then they go out in the bay to fish and swim.

Among those who cool off thus is Count Lasocki, of the embassy, whose wife has gone to Hamilton, on the North Shore of Massachusetts, to visit friends. Later she will go to Marion, on Buzzards Bay, where many from the Washington Diplomatic Corps have houses. Count Lasocki hopes to drive up late in August.

So life goes humidly on here, with everyone agreed that George Washington was a wonderful man except when he chose this site as the Nation's Capital.

Mrs. William Beale And Daughters Going to Maine

Off tomorrow for a Northern vacation are Mrs. William Beale, of Tracy place, her daughters, Mrs. William T. Mann and Miss Barbara Beale, and her granddaughter, little Nancy Mann.

They will go to York Harbor, Me., for a sojourn of several weeks. Mrs. Beale's other daughter, Miss Betty Beale, who has been ill this summer, is now at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., but there's a possibility that she may join her family later on.

Miss Barbara Beale will make her debut this winter at a tea to be given by her parents.

Mrs. Whitney May Finance Her Own Movie

Mrs. Altemus Whitney, the dashing "Liz," has, it is reported, decided to finance her own movie. The rumor says that she has given up her idea of waiting around for a film offer to evolve, and will do her own film making.

The Virginia hunt country has seen little of Mrs. Whitney since she was bitten by the Hollywood bug. She left her horse farm, Llangollen, near Middleburg, several months ago for the West Coast, and has been there ever since, with the exception of her trip to Reno.

Col. Hurban Attends Fair

The Minister of Czecho-Slovakia, Col. Vladimir S. Hurban, attended the World's Fair over the week-end. He took part in ceremonies at the Court of Peace in observance of Czecho-Slovak Day at the Fair.

Also in New York over the week-end were the Charge d'Affaires of Luxembourg and Mme. Le Gallas, the Naval Attache of the Argentine Embassy and Senora de Gody and Capt. Pierre Benech of the French Embassy.

Phillis Jones To Become Bride Of A. B. Groverman

Mr. and Mrs. Carleton D. Smith, of Chevy Chase, Md., entertained at tea Sunday to announce the engagement of her sister, Miss Phillis Adelaide Jones, to Arthur Blake Groverman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Groverman, of this city.

The wedding will take place August 12. The bride is a graduate of George Washington University and the Washington College of Law, and Mrs. Groverman is an alumnus of the University of Maryland.

Notes of Society

Official and Residential

Representative James M. Barnes has returned to his apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel after a brief visit to his home in Jacksonville, Ill.

Harry Norment has gone to California and will not return here until about the first of October.

Mrs. William L. Ritchie, of Langley Field, Va., a former Washington resident, is at the St. Regis in New York. Mrs. H. L. Rust, jr., of this city, also has been spending a few days there.

Mrs. G. Tinsley Creech has returned to her home on Manchester lane after a two weeks' visit with her daughter, Mrs. J. Franklin Carnahan, in Manchester, Ky. There were many parties in her honor and she visited the schools in Berea and Oneida. Mrs. Creech also went to Renfro Valley, Cumberland Falls, Stanford, Danville, Middlesboro, Lexington, Cumberland Gap and Norris Dam.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Kelly are vacationing at the Pancoast Hotel in Miami Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Maris, of Riverdale, Md., are spending several days at the Beekman Tower Hotel in New York, with Miss Lesh Crose, of Pasadena, and Mrs. H. B. Welch, of Plymouth, Md.

Ambassador Gives Luncheon for Frances Dalys Escoffery

The Ecuadorean Ambassador, Capt. Colon Eloy Alfaro, entertained yesterday at luncheon at the Army-Navy Club in honor of Senorita Frances Dalys Escoffery, daughter of Senor Francis Escoffery, of Panama City, Panama. Senor Escoffery and the Ecuadorean Ambassador have been close friends for many years.

Senorita Escoffery will leave today for New York and will sail tomorrow for Panama City, where she will visit her family until September 1, at which time she will return to her duties here with the Pan American Union.

Youngest Son Accompanied Mother

Senora de Alfaro, wife of the Ambassador, is now in Panama City, visiting their oldest son, Lieut. Eloy Alfaro. She left Washington early this month and was accompanied by their youngest son, Cadet Olmedo Alfaro, who is on furlough from West Point and just returned from a cadet cruise to Venezuela.

Senora de Alfaro and Cadet Alfaro will return to Washington on August 31. Cadet Alfaro will not spend the entire month of August in Panama. He will go on to Ecuador for a brief visit to his native land, before rejoining his mother in Panama City for the return here.

Arriving Today To Become Interne

Arriving in Washington today will be Dr. G. Ballestros, who is coming here from Ecuador to fill an interneship in this country.

The new second secretary of the Ecuadorean Embassy, Jose Correa, and Senora de Correa, who arrived in Washington last month, have taken an apartment at the Majestic.

The Harrisons To Live Here

After a wedding trip to Virginia Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Harrison, who were married Sunday, will make their home at 423 Massachusetts avenue. The bride is the former Miss Agatha Tsakanikas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Demetrios Tsakanikas, of White Plains, N. Y., and Mr. Harrison is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Harrison, of Washington.

The couple was married at the Church of SS. Constantine and Helen at a 7 o'clock ceremony, the Rev. Thomas Daniels officiating. The bride, who was given in marriage by George Apostolichs, wore white satin with a long lace veil attached to a coronet of pearls and stones. She carried a fan of orchids, gardenias and valley lilies.

The bride is a graduate of the Art Academy of New York and her husband attended the Theological College in Athens, Greece.

Daughter Is Born To Mr. and Mrs. Camp

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Camp are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter on Saturday at Columbia Hospital. Mrs. Camp is the former Miss Sally Holmes, daughter of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Ralston Holmes.

The baby's parents have just taken a house at 1318 Thirty-third street in Georgetown.

Hundreds Expected to Dine on Fried Chicken at Annual Feast to Be Served At Sherwood High School, Sandy Creek

TONIGHT hundreds of residents of Montgomery County and the District will eat fried chicken at Sherwood High School, Sandy Spring. The Women's Board of Montgomery County General Hospital is sponsoring its annual community supper for the benefit of the institution.

Last year 1,640 suppers were served in the big tent on the grounds and in the school building. During the evening many additional patrons came to play games, patronize the various booths and to dance. The total proceeds amounted to $3,084.

This year, the preparations are being made in the customary way, with women of the community organized so the activities go like clockwork. Mrs. Louis T. Bussler, of Ashton, heads the general committee this season, succeeding Mrs. Jack Boyd, who has directed the supper for the past several years.

Yesterday, preliminary work was being done at the school building. Mrs. Leonard C. Burns, of Olney, who has charge of frying the 325 chickens, with the help of her committee prepared them for cooking. Lettuce and celery were washed and prepared by Mrs. Thomas Hyde, of Sandy Spring, who, with her committee, is making the potato, tomato, and lettuce salads and the cole slaw. Mrs. J. W. Bird, of Sandy Spring, began the making of chicken salad, of which she is in charge, at her home and will finish it today at the school. About 80 chickens go into the salad.

There will also be country ham —Maryland's best—in charge of Mrs. Robert H. Miller, sr., of Spencerville, and Mrs. Roderick Adams, of Sandy Spring. They expect to slice 18 hams, weighing about 25 pounds each. Then there will be, as usual, Maryland beaten biscuits, jams and jellies.

The service is at long tables under the tent with everything arranged so well there is no confusion as the hundreds of people are fed.

One of the special tables will be that at which all kinds of home made foods are sold, donated by the best cooks in the county. This year there will be 100 cakes for sale. Last season 95 were sold.

MRS. CHARLES C. TUMBLESON is president of the Woman's Board of the hospital which has contributed generously to the institution for many years.

It began functioning in 1919, with a membership of eight. The nospital opened in 1920 with furniture, linens, blankets, silver and china, purchased under the supervision of the chairman.

Since that time the board has initiated many improvements in general management and has contributed substantial sums of money toward upkeep. It is now limited to a membership of 100 and is composed of women from all areas of Montgomery County, representatives of 20 clubs, of the Howard County Auxiliary, of the Junior Auxiliary and of the new and active Hopsital Service Unit.

It is mainly concerned with the upkeep, housekeeping and oversight of the hospital and nurses' home. The funds raised and all articles received by the board go to help pay a housekeeper and for supplying linens, food, kitchen equipment, hopsital furnishings, for the supervision and care of the grounds and for occasional cash gifts to the hopsital.

Each year the board promotes two major events. These are a donation day tea, held at the hospital in December, and the hospital supper held the last Tuesday in July on the grounds of the Sherwood High School. Last year on donation day $724.01 in cash was received as well as quantities of linen articles, home canned fruits and vegetables, jellies, preserves and groceries. These gifts came from clubs, guilds, Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, schools and individuals. They materially assist in keeping the budget balanced. A dance given annually by the Junior Auxiliary supplies funds for its many efforts toward hospital betterment.

In 1938, the new nurses' home was completed, the Woman's Board having contributed $6,600 toward its erection. Supervision of the furnishing and decorations of the home were turned over to the board and many clubs made special gifts of money for this work. Rooms were completely furnished by the Woman's Club of Chevy Chase, the Howard County Auxiliary and the Woman's Democratic Club of Montgomery County. This spring the Howard County Auxiliary presented a fine picture to be hung over the fireplace in the living room.

For many years, a bed has been maintained in the hospital by the Woman's Club of Bethesda. The nursery was furnished by the Woman's Club of Chevy Chase and new equipment was added by the Junior Auxiliary, which also has made improvements and additions to the delivery room, office and waiting room. New equipment for the accident room was given by the Junior Women's Club of Chevy Chase and the grounds have been beautified by plantings donated by the Garden Club of Chevy Case.

The library is under management of the Soroptimist Club of Montgomery County, which has supplied new books and a much-need book-cart enabling the patient to make a selection in his own room.

The largest annual expenditure of the Woman's Board is for linens and the marking and mending of these articles is a labor that never ends. The linen committee holds sewings for this purpose on the last Friday in each month, from September to June, and both members and nonmembers attend.

Some clubs and individuals obtain sewing from the committee which they do at regular or special meetings and in their own homes. The Woman's Club of Silver Spring has been particularly active in this respect. The surgical dressings committee is aided in the same way by faithful workers. The Howard County Auxiliary and the Junior Auxiliary and the Hospital Service Unit also assume a large share of the responsibility for these activities, in spite of which there is always need for help.

Martha Tarver Visiting Friends In Washington

Miss Martha Tarver, a former resident of Washington, has come here from her home in Texas to see her friends and is making her headquarters at the Hotel Roosevelt.

A former student at Western High School, she is the daughter of the late Judge W. A. Tarver, who was special assistant to Justice Frank Murphy when the latter was Attorney General.

policy of resisting political, military or economic threats to this hemisphere by foreign powers.

Argentina, however, accomplished her diplomatic coup of the reservations, thus backing up the preconference declarations of her foreign minister, Jose Cantilo, who said that Argentina would take no action likely to offend her European customers, including, of course, Germany and Italy.

Some observers linked the Argentine maneuver with the United States economic plan, which is couched in broad terms and leaves unspecified the amount of financial assistance to be given to other countries.

Bargaining Position Good

It was understood that this proposal was drawn purposely without specific financial promises so the other countries would show their willingness to support the United States measures on defense.

By reserving commitment on the question of European possessions in this hemisphere, Argentina thus is in a good economic bargaining position.

An Argentine reservation also excluded from the American "trusteeship" plan the Falkland islands, British South Atlantic base, ownership of which Aregntina has long disputed. This, however, merely restored a provision embodied in the United States' original proposal.

Secretary of State Hull, weary from long hours of persuasion and argument to satisfy objections raised chiefly by Argentina, had been happy over what sources close to him described as substantial success of the United States in welding the American nations into a closer-knit group to face the perils of a war-disrupted world.

Language Revised

Three main United States objectives were accomplished in the tedious negotiations, although the documents emerged in language couched differently from the original proposals.

These were:

1. An "Act of Havana," representing a step forward from previous mere declarations, in which the other 20 republics virtually embraced the Monroe Doctrine and gave their prior consent to its enforcement to prevent any new foreign powers from gaining control over possessions in this hemisphere.

2. A program for economic protection and development designed both to relieve existing distress resulting from the loss of European markets and to build an American trade system strong enough to enable any of the republics to turn their backs on foreign powers that seek to dictate terms and methods contrary to a policy of liberal trade.

3. A broadside attack by all the republics in unison on "Fifth Column" activities by which some foreign powers were declared to be seeking to undermine existing governments and create new ones more favorable to their political systems.

"Act of Havana"

The outstanding achievement of the conference, in the minds of United States and most other delegates, was the "Act of Havana" which amounted to the creation of a continental Monroe Doctrine bestowing the moral if not material support of all the republics to any one of them acting to safeguard the security of the hemisphere.

It allows the United States or any other of the nations to act with the rapidity and decision demanded by Secretary Hull in his opening address.

An expression of the attitude of all the ratifying nations, the act contains language strikingly similar to recent United States notes to Germany and Italy declaring that the United States could not recognize or acquiesce in any attempt to transfer or acquire interest in American territories.

The economic declaration would expand the scope and authority of the inter-American economics and financial advisory committee as the chief medium for subsequent detailed negotiations in those fields.

Asserting the belief of the American republics in the principles of free trade, this provides that the committee already established attack the problem of export surpluses.

Attacks on "Fifth Column" activities took the shape of two resolutions.

One provides for measures by individual governments to curb outside political activities of foreign diplomatic and consular officials.

Consultation Provided

The other pledged each of the republic to adopt "all necessary measures in accordance with its constitutional powers to prevent and suppress" subversive activities directed, assisted or abetted by foreign governments, groups or individuals.

It provided for consultation if any republic were menaced by such activities and requested consultation. The governments also agreed to warn each other of any threats to the security of any country.

A resolution on neutrality recommended that the republics put on their statute books the principles and rules on neutrality contained in the Declaration of Panama. This would have the effect of making the 300-mile neutrality belt against hostile activities a part of the law of each individual republic.

The "Act of Havana" provides that the republics may establish "regions of provisional administration" in any areas now held by non-American nations in the event they "are in danger of becoming the subject-matter of exchange of territories or sovereignty."

At the same time any of the 21 governments was left free to stand aside from actual measures taken to carry out the policy.

Triumph for Hull

The "provisional administration" may be put into effect by any one or any group of the American nations if the emergency is too great to permit consultation among all members, but would be established only on the understanding that when the emergency has passed the affected regions would be returned to their original status or regulated into autonomous territories.

Full solidarity of the Pan-American powers on the final carefully phrased draft was considered a great personal triumph for Secretary of State Hull.

Although the offer falls far short of Hungary's demands, informed Rumanian sources indicated they expected the backing of the Rome-Berlin Axis for them.

Germany, they said, will treat Rumania "easily" because of Nazi interest in the Rumanian oil industry, vital for the German war machine.

Hitler, it was said, told Rumania that if Hungary and Bulgaria—which claims Rumania's South Dobruja—failed to reach an agreement on their demands in direct negotiation with the Bucharest government, he would arbitrate.

Roosevelt Asks Guard-Call Power

pose of ordering the National Guard into active service is to aid in training men who would be drafted under the Burke-Wadsworth bill.

The President in his letter to the Senate recalled that he asked Congress earlier this summer for authority to order the National Guard into service in the event of an emergency when Congress was not in session. A resolution giving effect to this proposal was adopted by the House Military Affairs Committee and is still pending before the House.

"That proposal is no longer sufficient," the President asserted yesterday, "as I am now convinced that the security of the Nation demands that this component of our Army be brought to the highest possible state of training efficiency more rapidly than its present program permits."

Realizes "Sacrifices"

Mr. Roosevelt said he had refrained from making his request earlier because he realized the "personal sacrifice" demanded of Guardsmen in a period of extended active duty.

"I cannot with clear conscience," he added, "longer postpone this vitally essential step in our progress toward adequate preparedness . . ."

War Department officials yesterday were not prepared to discuss the probable time-table of calls to service if Congress grants the President authority to mobilize the Guard. It was indicated, however, that the Guard might be ordered out three or four divisions at a time over a period of several months. Officers said Army spokesmen will elaborate the plan at Congressional hearings on the resolution proposed by the President.

Senators Reynolds (Democrat), of North Carolina, and Austin (Republican), of Vermont, ranking majority and minority members of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, both indorsed the general aims of the President's proposal yesterday, citing the National Guard's role in training conscripts under the Burke-Wadsworth bill.

Representative May (Democrat), of Kentucky, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, said: "In view of the foreign situation, wisdom and prudence justify the President's plan."

At least two substitutes for the Burke-Wadsworth bill were under informal discussion in Congress yesterday, with the coming debate certain to cut through party lines.

Prepare New Bill

Vandenberg, Senator Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana and other leaders of the opposition to the conscription plan were preparing to support a bill providing for a one-year period of voluntary military training. Minimum Army enlistment period now is three years.

Vandenberg suggested that the Army could relax some of its physical standards without danger, citing the case of a young man turned down, he said, because of "one cavity in a tooth." The actual rate at which voluntary enlistments are now coming in is "a big mystery," he added, "and another mystery is the real attitude of the War Department toward conscription."

Meanwhile, Representative May indicated that his committee, which is still holding hearings on the Burke-Wadsworth bill, will give serious study to various "compromise" conscription proposals designed to bring the total of men theoretically liable to service down closer to the number who would actually be called. There are approximately 12,000,000 men in the 21-31 age group, from which the Army would expect to draw 400,000 for training in October.

Substitute Proposal

One substitute proposal to be considered, according to May would for the present limit calls to active service to men from 21 to 25.

Spokesmen for several organizations opposing the bill will appear before the committee at 10:30 a. m. today, while Secretary of War Stimson is to testify in support of the measure tomorrow.

The bill was denounced as a menace to civil liberties and individual enterprise in a statement yesterday by John L. Lewis, C. I. O. president.

The C. I. O. has pledged full support to "a program for meeting the needs of national defense of this country," Lewis noted, but "we are firmly of the opinion that national defense does not and must not be based upon destruction or curtailment of our basic democratic institutions."

President Tours Defense Works

first official inspection trip.

It was the President's first official visit to Norfolk since he took office.

During the inspection of Army defenses, Chairman Sheppard, of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, sat next to the President in his open car.

Accompanying the President were Secretary of Commerce Hopkins, Chairman Vinson of the House Naval Affairs Committee, Brig. Gen. E. M. Watson, aide to the President, and Capt. Daniel Callaghan, Naval aide.

At Portsmouth Navy Yard, first stop of the day's tour, the President called Rear Admiral Manley H. Simons, commandant, to his car to explain features of the Navy workshops.

During the admiral's report, the President called attention to the fact that a great deal of construction work in the yards is being done by WPA labor. The President appeared particularly pleased when Admiral Simons told him that 40 per cent of the WPA workers had been taken on as regular yard workers with Civil Service status. This shows, the President said, that a fairly high percentage of WPA labor is efficient.

Admiral Simons told the President that the yard's working force had increased 50 per cent since the outbreak of the European conflict and that, since that time, the yard had spent more than $50,000,000 on defense.

The President showed special interest in the construction of the 35,000-ton battleship Alabama, whose keel was recently laid. The President was told that the yard's construction program called for facilities to construct four capital ships at the same time.

Admiral Simons' report emphasized that the yard was going to put navy vessels into "war readiness."

The party drove to the naval operating base in Norfolk, through streets lined with cheering crowds where the omnipresent 21-gun salute was fired. The President chatted with Rear Admiral Joseph K. Taussig, Commandant of the 5th Naval District, and with Mrs. Taussig.

With Knox at his side, Mr. Roosevelt watched a dress parade by a regiment of raw naval recruits, who had been given only eight weeks training. They marched in almost perfect step.

At the Naval Air Station, a part of the vast base, the Presidential party moved past a double row of 300 Navy planes. From one hangar there jutted the nose of a giant patrol bomber, whose details are a closely guarded military secret.

Boarding the Presidential yacht Potomac again, the President lunched with his party on the yacht as it steamed across Hampton Roads to Old Point Comfort.

Fortress Monroe at Old Point Comfort, rich in Civil War memories, provided a super-modern high spot of the day.

At Wilson Point, part of the Fortress, the President, with cotton stuffed into his ears, was treated to an exhibition of markmanship by batteries of 3-inch antiaircraft and 37mm antiaircraft guns. The bigger pieces, electrically aimed, succeeded in knocking the tail off a plane-towed sleeve target at 8,000 feet.

As the President watched, the 3-inchers delivered 13-pound projectiles at 25 rounds per minute. The 37-mm. guns fired at closer targets, but with less success. Leaving Fortress Monroe, the President's motorcade drove along the seawall which hid the immense muzzles of disappearing coast defense guns.

At Langley Field GHQ and nerve center of the rapidly expanding Army Air Force, the men whose goal it is to command a total of 50,000 planes put on a power-loaded display of flying defensive force.

Drawn up on Langley's huge landing field were 120 planes, arranged in rows of P-40 pursuits, the Army's best, backed by medium sized bombardment planes, in the last row were squadrons of grim flying fortresses and a B-15 bomber, largest ship in the air. While the President looked on, the powerful fleet took off and roared over his head in battle formation.

After a look at aviation research developments, the party drove to the Newport News Shipbuilding & Drydock Co.

John P. Evans Funeral to Be Here Today

Masons to Conduct Services at Grave In Rock Creek Cemetery

Services will be held here today for John Penhallow Evans, 51, Washington plumbing contractor, who died Saturday at Colonial Beach, Va.

A native of Hyattsville, Mr. Evans lived most of his life in Washington. Following graduation from public schools here, he began his career as an apprentice with S. S. Shedd & Bro., and for more than 25 years was active in the plumbing and heating business. His firm is located at 2051 L street northwest.

An ardent golfer and fisherman, Mr. Evans was well known among sports enthusiasts. For several years he served as captain of the Potomac Boat Club crew. A Mason, he was a member of the New Jerusalem Lodge and other Scottish Rite bodies, including the Shrine and Royal Order of Jesters. He was one of five brothers who received their Masonic degrees at the same time.

Mr. Evans was also a member of the Columbia Country Club, Kiwanis Club, Washington Board of Trade, American Society of Sanitary Engineers, and a charter member of the Potomac Boat Club. He leaves his wife, Martha P.; two children, Ruth Emily and John P. jr.; and four brothers, Richard T., George W., Frank W. S., and Edwin S., all of Washington.

Final rites will be conducted at 11 a. m. today at the family residence, 1610 Longfellow street northwest, with the Rev. Reno S. Harp, jr., of Trinity Episcopal Church, officiating. Masonic burial services will follow at Rock Creek Cemetery.

The pall bearers will include W. R. Garrett, Dr. Allan Scott Wolfe, Dr. Charles R. Shelton, Carl J. Bergmann, Charles Cherry, George W. Evans, Frank W. S. Evans, and H. Glenn Phelps.

Miners Join Fight for District Suffrage

man Jennings Randolph of the House District Committee to work for local self-government, as well as for national representation. The group included a delegation from the District Suffrage Association.

In answer to a question after the meeting Randolph said: "I will attempt to find the sentiment of the District Committee on the Kennedy bill or on another measure embodying the principles of local self-government."

Green's Statement

A new statement from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, was added last night to voices advocating local self-government. James McNamara, international vice president of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union, who had obtained the statement only yesterday, read Green's words:

"There is every reason why the right of suffrage, including the right of local self-government, should be extended to residents of the District of Columbia. I cannot conceive of any convincing argument which could be used against it."

Wilbur S. Finch, president of the District Suffrage Association, opened the meeting in the Old House Office Building with a reading of the resolution adopted recently by the association, advocating "immediate passage by Congress of legislation based upon the Kennedy bill providing for local self-government, as well as the enactment of the Sumners resolution providing for national representation."

Sidney Katz, secretary-treasurer of the Maryland and District C. I. O., pointed out that the national organization had gone on record at two conventions in favor of District suffrage. He said the group of United Mine Workers from West Virginia, who called yesterday on Randolph, were the first delegation from outside the District to come here "to plead this cause."

"Solid Front on Suffrage"

Adelbert W. Lee, Southeast civic leader, said he came representing "a solid front on the suffrage question."

Henry L. Colman, president of the Northwest Council of Citizens Associations, said "the great majority" of its membership is strongly in favor of local self-government and national representation.

William A. Roberts, former People's Counsel, urged the Kennedy Bill or its equivalent. He said that "nobody whose voice can be heard" is opposed to the resolution passed by the Suffrage Association.

Harry S. Wender, vice president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, said: "It is hoped that the House District Committee will hold hearings on the Kennedy bill or report it out."

Mrs. M. O. Lorenz, president of the District League of Women Voters, read a statement on the league's support of both national representation and local suffrage for the District.

T. J. Houston, representing the Washington Bar Association and the Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations, said "if taxation without representation was tyranny in 1776, it is no less so in 1940."

Russell Balderson, chairman of the Democratic central committee here, spoke briefly, and Mrs. A. D. Condon and Melvin D. Hildreth, delegates to the recent Democratic National Convention, were introduced. Representative Frederick C. Smith (Republican), of Ohio, listened in at the conference.

he said, "and have served in my State in every party capacity from precinct committeeman to State chairman. I do not propose to be driven out of that party by any individual or group of individuals.

"I propose to remain in the Democratic Party and to devote my time and energies in an effort to restore it to its original fundamental principles and traditions."

Fearful of Reaction

The Indiana Democrat, one of the first members of his party to warn against a third term before Chicago, said he still felt the same way and is "very fearful of the reaction of American voters on that issue this fall."

"I am going along with Senator Burke in holding subcommittee hearings on the issue," he said. "I will attend every session of the subcommittee and will insist that everyone is heard who wants to be, both pro and con. Since the President has been renominated, this becomes a living and vital question. Thoroughgoing hearings will be of value to the Senate and the people."

Senator Burke, co-author of the compulsory military training bill now before the Senate, said due to the pendency of action on that measure he can not open hearings on his proposed Constitutional amendment limiting Presidential tenure in office until the week after next.

Hearings will be held from then on, until a complete record of public sentiment on the question has been developed, he said. Burke, chairman of the Judiciary subcommittee, launched his independent fight on the third term ten days ago by wiring Wendell L. Willkie he will support him, following the President's renomination.

Chairmanship Undecided

Meanwhile, as the date approached for White House designation of a national Democratic chairman to succeed James A. Farley, no final decision apparently had been reached.

Frank Walker, reluctant to accept the post, was still reported the President's choice.

Senator Byrnes (Democrat), of South Carolina, who floor-managed third-term strategy at Chicago, told friends, "I hope I will not be asked, because my Senate duties will make it impossible for me to accept."

Friends said Byrnes suffers severely from hay fever and feels he is physically unable at this time of the year to undertake additional arduous tasks.

The names of Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt and Leo Crowley, chairman of the F. D. I. C., also have been under consideration.

One alternative known to have been seriously discussed is the establishment of a representative campaign strategy board which would distribute responsibility and in which all of the above might be assigned some campaign duties.

Willkie's Stand Asked

Postmaster General Farley retires as of August 17.

Other developments:

Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, in a statement called on Wendell L. Willkie to state his position on compulsory military training. Wheeler, leading the fight on the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill, said the American people are entitled to know whether Willkie wants "to do everything short of war—which means war."

[Willkie declined to comment on Wheeler's challenge, the Associated Press said from Colorado Springs. It quoted aides of the Republican nominee as saying it was apparent that he could not answer each abstract question asked him, but that he would make clear his position on all major issues during the campaign.—Editor's note.]

Senator Clark (Democrat), of Missouri, struck back at accusations by Gov. Stark of Missouri that Clark had "inspired false gossip" about Stark's candidacy for Postmaster General. "If I had known that a vacancy existed, as he (Stark) seems to think," said Clark, "I would have been surprised to learn that he was a candidate for the office outside the State of Missouri, while vehemently denying his candidacy inside the State. The same would apply to the Secretaryship of Agriculture, the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee or any other plum in sight."

It was announced that Senate Majority Leader Barkley will make two campaign speeches for Senator Truman, of Missouri, who is running against Stark for reelection to the Senate. Senator Barkley will speak for Truman in Kansas City today and in St. Louis tomorrow.

'Air-Conditioned' Baby Improves

James Stuart Nolan, jr., 20-day-old "air-conditioned baby," continued to improve yesterday from his serious illness, in the special climate created for him in the midst of Washington's heat wave.

At Sibley Hospital he dozed contentedly, with his temperature "practically down to normal," the nurse said.

Yesterday the father tiptoed into the cool room and looked down proudly at his only child.

"You should have heard that good healthy cry he gave, a little while ago. Why, he couldn't even cry properly when we brought him here Thursday," Nolan said.

Commerce and Agriculture departments and many in the Farm Credit Administration, the Customs Bureau, procurement division of the Treasury, National Labor Relations Board, Veterans' Administration, Interior Department, Library of Congress and the Federal Housing Administration.

Heat plagued at least half the country, the Associated Press reported. A weather line extending diagonally across the country from upper Michigan to Arizona divided the Nation with the area east of the line hot and humid, while the Western half enjoyed moderate temperatures.

Two consecutive days of showers brought relief to large sections of Virginia. The highest temperature for the day in Richmond was 86, and the mean temperature 79, the first normal average in more than ten days, the Associated Press reported. The Shenandoah Valley was cooled sharply by thundershowers.

Scattered showers brought relief to some portions of Maryland, but scorching 90-degree levels were still prevalent. The day's maximum was 94 at Baltimore and 93 at Annapolis, while Cumberland reported a ten-day average top reading of 98.

At Roanoke, Va., a 3.35-inch rain fell in four hours, halting an 11-day siege of heat, disrupting traffic, washing out power lines and flooding the first floors of some stores, the Associated Press reported. Lieut. Samuel G. Adkins of the Roanoke police department, said it was the worst storm he had seen "in years."

with reference to domestic questions.

"In other words, both Republicans and Democrats have a common viewpoint. The people who should not vote for me are those who believe in the New Deal and those Democrats bound by rigid party ties or those controlled by the corrupt and nauseating party machines that are presently dominating some of our major cities with relief funds and other funds furnished by the Federal Government.

Asked whether he intended to interpret the Republican platform in his acceptance address at Elwood, Ind., August 17, he said: "That is a privilege that I expect to assume. I don't know whether it has any historic precedence or not."

Earlier a reporter had remarked that Alf M. Landon took his own view of the platform when he was the Republican nominee in 1936.

Willkie said he had written about half of his acceptance talk and a rough draft would be finished soon. He added, however, that he would delay writing the farm section until after his conference on agricultural problems at Des Moines, Iowa, August 5.

He said his hopes were raising daily that he would win some of the Southern States.

Turning to the Republican side, Willkie insisted he was advocating the principles the party stood for—opposition to President Roosevelt's policies, particularly from a domestic standpoint.

Willkie talked during the day with Russell Davenport, of New York, one of his earliest supporters, and Paul C. Smith, general manager of the San Francisco Chronicle and close friend of Herbert Hoover.

The three discussed methods of coordinating activities of Willkie-for-President clubs with those of other groups formed to promote the nominee's candidacy.

Willkie also conferred with Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, of Tulsa, Okla., a Democrat supporting him and former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Lawson said she would meet about August 10 with John W. Hanes and Lewis W. Douglas, other Willkie Democratic supporters, to map a program of organization for a new group of Independents and Democrats.

Crump Replies to Willkie

Memphis, Tenn., July 29 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie's criticism of Edward H. Crump brought from the Memphis political leader tonight the statement that never before had a major political party "offered a man for President with so little in common with the people."

The fiery Tennessee Democratic National Committeeman, in a prepared statement, replied to Willkie's assertions that he was gratified by the type of persons pledging him support and that "there isn't a Mayor Hague, nor a Mayor Kelly, nor a Crump in the list."

"Willkie's whole life," Crump said, "has been a fight against the people—defending high electric light rates."

Crump added:

"He knows the fight I put up for the City of Memphis to acquire the Wall Street-owned electric light plant here and stop them from robbing our people on rates . . .

"He knows the people of Memphis and throughout Tennessee are getting cheap TVA electric lights and power, and over his violent protest.

"There will be plenty about his utility activities throughout various States and cities and around the legislatures before the November election."

D. C. to Continue Defense Training

District Entitled To Funds Under Law, Comptroller General Rules

A favorable ruling by the Comptroller General's office yesterday assured continuance of the District public schools' national defense training program.

According to the ruling, the District can participate in the Nation-wide program in the same way that a State does, Dr. J. C. Wright, Assistant United States Commissioner of Education, said yesterday.

The law stated that allotments of funds were to be made to "States, subdivisions thereof or other public authorities." Under the ruling the District is considered within the term, "other public authorities."

Thus the $18,000 six-week program for aproximately 600 enrollees in trade classes in five public school buildings will go forward here, as planned. It was launched July 22 and will continue to August 31.

When the question about legality of the District's participation arose, the Board of Education voted to discontinue the classes next Friday unless this obstacle was removed.

The United States Office of Education yesterday received the opinion from the Comptroller General's Office.

Stray Great Dane Is Found Here With N. Y. License

Wanted: his master's voice.

A Great Dane, of whom it was said "he is as gentle as he is huge," was quietly lodged with the Animal Rescue League, 7 O street northwest, last night waiting for word from home.

And home seems a long way off, for around the Dane's neck hangs a license tag issued in 1939 by New York State—its number, 294,570.

The wandering dog was on Calvert street, near the bridge, Sunday night, and residents, mistaking his porch calls for those of a prowler called police. Private O. F. Beal took the Dane to the Thirteenth Precinct Station, and then transferred him to the Animal Rescue League headquarters.

The Rescue League, trying to trace the owner through the tag number, notified S. P. C. A. authorities in Albany. No reply had been received last night.

Olsen, Ex-Chief Of Agricultural Economics, Dies

Word was received here yesterday of the death of Nils A. Olsen, 53, former chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, of a streptococcus infection Sunday night at Bronxville, N. Y.

Mr. Olsen was connected with the Agriculture Department from 1919 to 1935, when he resigned to become vice president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society and moved to Bronxville. He was chief of the Agricultural Economics Bureau from 1928 to 1935.

A native of Herscher, Ill., he studied at Luther College, Iowa; Johns Hopkins University and the University of Wisconsin, and before coming to Washington had been instructor at Muhlenberg College, Pa., and at Harvard University.

Survivors are two brothers and two sisters. Funeral services were scheduled for last night at Bronxville, with burial at Herscher tomorrow.

Capital-Bound Ship Rescues 10 In Bay Storm

Rescue of five men and five women from a storm-tossed yacht in Chesapeake Bay by the crew of the Norfolk-Washington Line steamer Northland, was revealed here yesterday by passengers who docked at Alexandria and Washington.

The rescue took place Sunday evening after the steamer, with 200 passengers aboard, sighted a distress signal near the Back River Light, about 11 miles north of Old Point Comfort, Va. Capt. E. H. Eaton ordered the steamer to heave to along the yacht, identified as the Jezebel, out of Norfolk. The rescue was effected despite rough seas.

The rescued, residents of Virginia's Tidewater, were clothed by the Northland's passengers and set ashore at Old Point Comfort, causing a 2 hour 45 minute delay in the steamer's trip to Washington. Passengers praised the crew's performance during the rescue.

Defense Board Lists Millions In New Order

Previously undisclosed Army and Navy orders running into millions of dollars were listed yesterday by the Defense Commission.

Recapitulating contracts which it cleared between June 6 and July 17, the commission reported total orders of $1,650,000,000 for that period, not including those of less than $500,000.

Topping the commission's list, which made no distinction between Army and Navy awards, was nearly $3,000,000 in airplanes and aircraft engines.

Also listed were $8,700,000 in artillery guns to be made at the Watervliet (N. Y.) Arsenal, $16,000,000 in ammunition and bombs at the Picatinny (N. J.) Arsenal, $5,661,600 in rifles at the Springfield (Mass.) Armory, and $14,579,630 in cartridges at the Frankford Arsenal at Philadelphia.

Capital News in Brief

Wanted: 2 Musicians, Sixteen Soldiers

The Fifth Battalion, Marine Corps Reserve, wants 16 soldiers and two musicians.

For that purpose, in hopes of gaining its full strength for field training at Quantico beginning August 18, the battalion will hold special recruiting periods at 8:30 p. m. today and tomorrow at its auditorium, 458 Indiana avenue northwest.

Only men with previous military training, between the ages of 17 and 35, will be enlisted for the camp, but inexperienced men will be accepted and will attend camp next year.

Two Heat-Dodgers Robbed in Parks

Two robberies were reported to police yesterday by victims who were in parks to seek relief from the heat.

Leo Navel, 487 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, told police he was lying in the Mall near Seventh and Constitution avenue northwest when two colored men pounced on him. One held a knife at his throat, he said, while the other took $2.80 from his pockets.

Alfred C. Gute, 43, of 2333 Seventeenth street northwest was lying on a bench in Franklin Park when a colored man seized his purse containing $28, the victim told the police. When he demanded that it be returned, Gute said, the thief threatened him with a knife and then ran through the park.

Thief Takes $20 —And Cash Register

Police last night were looking for a colored man who made off with a cash register containing $20 from the Fairfax Hotel, 2100 Massachusetts avenue northwest.

James M. Young, 1807 Newton street northwest, night clerk at the hotel, told police the colored man was wearing a turtle neck sweater, when he entered the hotel. When Young spotted a revolver in the visitor's right hand he dashed to the second floor and called police.

The cash register was gone when Young returned downstairs a few minutes later.

Joan Marie Downey, 13, Is Reported Missing

Joan Marie Downey, 13, of 3433 Fourteenth street northwest, was reported missing from her home last night by her father, James Downey.

Downey told police his daughter was last seen taking her dog out for a walk in the afternoon. She is 4 feet 5 inches tall, weighs 103 pounds and has brown eyes.

1,500 Attend Church Home-Coming Service

Former parishioners who had moved to other parts of the city returned last night to the Holy Comforter Catholic Church, 1357 East Capitol street, for homecoming services and inspection of the new church building.

Approximately 1,500, it was estimated, attended novena services at the church, then adjourned to the school grounds at Fifteenth and East Capitol streets for a carnival being held to help pay for the new building.

The carnival, which completes a two-week run Saturday night, provides most of the features of the old-time country carnival, including a ferris wheel and miniature automobiles.

Child Hit by Car, Injured in Head

Stewart C. Bushong, 3½ years old, of 2128 First street northwest, was struck by a car yesterday in front of 1812 North Capitol street.

Driver of the car was Frank L. Beisser, 33, of Rockville, Md., police said. Beisser took the child to Sibley Hospital, where he was treated for a head injury. His condition was undetermined, pending X-ray observations.

Policeman's Push Keeps Man From Hitting Auto

An alert policeman yesterday stuck his hand out of a scout car and pushed a pedestrian to the ground in order to keep the latter from colliding with the auto.

Jacob Charles Gash, 49, of 1215 Crittendent street northwest, according to police, was crossing G street at Seventh against a red light and apparently did not see the scout cruiser traveling on G street.

When it seemed that Gash would walk directly into the side of the car, Private M. S. McCarthy, riding on the right front seat of the cruiser, operated by Private Wade B. Riley, reached out and pushed Gash. The pedestrian was removed to Emergency Hospital where he was treated for abrasions to the right elbow and right leg, then released.

Clarence Desper's Mother Dies

Mrs. Addie J. Desper, 72, mother of Clarence J. Desper, president of Columbia Typographical Union, died yesterday at her home in Charlottesville, Va.

Mrs. Desper was born in Palmyra, Va. Her husband, James B. Desper, is a retired Charlottesville businessman.

Funeral services will be tomorrow afternoon.

Boys in Neighborhood Turn Heat on J. Edgar Hoover

Vacations Bring Temporary Lull In 'Casing' of G-Man's Residence, But Youngsters Learn His Habits

By Jessie Ash Arndt.

He has two Scottie dogs. He says "Good morning, Sonny," if you speak to him, but he doesn't wear a badge or a gun—at least not where you can see them with his coat on.

These are the findings of the 7 to 9-year-old contingent in the neighborhood of 4936 Thirtieth place northwest, the new residence of the Nation's No. 1 G-Man, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Unfortunately, vacation time and Mr. Hoover arrived in that section of town simultaneously and curtailed the detective activities of small boys, bent on finding out everything they could about the hero in their midst. The stir caused by his arrival abated abruptly as the Burka twins—Leonard and Edward, aged 7—who play in that block, left for camp, and George Vest, jr., aged 9, who lives on Linnean avenue, just back of the high wall around Hoover's garden, and Billy Morris, aged 8, also were obliged to leave on their vacations.

One of the boys, so as to have something to tell the gang at camp, stood nonchalantly by the G-Man's car as he came out one day and said, "Good morning, Mr. Hoover," in his best G-Man to G-Man tone. He had his badge in his pocket but did not get it out as he noticed Mr. Hoover was not displaying his.

"Good morning, sonny," was Hoover's reply.

Such details of Mr. Hoover's habits as the fact that he does some amateur digging and hosing in the garden with its high brick wall behind the house, but none in front where young neighbors could drop by and ask questions, have been observed with disappointment. Another matter of neighborhood regret is the fact that when the Scottie dogs are "walked" the chauffeur does it.

The advantages of living on a street where glamour begins with a capital G so far as the youngsters are concerned, will be put to test as soon as school opens. If the boys on Thirtieth place aren't popular, it will not be the fault of their new neighbor.

2 Convicted In Cleaner Street Drive

Trash Salvagers Must Pay Fine Or Spend 10 Days in Jail

Police action in the city-wide cleaner-streets-and-alleys drive yesterday resulted in the conviction of two trash salvagers for littering streets. They were sentenced to $10 fine or ten days in jail.

A third man, formally charged with unauthorized collection of trash, forfeited $3 collateral.

Police revealed approximately 20 trash-can rummagers, who dig into refuse seeking salvageable junk and scatter part of the trash around, have been arrested in the past month.

Judge Walter J. Casey, in sentencing two of the trash collectors in Police Court yesterday, declared:

"The streets and alleys of the District must be kept clean and the beauty of the city must be preserved. This offense leads to conditions that are not only unsightly but are potentially dangerous from the standpoint of health."

The drive to clean up the city's streets and alleys is being pushed by District officials, together with the Outdoor Cleanliness Association, recently organized by civic leaders. The District Commissioners have issued specific orders calling for police to carry out strict enforcement of the city's trash disposal laws.

Drive Opens To Enroll 500 Women Fliers

Organization Would Relieve Men Pilots At Home in Wartime

A drive to enroll 500 girls to fly, in event of national emergency, with the Women Flyers of America, opens here today when New York leaders of the organization set up a local headquarters.

Miss Chelle Janis, president, Women's Civilian Air Corps; Miss Ruth Haviland, transport flier, and Miss Genia Novak, executive vice president, W. F. A., are scheduled to land here at 10 a. m.

"We want to arrange to make Washington planes and instructors available to the girls we will enlist," Miss Janis said yesterday in New York. "We want particularly to correlate the activities of the airports desiring to teach our girls, the girls themselves and the sponsors and honorary members."

The members, she said, are chosen among women who will pledge to learn to fly as part of the national defense program. Members range in age from 18 to 38, earn from $18 to $75 a week and pay for their flying training. The entire course, leading to a private pilot's license, costs the individual $275. Goal of the corps is 5,000 members, from all parts of America, by September 1.

The organization is aimed toward freeing men from routine flying activities behind the fighting front in war time.

Jordon Loses His Latest Fight For Freedom

Thomas Jordon, 39-year-old bus boy, yesterday lost his latest court fight for release from life imprisonment for the holdup murder of Mrs. Lizzie T. Jaynes at the Garden T Shoppe, Columbit Road near Eighteenth street northwest, April 3, 1931.

The United States Court of Appeals rejected Jordon's plea for a writ of habeas corpus as without merit, with "earmarks of a fishing expendition."

Jordon was sentenced to death in 1936 after he had four times confessed killing Mrs. Jaynes. He repudiated his confessions and embarked on a desperate fight for liberty, in which his succession of lawyers tried every process known to the law.

The opinion sustained the decision of Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat of the District Court, who denied Jordon his liberty after patiently hearing a week of testimony last year.

Funeral Services To Be Held Today For Mrs. Hart

Funeral services for Mrs. Bessie Burwell Hart, 55, wife of Ringgold Hart, former principal assistant D. C. corporation counsel, will be held at 1 p.m. today at the Hines Funeral Home, 2901 Fourteenth street northwest, with burial in Rock Creek Cemetery.

MRS. HART

Mrs. Hart died Saturday at her home, 662 Maryland avenue northeast, after an illness of several years.

A native of Henderson, N. C., she had lived 45 years in Washington, where she was known for her private charitable activities.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Hart leaves her mother, Mrs. Sophia W. Burwell; a brother, H. Stanley Burwell, of Washington; and two sisters, Mrs. Sue B. Gardner, of Washington, and Mrs. Rowena B. Emmart, of Baltimore.

Police Tactics Protest Urged By D. C. Group

Dr. Marshall Calls On Colored Population To 'Stick Together'

Washington's colored population was urged to "stick together" and vigorously protest alleged police brutality last night by Dr. C. Herbert Marshall, president of the Washington Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

He addressed a mass meeting at Mount Lebanon Church, 814 Twenty-fifth street northwest, one of a series being held, it was announced, to "stop the cops from beating Negroes." Approximately 40 colored and several white persons attended.

"While attempting to reduce police brutality," the meeting was told by the Rev. Frank W. Alstork, pastor of the Union Wesley A. M. E. Zion Church, "We should at the same time try to get more of our people to obey the law."

Urging more concern over the situation, he said "a lot of folks are more concerned about us than we are about ourselves."

The Rev. Mr. Alstork declared "the police are brutal also with white folks" and urged his audience to protest that, too.

Racketeers Seek Funds by Phone 'For Refugees'

Unofficial charity solicitors here are seeking funds over the telephone, claiming to need money "to feed refugee children who are here without funds," according to a warning yesterday from the Washington branch of the U. S. Committee for the Care of European Children.

The Washington committee has no knowledge of any such children here in distress and knows nothing of the activities of the organization making the appeal, it was announced.

A District housewife reported to the committee that she had been asked by telephone to contribute to the work of a "refugee children's committee" which, the solicitor told her, was taking care of 'many refugee children who are here without funds."

The Washington committee cautioned "people who get this appeal to investigate the agency making it."

Police Seek Vacationer Whose Mother Died

Washington and Virginia police last night were trying to contact Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, of 1373 Irving street northwest, to tell her of her mother's death in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Johnson and her husband, John, it was learned, left Washington yesterday for a three-day vacation and were believed to be in the vicinity of Colonial Beach, Va.

Loan Agency Opens in New Offices Today

Employes Work Far Into Night to Finish 2-Week Moving Job

Operations moving 1700 Federal Loan Agency employes into new air-conditioned offices in the Lafayette Building, 811 Vermont avenue, were completed last night, and among the last to leave the old Reconstruction Finance Corporation Building at 1825 H street northwest was Administrator Jesse H. Jones.

Off and on for the last two weeks, furniture and equipment have been hauled from the building the RFC has occupied since its creation during the Hoover administration. Many employes worked late in last night's heat so that the job could be finished, save for minor details, by this morning.

Jones remained in the old building until 8 p. m. and his office was the last to be disturbed by movers.

Agency offices will occupy all 12 floors of the Lafayette Building, whose construction was financed through a loan by the RFC Mortgage Corporation.

In addition to the mortgage corporation and the RFC, loan agencies occupying the new building will include the Federal National Mortgage Association, the Electric Home and Farm Authority, the Disaster Loan Corporation, the Export-Import Bank, the Metal Reserve Co. and the Rubber Reserve Co.

Porter to Quit As Assistant FCC Counsel

George B. Porter, assistant general counsel for the Federal Communications Commission since its organization in 1934, will resign July 31 to enter law practice in Washington, it was learned yesterday.

Friends explained that Porter, son of Claude R. Porter, Interstate Commerce Commissioner, had been planning to leave the Government service for sometime.

He was appointed to the legal division of the old Federal Radio Commission in 1931, later becoming acting general counsel, in which capacity he served until he was succeeded by Paul O. P. Spearman, when the old commission was incorporated into the present body July 1, 1934.

Worker Rescued From Cave-In

Fellow workmen rescued a colored laborer yesterday when he was buried by a cave-in at Westover Hills in Arlington County, Va.

The man was John Douglas, 32, of 21-B Half street southwest, an employe of the Rosslyn Gas Co., which is excavating for pipe-lines at the Westover Hills development. Dr. Stacy T. Noland, of Arlington County, said the man apparently suffered no injuries.

Court Rules Girl,10,Belongs With Mother

Laws' Decision Gives Custody of Daughter To Mrs. Emrich

Justice Bolitha J. Laws yesterday terminated a court dispute over custody of 10-year-old Joan McNeil with the ruling that "a child of tender years should be with its mother."

The justice made his decision after receiving the report of Assistant Clerk Philip M. Hamilton, who investigated the conflicting claims of the parents.

Alton D. McNeil, 35, insurance executive, 1416 Staples street northeast, asked the court to take the child from her mother, Mrs. Margaret Emrich, 30, T. B., Md. McNeil wanted his daughter to live with her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Virginia Thompson, Capitol Heights, Md., who has raised her since she was a baby.

The McNeils separated in 1934 and in 1936 the mother married Edwin F. Emrich, 37, a chicken farmer. McNeil claimed the Emrich home was not a suitable place for the child to live.

Last "witness" before Justice Laws was Joan herself, although she was not sworn.

"How do you like living in the country?" asked the court.

"Oh, I like it very much."

"Is mother good to you?"

"Yes, sir."

"Does Mr. Emrich scold you?"

"He hasn't yet."

Justice Laws then gave his ruling.

Capital Merchant Given Life Term In Pa. Slaying

Philadelphia, July 29 (AP).—Joseph Guida, 48-year-old Washington produce merchant of 4801 Wisconsin avenue, was sentenced to life imprisonment today for the strangulation murder of Miss Winifred Flannery, 61-year-old housekeeper for a retired naval officer, five years ago.

Guida was convicted of Miss Flannery"s murder, which the State said occurred as Guida and two companions attempted to rob the apartment of Lieut. Comdr. John S. Morrison, retired naval officer. His two companions pleaded guilty and also were sentenced to life imprisonment.

Montgomery Health Better Than in 1939

Montgomery County has received a health rating of 83.6 from the American Public Health Association, it was announced by County Health Officer Dr. V. L. Ellicott.

This betters the rating of 83.3 for last year, when the county received an award of merit from the association. A grade of 100 was given on health committee work, syphilis control and sanitary disposal. Other subratings were 96 on health education, 87 on milk supply and 81 on school hygiene.

Sweetheart Slayer Serving Life Allowed to Visit Mother's Bier

Dexter Dayton Prays for 5 Minutes, Then Tells Guard, 'I'm Ready to Go Back;' Can Not Attend Funeral Services Today

Dexter Dayton, who is serving a life sentence at Lorton for the slaying of his sweetheart 11 years ago, left jail walls for a while yesterday afternoon to visit the bier of his mother, Mrs. Edith Dayton, 61, who died Sunday.

Dayton, brought to the District Jail, was taken to the Costello funeral home, 1722 North Capitol street, by Edward F. McGlynn, chief clerk at the jail.

Dayton, reaching the side of his mother's casket, bowed his head and prayed. At the end of five minutes he turned to McGlynn and said:

"I'm ready to go back now."

Funeral services for Mrs. Dayton will be conducted at 9 a. m. today in St. Martin's Catholic Church, North Capitol and T streets. Her son cannot attend.

Mrs. Dayton, who came to Washington in 1929 to be near her son, lived in the 1900 block of First street northwest. She had visited her son faithfully twice a month. The tenth anniversary of the life sentence imposed on him was just a month off when she died.

Dayton was convicted of slaying Marjorie O'Donnell. After choking the girl to death he summoned police, and stood by her until they arrived.

In an effort to avoid a trial, he pleaded guilty to a second degree murder charge.

2 Identified In 8 Purse Snatchings

Confess 7 Others, As Well as Series Of Auto Thefts And Burglaries

Two youths were identified by eight women last night as purse snatchers while another purse thief severely injured one of his victims.

Eight out of 25 women who appeared at the police headquarters line-up identified the two 20-year-old prisoners as snatch-and-run thieves. The youths, according to police, not only admitted the eight purse thefts, but also seven others, theft of several automobiles and looting of two homes and a school.

The youth, both of whom have juvenile delinquency records, were seized last Wednesday in a stolen car. Police charged that the pair was responsible for many snatching and car thefts during the past six months. They would first steal and auto and use it for the snatchings.

Stole Elusive LaSalle

Among the autos stolen, police said, was the now-you-see-it, now-you-don't LaSalle, stolen more than a month ago from in front of the Kennedy-Warren Hotel, on Connecticut avenue. Sighted three times, the car eluded police until found abandoned in Laurel, Md., last week.

The eight women who made identifications yesterday were robbed of a total of $90. They are Rosalie Shelton, 2936 Porter street northwest; Ruth Fulfson, 3517 Runnymede street northwest; Harriet Thomas, 2120 Huidekoper place northwest; Janet Benson, Shoreham Hotel; Mrs. Alexander Milton, Tilden Hall Apartments; Mrs. Eber Woodruff, 3706 Ingomar street northwest; Mrs. Effie Evans, 317 Fourth street northwest, and M. Daniels, 120 Faraday street northwest.

Credited with breaking the case are Detective Sergt. James Cannon, Detective Sergt. Robert Murray, and Detective Private George Cock.

Victim Jushed from Car

Maria Mollari, 42, of 3110 South Dakota avenue northeast, suffered a concussion and bruises to the body last night when pushed from an auto to the street by a purse snatcher.

She was walking along the 3200 block of Central avenue northeast with a friend when a white man grabbed her purse, containing several dollars, and jumped into an nearby auto. The woman pursued, and stepped on the running board, seeking to recover the purse. The thief pushed her off and fled. She was taken to Georgetown Hospital for treatment.

D. C. Red Cross Forms New Class In First Aid

Formation of a new standard class in first-aid instruction this week was announced by Robert H. Duncan, director of first aid and lifesaving at the District Red Cross chapter. Enrollment will be open through Friday at 1730 E street northwest. Classes will be held Monday and Friday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30.

In calling attention to the new course, Duncan stressed the practical value of knowledge of accident and sickness prevention and treatment in emergencies that arise in periods of excessive heat such as Washington is experiencing.

The class will cover methods of bandaging, accident prevention, control of bleeding, treatment of shock, methods of carrying the injured, revival from drowning or asphyxiation, care of wounds, bruises, strains, fractures and dislocations, care of cases of fainting, apoplexy, epileptic fits, hysteria, sunstroke, heat exhaustion, poisoning and freezing.

Motorcyclist Falls, Is Struck by Truck

Robert Lyles, 21, of Centreville, Va., suffered a broken hip and severe lacerations yesterday when he was struck by a truck after losing his balance and falling off his motorcycle into the path of the oncoming vehicle.

Lyles was taken to the Alexandria Hospital by the Fairfax Rescue Squad.

Williams Wins Clear Decision Over McDowell

Joe Louis' Protege Wins Bout Easily

4,000 Customers At Stadium Ask Referee to Stop Uneven Affair

By Al Hailey

The Joe Louis, Holman Williams and Co. business venture got off to a successful start in Washington last night at Griffith Stadium—that is, if you call Williams' unanimous decision over a game but poorly equipped youngster known as Wild Bill McDowell a success.

The 4,000 customers in the stands, hungry as they were for a knockout, began screaming for Referee Eddie Lafond to stop the fight as early as the seventh, but Eddie let the business continue.

McDowell was sent slithering through the ropes in the eighth by a screaming right hand. Bill climbed back automatically at the count of nine and made it to his feet, only to take punishment that he never should have absorbed.

In the seventh, Bill had seemed to give up. His guard dropped, and he took everything the colored fighter, world third-ranking welterweight, had to offer.

Still he managed to stay in the ring. Sporadic outbursts of punching in the ninth and tenth seemed to hint that McDowell's grogginess might have been all the part of a great act, hawever.

At any rate, Bill Daly, the Texan's manager, had to meet the fighter half way across the ring after the last three rounds to steer Bill to the right corner.

Flashes Ill Omen

Every blow Bill threw saw him almost fall flat on his face, and he spent most of the time waltzing across the ring into the arms of the colored boy from Detroit. In the tenth, Bill started one from the floor and landed. It was a comedy by this time, and despite the amount of punishment McDowell had absorbed the whole business seemed to be a great laughing matter. As a matter of fact, it was sad—very sad.

The cash at the gate was $4,726.99, and the paying guests numbered 3,721. McDowell proved that he can "take it," Williams hardly more than ordinary and that in the future such uneven fights will hardly draw as much as the last three figures of the paid attendance. Bill was no match for the Detroit protege of Heavyweight Champion Louis.

McDowell weighed 150, Williams 146¼.

Preliminary Bouts

A whistling right uppercut thrown by Vince Truminello, 125, of Baltimore, stopped Gilbert Mayo, 123, of Washington, as the bell sounded the end of their scheduled six-rounder presided over by Shufflin' Joe.

Mayo, who floored Truminello for a nine count in the first round, couldn't come out for the fifth round, and under National Boxing Association rules the heavyweight champion held up the hand of Truminello and called it a technical knockout in the fifth.

Mayo looked bad throughout the fight, only occasionally displaying the punch which made him a sensation as an amateur. The two drew in their last fight. It was the third professional start for both boys.

Jackie Carter, a ringwise veteran who has campaigned from Massachusetts to California and who once went ten rounds with Henry Armstrong, went down, knockout victim of Oscar Wright, midnight-hued Washington lightweight, in a scheduled six-rounder.

Down Four Times

From the opening bell it was apparent that Jackie was overmatched with the green youngster, who made up for his inexperience by a natural talent for punching, Jackie hit the deck for the count of nine four times before the end came after 2 minutes, 40 seconds of the third round. In the second, Carter had Wright in serious trouble with a body attack, but the colored boy's right hand couldn't be denied. When Jackie went down the fourth time, he couldn't make it up. Wright was fighting his second battle in the local ring.

Jimmy Green, local heavyweight, knocked out Joe Price, also of Washington, in the final heat of the four round opener.

Maxie Long, Dallas middleweight, continued the knockout parade by cooling off Eddie Campi, of New York, in 5 seconds of the second round of their scheduled six rounder.

Gil Mayo Suffers Possible Jawbreak

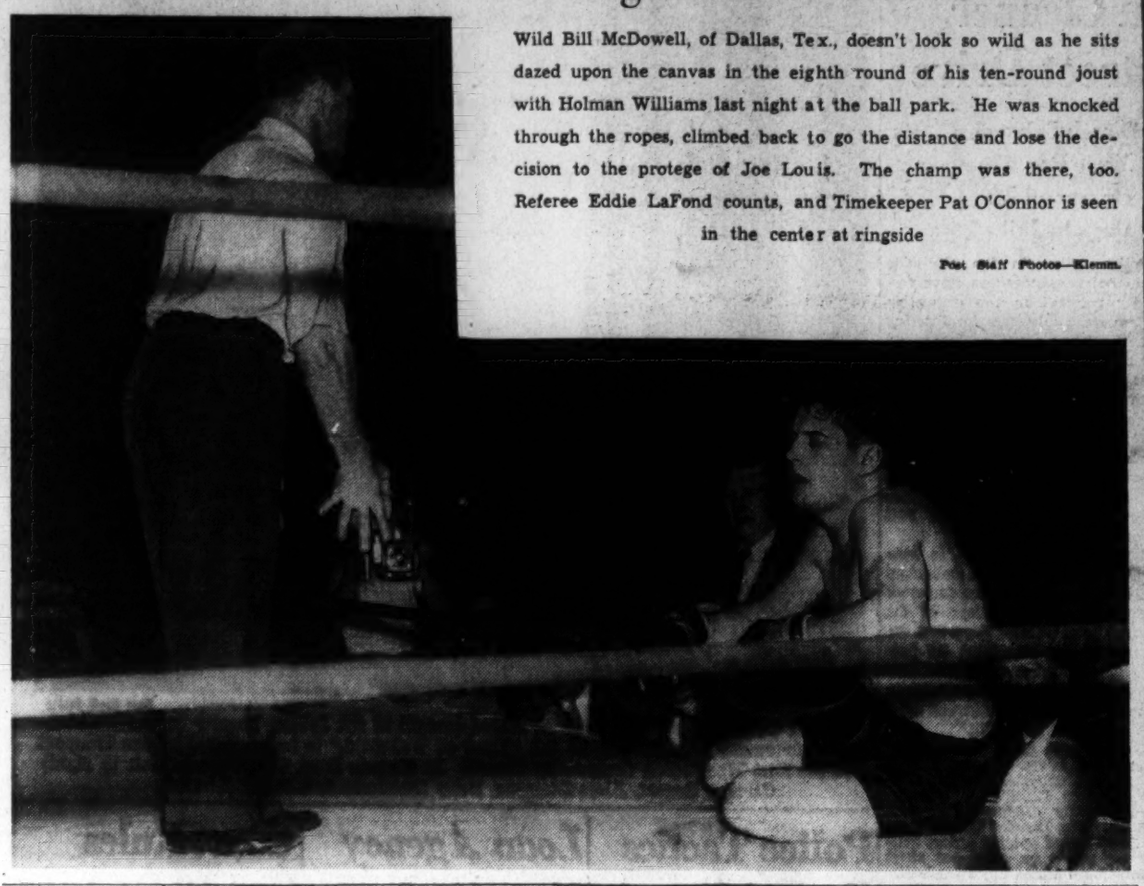
It begins to look like three times and out for Gilbert Mayo, two-headed Alexandria lightweight, who ended up the technical knockout victim of Vince Truminello, of Baltimore, with a possible broken jaw.

A ringside doctor who examined Gil's jaw after Gil took a vicious right uppercut at the end of the fourth round said he thought the jaw was broken but wanted to take an X-ray before saying definitely.

It was Mayo's third professional fight.

Spa Society Snubs Mutuels at Opening

McDowell Sits One Out in Eighth at Griffith Stadium



Wild Bill McDowell, of Dallas, Tex., doesn't look so wild as he sits dazed upon the canvas in the eighth round of his ten-round joust with Holman Williams last night at the ball park. He was knocked through the ropes, climbed back to go the distance and lose the decision to the protege of Joe Louis. The champ was there, too. Referee Eddie LaFond counts, and Timekeeper Pat O'Connor is seen in the center at ringside

High Breeze Upset inDay's Feature Race

Overdrawn Tumbles Victim From Ranks Of Unbeaten as Fans Are CloseWith Dough

By the Associated Press

Saratoga Springs, July 29.—Tradition and the iron-men tangled for the first time today and tradition won in a common gallop. Saratoga's society crowd just didn't go for pari-mutuel betting.

A crowd of 7,701 came to the beautiful race course in the foothills of the Adirondacks and gaped. They watched George D. Widener's speedy 2-year-old Overdrawn tumble Anthony Pelleteri's High Breeze from the ranks of the unbeaten 2-year-olds in winning the day's featured flash stakes.

Some had fun on that one, those who bet on the winner at $34.20 for $2. They had a lot more fun in the day's secondary feature, the American Legion Handicap, when Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Nedayr won at $19.60 to $2.

Bettors Stingy

But they didn't bet. The New York crowd—society excepted—isn't in town and the residents of this horsey area, also opposed the advent of the mutuels in the first place, refused to take the rubber bands off their bankrolls. The flash caught only $42,818, the 'cap but $35,311.

The crowd saw some real racing though. One of America's leading 2-year-olds took a lacing in the flash and another rose to take his place in the race for the juvenile championship, usually decided at the Spa.

Overdrawn won two of four races earlier this year at Delaware Park, and led from end to end, after Victor Emmanuel's Ommission had been knocked out of it at the start, winning a length and a half over Mrs. D. A. Buckley's Grand Party. High Breeze, the previous unbeaten one, was another two lengths back.

The race was worth $4,625 and Harry Richards rode the winner over the five and a half furlongs in 1:05.1, or four-fifths of a second behind old Tuscaloosa's track record.

Nedayr, which won the Legion handicap last year in the colors of the late Willis Sharpe Kilmer, staged another upset and did it again, winning $2,725 with Basil James in the saddle. He came fast in the stretch to beat Dr. Whinny a half length adn T. M. Dorsett, another length.

The total day's pari-mutuel handle of $262,526 set a new low for New York tracks this season. The previous low was about $386,000 during Belmont's spring meeting.

Harry Jeffra Retains Title At Baltimore

Champion Defeats Spider Armstrong In 15 Fast Rounds

By the Associated Press

Baltimore, July 29.—Harry Jeffra, of Baltimore, successfully defended his newly won featherweight boxing crown tonight by punching out a decision over Spider Armstrong, of Toronto, in a fast and furious 15-round bout.

It was an uphill battle all the way for the Pimlico lad, but once he had slowed up the wiry challenger with a vicious overhand right that sent Armstrong sprawling to the floor in the eleventh, he had things well in hand.

Armstrong never once let up in his attack, constantly boring in and trying to keep Jeffra tied up so he could not get in dangerous punches with his strong right hand.

Referee Nat Fleischer, editor of the Ring magazine, gave Jeffra seven rounds, Armstrong five and called three even. Armstrong weighed 125 pounds and Jeffra 124½.

The Associated Press score sheet gave Jeffra seven rounds and Armstrong six, with two even. Jeffra lost the third round for a low blow, when he was pumping rights and lefts into Armstrong's body.

It was Jeffra's superior physical condition as much as his dynamite-laden right-hand punches that enabled him to defend the crown he won from Joey Archibald in May.

Armstrong gained an early advantage over the champion, winning four out of the first five rounds. Then Jeffra rallied, found the range with his right and nicely combined an attack to the body and head to finish strong.

It was the same looping overhand right that Jeffra used to such good advantage when he licked Archibald that helped him tonight.

In the eleventh he caught the challenger in a corner of the ring and dropped him with a right to the head. Armstrong was up without a count, but the blow obviously took ginger out of him.

Again in the twelfth, Jeffra smacked Armstrong with another right that caused the challenger's knees to buckle, but he didn't go down.

Jeffra was much the stronger of the two at the finish and swarmed all over Armstrong in the fifteenth. Armstrong was bleeding freely from a cut over the left eye at the end, a cut that Jeffra opened in the tenth. The decision of referee and judges was unanimous.

Nate Mann Beats Fitch, Retains State Crown

West Haven, Conn., July 29 (INS).—Nathan Mann, Hamden Italian, retained his New England heavyweight title tonight when he outpointed George Fitch, New Haven Negro, in a 12-round bout.

Fitch took a heavy lacing from Mann, the Negro hitting the canvas seven times during the ninth and tenth rounds.

Hutchinson Chased As Athletics Win, 9-7

Macks' Jinx Prevails Again, Detroit's Lead Pared to One Game; $70,000 Pitcher Lasts Only 4 Innings; A's 10th Victory Over Tigers

By the Associated Press

Detroit, July 29.—The Detroit Tigers took it on the chin again today, dropping a 9-to-7 decision to their jinx, the Philadelphia Athletics, to cut their American League lead to one game.

Freddie Hutchinson, the $70,000 investment who was recalled recently from the minors, started on the mound for the Tigers and for four innings had the A's eating out of his hand.

Then he lost his cunning and the Athletics, a thorn in the side of the Tigers all season, jumped on him for four runs in the fifth. They shelled him from the hill in the seventh, in which they tallied five more runs, and even Fireman Al Benton couldn't do anything about it.

A's Hold Margin

The defeat was Detroit's tenth in 17 games with Philadelphia and left the Tigers only one game ahead of the idle Cleveland Indians.

Hutchinson's teammates gave him a three-run lead in the first when Rudy York slammed his sixteenth homer of the season with two aboard and regained it in the fifth when Hank Greenberg belted a round-tripper into the upper deck of the leftfield stands with one on base.

The A's went to bat in the seventh, but Hutchinson was relieved after filling the bases with none out on Al Brancato's single, Nelson Potter's double, and a walk to Al Rubeling.

Benton, usually effective in relief roles, was sour this time, and, when the inging was over, the Athletics had scored five runs and won the ball game.

Tigers Miss Chance

Detroit had a chance to grab the game out of the fire in the eighth by loading the bases with one out. Porter Vaughn replaced Potter, who got credit for the victory, and kept all but one runner from crossing the plate by inducing Charley Gehringer to ground out and getting Greenberg on strikes.

Chubby Dean, who started for the A's, wilted in the fifth after yielding ten hits and was relieved by Potter.

York hit two doubles in addition to his homer in five times up. Gehringer also had three for five with three singles.

Jersey Racing Finally Seems A Probability

Body Tentatively Approves Elkwood As Legal Horse Park

By the United Press

Trenton, N. J., July 29.—The State Racing Commission today tentatively approved Elkwood Park as the site of New Jersey's first legalized race track in more than 40 years. Elkwood Park, near Red Bank, is expected to draw much of its patronage from New York City. It is the site of the Monmouth Park Racing Association.

Final approval of the site was withheld by the commission until the association obtained permission from the Borough of Oceanport to close two streets for increased parking purposes and until arrangements for spur trackage could be completed with the New York and Long Branch railroads.

Some minor changes in the financial plan for the track were ordered, and the State Loard served notice that it was opposed to any wide distribution of stock. The commission prefers that executive officers and directors of the track purchase all the stock.

The proposed grandstand at Elkwood Park will seat 10,000 and the club house will accommodate 3,000. In addition, standing room to handle about 40,000 is planned.

The commission will meet again Wednesday to discuss plans proposed by the Monmouth County Country Club Racing Association for a racing site at Eatontown.

Harris Asks Recall of Mickey Vernon

Nats Manager Appeals To Griffith, Gets Promise of Action

By Shirley Povich.

Post Staff Writer

St. Louis, Mo., July 29.—A new appeal by Bucky Harris went out today to the gentleman who sits in the little stucco office at Griffith Stadium and runs the Washington Ball Club. The gist of it was "We gotta have a first baseman," and Harris received Clark Griffith's promise that he would attempt something in that direction.

By long distance telephone the Nats' manager suggested to the Nats' owner that Griffith might make one more attempt to recall Jimmy Vernon from Jersey City, farm team of the Giants.

"I know that Mr. Griffith promised Bill Terry that he would leave Vernon on loan to the Giants for the duration of the season," said Harris, "but I pointed out that Jersey City was now hopelessly out of the pennant race and that Vernon was not so important to 'em.

Should Repay Favor

"Griffith carried out most of his bargain with Terry when he left Vernon with Jersey City all during the months when Jersey City had a chance to lead the league. We did them a favor by sending them Vernon in the first place. They could return the favor by sending him back to us at a time when we don't have a first baseman."

Harris, however, may be over-optimistic about regaining Vernon. True enough, the ersey City club can scarcely win the International League pennant, but it still can figure in the postseason playoff among the four leading clubs of the league. The Giants may be in no mood to risk their chances of getting into the playoff by reshipping Vernon to the Nats.

Washington's eagerness to regain Vernon is understandable. The fellow has been among the league's leading hitters since the start of the season, despite his current .306 average. And the Nats are without a first baseman by trade since selling Zeke Bonura to the Cubs.

The latest Washington player to get the first base job was young Jimmy Bloodworth, and his performance at the bag was gratifying indeed. "He gave us the best game

Pauline Betz Leads Advance In Maidstone

By the Associated Press

East Hampton, N. Y., July 29.—Pauline Betz, of San Francisco, reached the second round of the annual Maidstone Invitation Tennis Tournament today when she defeated Millie Hirsh, of New York, 6—2, 6—1. Miss Betz is seeded second behind Sarah Palfrey, of Reno, Nev., who is scheduled to make her debut tomorrow.

Helen Bernhard, of New York, and Virginia Wolfenden, of San Francisco, who complete the favored list, advanced with Miss Betz. Miss Bernhard won by default over Mme. Sylvia Henrotin, of France, while Miss Wolfenden, after taking the first set of her contest with Helen Pedersen, of Stamford, Conn., and leading, 3—1, in the second, also won by default when Miss Pedersen found the heat too severe.

Louise Brough, of Beverly Hills, Calif., defeated a sister Californian, Catherine Malcolm, of Glendale, 4—6, 6—1, 7—5, while Louise Raymond, of Scarsdale, N. Y., took the measure of Doris Hart, Miami, 3—6, 6—2, 7—5. Dorothy May Bundy, of Santa Monica, Calif., disposed of Mary Arnold, Los Angeles, 6—2, 6—0.

The foreign list was reduced by one when Pat Canning, of Alameda, Calif., turned back Rita Jarvis, of London, 6—1, 6—3. Miss Jarvis' English traveling companions, Valerie Scott and Nina Brown, were more successful. Miss Brown ousted Frances Gensler, of Southampton, 6—1, 6—0, while Miss Scott was a default winner over Mrs. Philip Watts, of Southampton.

Tunney May Join GentlemanFarmers

Easton, Md., July 29 (INS).—Gene Tunney, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, apparently is "going back to the farm."

It was revealed today the former champ is the owner of the 375-acre Rapajo Farm on the Choptank River in Maryland, according to a deed filed in the county clerk's office. Tunney pledged the former owner, T. E. Hicks, to secrecy, it was said.

Jockey Woolfe Escapes Injury in Saratoga Spill

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

Lucky to escape unscathed from this spectacular spill in opening race of Saratoga meeting yesterday was well-known jockey R. G. Woolfe, who was up on Kellsboro in Weldship Steeplechase

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

To Whom It May Concern:

St. Louis, July 29.—In the 60-minute football game which usually spans more than two hours between the first and the final whistles, the ball actually is in action for only 12 minutes and 50 seconds . . . According to a survey made by the National Professional League . . . The Cleveland Indians apparently have so little faith in Manager Vitt that Capt. Hal Trosky listens in for the team when the umpires explain the ground rules in the little huddle at home plate before each game . . . The author of golf magazine's feature article of this month, entitled "What Does It Get You?" discreetly refused to prefix or append his—or her—name to the story . . . It is a rousing slap at the expense of women's golf and the U. S. G. A. . . . Apprentice Jockey Dew, the riding sensation of the Thistledown track, who has already rode 33 winners at the meeting, has very naturally been nicknamed "Howdy." . . . The Nats' bosses are disturbed by the fact that Jimmy Vernon's batting average at Jersey City has shrunk from a lofty .340 to a mere .306.

POVICH

Art Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh football team, entered Georgetown in 1921 on a scholarship because of his baseball talents . . . Unbeknown to Georgetown officials, he already had a Red Sox contract in his pocket . . . Manager Hughey Duffy had signed him after watching Rooney play for a Pennsylvania prep school . . . but Rooney couldn't make the Georgetown varsity . . .

American League outfielders are stewing over the league ruling that Joe DiMaggio did not complete a catch in Chicago the other day . . . DiMaggio caught the ball, the last out of the inning, and carried it for several yards while loping to the dugout and then dropped it . . . All managers have now instructed their outfielders to throw the ball to somebody after making a catch . . . The rule is a paradox inasmuch as no outfielder making a catch is deemed to have had possession of the ball until he gets rid of it . . . George Case made the last out in Cleveland the other day and tucked the ball inside his shirt so he wouldn't drop it . . . Technically the batter was safe, because a ball that goes inside a fielder's garments is not considered a caught ball . . . but the umpires in Case's case didn't get technical.

The Cleveland Indians are trying to cure Jeff Heath's puzzling batting slump by showing him slow-motion movies of himself at bat in 1938 when he was one of the league's leading hitters . . . General Manager Cy Slapnick has a complete movie record of every Cleveland player's style . . . but in Heath's case it hasn't done any good, he's still in a slump . . . The Indians would like to trade him, but are afraid that he might suddenly recover his batting power and make them look very bad indeed . . . as Julius Solters, whom they traded to the White Sox, is doing.

Harry Grayson, sports editor of the NEA Syndicate, with headquarters in Cleveland, has been barred from the Cleveland ball park by the Indians' General Manager . . . Gate keepers are told not to honor his baseball writers' pass, and Grayson now pays his way into the games . . . The club did not like the stuff he had been writing about the Indians . . . Bucky Harris wanted to throw a foot at the dumb Washington outfielder who the other day asked him "which is the sun field in this park?" . . . The fellow has only been playing five years in the league.

Most football injuries occur on blocking plays, according to the Pro League's survey . . . Which seems logical enough inasmuch as, on a good football team, only one player is carrying the ball and at least ten are blocking for him . . . Because no game is scheduled this season between the Redskins and the Cleveland Rams, there will be no opportunity to compare the Rams' passing star, Parker Hall, with Sammy Baugh . . . The "best player in the league" tag, which used to belong to Dutch Clark of the Lions and later to Ace Parker of Brooklyn is now borne by Hall.

Dick Richards, former owner of the Detroit Lions, maintains a miniature cemetery as a hobby at his West Coast homes . . . Folks whom he don't like he "buries" there in rites complete with tombstones bearing their birth date and the date on which Richards decided he didn't like 'em . . . Steve Owens, who has coached the New York Giants for ten years, has never had a contract with Tim Mara, who owns the club . . . "And he's never asked for one," adds Mara.

Rene Monteagudo, Washington's Cuban pitcher, will bring his wife and son to Washington next year and take out U. S. citizenship papers . . . The Chicago Cubs are bidding for Roberto Estalella, who is still whaling the ball for Minneapolis . . . $30,000 is the price tag on Estallela . . . Zeke Bonura, who required three years to get from Chicago's South Side (the White Sox) to the North Side (the Cubs), is now being called "baseball's vagabond slugger." . . . If the Tigers had Cleveland's infield or the Indians had Detroit's outfield, either club would now be out in front by a dozen games.

The collapse of the Yankees' pitching staff is now a greater mystery than their mysterious batting collapse . . . With its best ball club in years, Cleveland is having its worst home attendance in years . . . After all they've gone through, Cleveland fans don't quite believe that the Indians won't fold again, as usual.

Michigan State Loop in Turmoil Over Grimes Case

Flint, Mich., July 29 (AP).—Directors of the Michigan State Baseball League requested today that Burleigh Grimes, former major league pitcher, be reinstated as manager of the Grand Rapids Colts pending a rehearing of his case.

Grimes has been under indefinite suspension as a result of an argument with Umpire Robert Williams in a game between Grand Rapids and Saginaw July 7. The former Brooklyn Dodger pilot was accused of spitting into Williams' face.

The directors authorized T. J. Halligan, league president, to ask Judge W. G. Brahman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, to reopen the case, declaring that Grimes had not been granted an "appropriate" hearing.

Halligan originally had fined Grimes $50 and suspended him for five days, but Williams, who was dismissed today by the directors for the "good of the league," took the case to Brahman. The latter ordered Grimes' indefinite suspension.

Bill DeCorrevont Claimed byDoctors As 'Out of Danger'

International Falls, Minn., July 29 (U.P.).—Doctors said tonight that Bill DeCorrevont, Northwestern University halfback, was "out of danger" after an emergency appendectomy. However, his condition still was serious.

DeCorrevont, counselor at a boys' camp in the Rainy Lakes region, was stricken while on a canoe trip Saturday night.

His condition became critical when his appendix ruptured while he was being brought to a hospital here.

Dr. Henry Lysne said that in view of DeCorrevont's splendid physical condition, chances of recovery were excellent.

Dodgers Win Amid Fights; Giants Beat Reds

Frisch Is Banished Again; Vaughan and Phelps Battle as Brooklyn Carries On

By the Associated Press

Brooklyn, July 29.—The Brooklyn Dodgers extended their string of feuds today to include the Pittsburgh Pirates and for the first time this season won a game in which they had a fight.

Pete Coscarart's single with two on and the score tied in the ninth brought Brooklyn a 7 to 6 victory.

It was an uneven game, packed with good baseball and bad, as well as plenty of extra-curricular activity.

For eight innings Curt Davis held the Pirates helpless and scoreless on four hits while his teammates built up a six-run advantage for him. But in the ninth the Pirates sent 10 men to bat and came up with six hits and six runs to deadlock the count.

Manager Frank Frisch was banished from the game in the sixth inning for protesting a play at second base. It was the sixth time this season he had been chased.

Then in the last half of the ninth Shortstop Arky Vaughan, of the Pirates, and Catcher Babe Phelps, of the Dodgers, tangled in a fist fight at first base and both were expelled. Previously this season the Dodgers have had fights with the Cincinnati Reds, St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs and, of course, have their carry-over feud with the New York Giants.

The Dodgers' victory was built on bases on balls by Pittsburgh's relief pitchers. Danny MacFayden walked two men in the eighth and Dixie Walker drove them home with a double. Mace Brown walked two more in the ninth ahead of Coscarart's game-winning single.

Tot Pressnell was credited with the triumph and Brown was charged with the defeat.

Cards Defeat Bees, Regain Fifth Place

By International News Service

Boston, July 29.—St. Louis today moved back into fifth place in the National League by defeating the Bees, 8 to 3.

Johnny Mize collected a single, double and triple, driving in four runs and tallying once himself to lead the Cardinal assault that netted ten hits off four pitchers.

Bob Bowman yielded seven hits in registering the victory. Manuel Salvo was tagged with the defeat, the Bees' sixth in a row.

The Cards advanced to fifth at the expense of Pittsburgh which was beaten by Brooklyn.

Passeau Wins His 12th Game For Cubs, 7-3

Philadelphia, July 29 (AP).—Claude Passeau settled down after the first inning today and pitched the Chicago Cubs to a 7-to-3 victory over the Phillies for his twelfth triumph of the year.

The first four men to face Passeau got on base on three singles and a walk, but Art Mahan was caught at third to prevent any scoring until Joe Marty singled with the bases full. In the last eight innings Passeau gave up only three hits, one Marty's ninth homer of the season.

Ike Pearson held the Cubs in check until the ninth when singles by Hank Leiber and Al Todd put Passeau ahead, 3-2. Four runs in the seventh, featured by Todd's double with the bases full, sewed up the game. Billy Herman homered for the Cubs in the first.

D. C. Teams Shutout In York Pro-Amateur

Four Philadelphia Combinations Split First Money as Half Dozen Local Entries Fail to Place; Houghton-Burnett 1 Stroke Too Many

Special Dispatch to The Post

York, Pa., July 29.—Four Pennsylvania combinations split first money in the annual pro-amateur tournament here today as a half-dozen tandems from Washington, D. C., finished out of the prize list.

Ed Dudley, Ryder Cup team member from Philadelphia C. C., and Walter Acuss posted a sub-par 67 best ball that was tied by Arthur Thorn, Lancaster professional, and Harry Haverstick, former State amateur champion; Charles Arena and Ted May, and Matt Kowal, tournament professional, and R. Alderman.

The four professionals divided first, second and third prize money, netting $50 each. The field was 68 teams.

One stroke out of the money was the District team of A. Houghton, Beaver Dam, and Volney Burnett, of the same club. Cliff Spencer, East Potomac Club pro, and Alton Pratt, Manor, were next with 69, and Leo Walper, Bethesda, and Roger Peacock, Indian Spring amateur, trailed with a 70.

Mel Shorey, Indian Spring professional, who won this tournament last year with Art Cross, and his partner, Dick Melvin, posted a 74 as did Eddie Stevens and Bobby Brownell, Manor. The Columbia pro-am team of Fred McLeod and Norman B. Frost finished with a 75.

Jack Dempsey K.O.'s Another Wrestler

Charlotte, N. C., July 29 (AP).—Jack Dempsey knocked out Ellis Bashara, one-time Oklahoma University football player, in 37 seconds of the second round of their ten-round fight before a crowd of 6,500 here tonight.

Dempsey came in at 205 pounds; Bashara weighed 209.

Challedon Gets Top Impost for Sunset Handicap

Los Angeles, July 29 (AP).—W. L. Brann's Challedon, which won Saturday's $50,000 Hollywood Gold Cup with a 133-pound impost, drew top weight of 135 today for Saturday's $20,000 mile and a half Sunset Handicap, closing feature of the summer program.

Charles S. Howard's Kayak II, which carried 133 in the mile and a quarter cup event but finished far back, was dropped to 131. Bert Baroni's Specify, second to Challedon, drops a pound to 116, and Myron Selznick's Can't Wait, which ran third, will carry 113, two less than last Saturday.

Tragedy today marked a workout in which Harry Curland's Tectician stumbled and broke both front legs. He was destroyed.

1-100th Point Advantage Wins Diving Crown

By the narrow margin of one-hundredth of a percentage point, Sol Shrebnick of the St. George's Shrebnick's score of 120.66 was the men's diving crown in the District A. A. U. meet last night at the Airport Pool.

Shrebnick's score of 120.66 was that margin better than his New York rival, Theodore Christakos, unattached Jimmy Russell, defending champion of Baltimore, placed third while another New Yorker, Carlos Fernandez, finished fourth.

The 440-yard District free style championship for men resulted in an upset as Bill Wright, holder of the District championships in the 50, 100 and 220-yard free style evenis, was frustrated in his attempts to complete the free style championship cycle. He was defeated by Gordon Mustin, his Wash-Shoreham Club ace, but the ulti-

As expected, Miss Anne Koss, who placed third recently in the national diving championships at Miami, experienced comparatively little difficulty in annexing the women's diving crown. She experienced her most serious competition from Miss Patsy Palmer, the Shorham Club ace, but the ultimate winner of the event was never in doubt.

The event wasn't altogether victoryless for Miss Palmer, however, as the 17-year old lass came back 15 minutes later to win the District 440-yard free-style title for women, receiving serious competition from her teammate, Helen Flett.

Providing chief excitement for the capacity crowd was the men's 440-yard race in which Wright was expected to win in a walk but it became evident after the first two laps that the University of Michigan student was to receive unexpected opposition from Mustin. The latter always kept a few feet behind Wright until the eleventh length when he forged ahead, adding to his lead the remainder of the distance.

GIRLS' LOW-BOARD DIVING—Won by Anne Koss (St. George's Dragon Club), 117.33; second, Patsy Palmer (Shoreham), 78.24; third, Lucille Kirsch (Shoreham), 63.42; fourth, Betty Roland (Shoreham), 61.34; fifth, Joan Treanor (Airport), 40.79.

440-YARD FREE STYLE FOR MEN—Won by Gordon Mustin (Washington Golf and Country Club); second, Bill Wright (Washington Golf and Country Club); third, Harry Palmer (Airport); fourth, Richard Specht (Airport). Time, 5:26.8.

440-YARD FREE STYLE FOR WOMEN—Won by Patsy Palmer (Shoreham); second, Helen Flett (Shoreham); third, Jean Dodder (Shoreham); fourth, Jean Brunson (Shoreham). Time, 6:24.8.

MEN'S HIGH-BOARD DIVING—Won by Sol Shrebnick (St. George's Dragon Club), 120.66; second, Theodore Christakos (unattached), 120.65; third, Jimmy Russell (Baltimore Knights of Columbus), 118.43; fourth, Carlos Fernandez (Park Central A. C.), 115.08.

Pugilist, Cowboy And Ex-Gridders On Rassle Card

A couple of former professional football players, a one time cowhand, and a reformed pugilist today were booked to participate with the old meanie, himself, The Golden Terror, on Thursday night's benefit wrestling show at Turner's Arena.

Headlining the card are Joe Cox, of Kansas, and Paul Jones, of Texas, who clash in a "grudge" rematch, to the finish.

Ed White, formerly of Alabama, and Ed Newman, of New York, both former pro gridders; Tom Mahoney, of Florida, who once was a light heavyweight boxer, and Reb Russell, cow hand from the Rio Grande, will join the Terror in the free-for-all. Russell is the only wrestler who participated last week.

Warren Bockwinkle, ace St. Louis grappler, will meet Joe Dusek, the baby member of the notorious "Riot Squad," in a special bout. Promoter Turner also is seeking an opponent for Frank Sexton, the former Ohio State athlete.

Hubbell Hero As New York Wins, 4 to 3

King Carl Doesn't Win Game but Is Star Just the Same; Whitey Moore Loser

By the Associated Press

New York, July 29.—After letting gallant old Carl Hubbell carry the whole load for seven innings, the Giants came to life when he left for the showers today and nipped the National League-leading Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 3, before a crowd of 4,521.

Unfortunately, King Carl didn't get credit for the victory. He had departed by the time Babe Young banged a double off the right field wall to drive the deciding tally with none out in the ninth inning, pinning the defeat on Whitey Moore, fourth of the Red pitchers to see action.

"The Hub" Is Hero

But, despite the fact the credit went to Jap Lynn, last of a trio of Giant hurlers, "The Hub" was the hero.

He not only held the Reds to 6 hits in 7⅔ frames, but he collected 3 singles himself, while the rest of his mates looked somewhat futile against the slants of young Johnny Hutchings, a recruit from Pensacola, Fla. The Giants collected a total of 14 hits, compared to 7 for the Reds, but they left 13 men stranded on base.

King Carl's only weakness was the extra-base blows he served up. Harry Craft parked a homer in the left field stands in the fourth and Ival Goodman lined one into the upper right field sections in the fifth. Immediately afterward, Morrie Arnovich wacked a triple out to the 50-foot mark in the Giant bull pen and same home on Billy Myers' fly for the Reds' last run.

Giants Open up

The Giants didn't start their scoring until the sixth, when Frank Demaree belted a home run over the left field roof. A walk, Harry Danning's single and Young's double-play grounder drove in a tally in the seventh, and two singles and a walk sent another across in the eighth. Opening the ninth, Hank Danning was hit on the hand by a pitched ball. Then Young, who had twice previously hit into double plays, caught hold of one to break up the game.

Georgie Abrams, Charley Burley Fight to Draw

Pittsburgh, July 29 (AP)—Charley Burley, 156, Pittsburgh Negro, and Georgie Abrams, 161, Washington, fought to a draw in ten rounds tonight, the heavier and cleaner cleaner punching being offset in night, the Negro's heavier and cleaner punching being offset in great act, however.

Mike Raffa, 128, of Newell, W. Va., a promising young featherweight, won his nineteenth victory by knocking out Sammy Crocetti, 129, of New York, with a left hook in the second of their scheduled eight-round fight.

Tommy Yarosz, 148, of Monaca, Pa., young brother of the former middleweight champion, Teddy Yarosz, easily outpointed Joe Pohaskey, 150, of McKees Rocks, Pa., in a six-round preliminary.

Norfolk Legion Nine Meets Clifton Forge

Norfolk, Va., July 29 (AP).—Norfolk's American Legion baseball team of Post 67 will meet Clifton Forge here Wednesday and Thursday for the State Legion title.

The Norfolk team trimmed the Alexandria Post No. 24 Sunday, 6 to 5, to win the sectional title. Norfolk took the opening game Saturday, 13-0.

On the Line

With CONSIDINE

New York, July 29.—The next time you have to stand up all the way home on the 5:15, think of Challedon. W. L. Brann's wonderful 4-year-old stood up from Boston to Inglewood, California. Then he took a few naps, went out and ran a mile and a quarter in 2:02 to win the $50,000 Hollywood Gold Cup, running everything else into the ground.

CONSIDINE

Except for a few rolls in the straw in his special car, Challedon was on his feet from the time he left Suffolk Downs until hours after arriving at his stall at Inglewood, 3,000 miles and more than four days away. He is a gentle, even-tempered plug, as may be gleaned from the grooms' name for him—Pop. But like most thoroughbreds he is frankly suspicious of all moving objects except himself. Thus he stood with legs braced, fighting every curve in the tracks, every stop and start of the train.

It has always been a wonder to us how any thoroughbred can turn in a great performance after being shipped any considerable distance. Many of them fail, of course, for they are exhausted nervous wrecks at the end of their trips. Seabiscuit's forte was that he could hit the hay the moment they led him on a train, and sleep like a drunk until they woke him up.

Tom Smith told us once that the 'Biscuit was one of the few horses he ever saw which had to be awakened. They had to shake him to get him up for some of his greatest performances. Exterminator probably was the most unconcerned traveller of them all. He was shipped countless miles for his 100 races, and always gave a good account of himself. Discovery was another outstanding shipper.

Despite his transportation ordeal, Challedon was in excellent spirit when he reached the coast. When Trainer Lou Schaeffer went into his car, Challedon came over to him like a happy puppy. There was a crowd to greet the horse, and Challedon looked at them look at him. He nuzzled against a small boy and let the kid stroke his nose. And he posed proudly and unflinchingly when the flash bulbs went off.

Many thoroughbreds, like humans, go stale in a new climate. To guard against this as much as possible, Brann sent along Challedon's own brand of drinking water—Arkansas mountain spring water. Barrels of it. It is rather widely accepted that the best time to run a thoroughbred in a strange clime is soon after he arrives or weeks later. In the former case, the new climate hasn't yet had a chance to make him sluggish or short-winded, and in the latter case he has had a chance to become acclimated.

Sir Victor Sassoon said once that someday, when the world gets out of its straight-jacket, he hopes to fly one of his English-bred 3-year-olds across the ocean by special plane, land him in Louisville on the morning of the Derby, run him that afternoon, and fly him home.

The Yanks haven't amounted to a row of beans since that hapless morning, more than a week ago, when I burst into print with a drum-rolling, cornet-blowing eulogy. I had them coming along like a down-hill express. I said that the Indians had quit and that the Tigers—who were about to play the Yanks—were the Yanks' oyster. All of which serves the Yanks right for trying to eat oysters out of season.

The only decent thing to do for my city now is to give the Tigers that same kiss of death. Here goes: We don't see how the Detroit team can miss winning the pennant. It polished off the Yanks, even though deprived of the services of Buck Newsom, Tommy Bridges and Dick Bartell. Schoolboy Rowe is back in shape, the club is banging the ball at a terrific clip.

Buddy Al, Paying $108.70, Wins Kingsville at Bel Air

Foul Claim Disallowed In Feature

Hiblaze Is Beaten By a Half Length; Winner Sets Mark, Also Quakerstreet

By Walter Haight
Post Staff Writer

Bel Air, Md., July 29.—Every day of this meeting has given the long-shot players a chance to cheer somewhere along the line. Today, those with nerve enough to disregard his previous race when he was beaten off 16 lengths, cashed a $108.70 mutuel on A. L. Leith's Buddy Al. The 4-year-old son of Sea Trace and Grand Plume scored by a half-length in the Kingsville Purse, the day's outstanding event. He took into camp such prominent sprinters as Hiblaze, Cats Cradle, Never Home and Butterman.

Hiblaze finished a half-length in back of the winner and Jockey Martin Bletzacker, who did the riding, claimed a foul against Eddie Churchill, Buddy Al's pilot. The stewards listened and then ordered the "official" sign lighted. Third money in the limit field of ten went to Capt. Ewart Johnston's Cats Cradle. Butterman, the favorite, was shut off directly after the break and failed to run thereafter, finishing far back. The stewards are investigating.

Despite the fact that the heat wave is still on, some 7,000 persons, including a trainload and several busloads from Washington, witnessed the program. The track was dull as a result of rain last night but Buddy Al clipped a fifth of a second off the track record for the 5-furlong course.

The Hickory Steeplechase also brought a new track mark. B. D. Barrows' Quakerstreet, ridden by E. Bennett, a gentleman jockey, went the 2 miles in 3:57 3-5 to beat the time registered here last week by Baffler. Tam O'Shanter was second and Harem Honey was third. The race was well jumped and all the horses finished on four hoofs.

E. A. Nicodemus' consistent Mowlee filly Mayfern turned in another victory in the first event, leading Buckle Up and Stadium to the wire at a $9.30 mutuel. Her victory paved the way for a $55.40 mutuel in the daily double. W. H. Laboyteaux's Gennaro won the second race, paying $6.90.

MAYFERN assumed command in the opening furlong, withstood early bids of STADIUM and BUCKLE UP and drew out in the stretch under a drive. BUCKLE UP, first away, was hard ridden and held on gamely. STADIUM came wide for racing room, pressed the early pace and weakened gradually in the final three-eighths. CANTERLIN closed full of run from a sluggish beginning.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—QUAKER STREET, $8.70, $4.40, $3.20; TAM O'SHANTER, $6.00, $3.90; HAREM HONEY, $3.60.

QUAKER STREET, rated while a keen forward factor from the start, responded gamely when placed to a drive after the turn of the field and drew out gradually while fencing nicely and won easily. TAM O'SHANTER was allowed to race on his own courage for miles, moved up boldly, but could not seriously menace the pacemaker in the late stages and was eased up while holding place safe. HAREM HONEY went to contention after a swing of the course, but weakened in the closing stages. SCURRY ALONG was well placed, had no mishaps and tired.

FOURTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $500; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gate. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 3:42. Off at 3:43. Winner, Mrs. H. Harris' ch. g. (3), by Color Sergeant—Childs Play. Trained by C. P. Miles. Value to winner, $350; second, $75; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:30⅘.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—COLORED CHILD, $15.50, $7.10, $6.40; ARROW GIRL, $27.60, $14.50; BLENHEIM ROSE, $14.60.

COLORED CHILD, off in the first flight, was sent to the top of EXPECTED BELLE with a sharp move, set a good pace and drew out to win easily. ARROW GIRL, slow to begin, improved her position on the outside and closed with good energy. BLENHEIM ROSE closed full of run after being unable to keep up early. MISS KSAR had early speed and weakened badly.

FIFTH RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $500; allowances. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:13. Off at 4:13½. Winner, A. L. Leith's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BUDDY AL, $108.70, $51.80, $14.20; HI-BLAZE, $7.50, $5.10; CATS CRADLE, $4.30.

BUDDY AL went to contention boldly in the opening quarter, came to the outside of HI-BLAZE and withstood a long drive to hold sway to the end. HI-BLAZE raced HONEY MAID into defeat to get to the top, was slightly bothered by the winner entering the stretch and held on gamely under a hard drive. Bletzacker's foul claim against the winner was not allowed. CATS CRADLE was forwardly placed from the start, rallied in midstretch and weakened gradually thereafter. NEVER HOME was vigorously handled and was held safe. BUTTERMAN raced disgracefully.

SIXTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse, $500; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:47. Off at 4:48½. Winner, J. C. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SISTAUR, $4.50, $3.40, $3.30; FIRST FLING, $4.10, $3.20; LACEY MISS, $4.30.

SISTAUR, off alertly, was rated close to EXHORT'S pace early, took command when asked, drew far out, but had to be shaken up in the closing stages. FIRST FLING, within striking distance from the start, came with good energy under punishment through the stretch and was wearing down the winner. LACEY MISS was well placed and vigorously handled and was not good enough. ABBOTS LARK was held safe.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 5:16½. Off at 5:19. Winner, L. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MAETAKE, $6.30, $4.60, $3.00; FOXTON, $19.20, $6.80; PENCADER, $4.30.

MAETAKE, steadied while closest to the early pace of KENNER, took command when asked, drew out and won with speed in reserve. FOXTON was hard handled while in the first flight and closed gamely, but was no match for the winner. PENCADER, allowed to settle into his best stride, came to the outside for racing room, bore out badly at the stretch turn and finished on the extreme outside. PLAYDEMA went evenly and could not threaten.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 5:48. Off at 5:49½. Winner, Miss Alice T. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHERRY'S CHILD, $6.60, $4.40, $4.50; ROYAL ERROR, $9.20, $7.30; GIMPEY, $4.90.

CHERRY'S CHILD, allowed to settle into her best stride, came around horses with a bold move to better her position, took command over RED ROBIN, but had to be kept to pressure to stave off the closing bid of ROYAL ERROR. The latter worked his way to contention on the inside, came to the outside for racing room and closed full of run under strong handling. GIMPEY was well placed from the start, made his bid approaching the stretch and closed gamely. RED ROBIN set a good pace and weakened suddenly after entering the stretch.

Selections at Bel Air.

Dear Al: For years I have noticed that the roads are always being fixed while racing is on. I always thought it was a coincidence. Could it be that the road people are trying to show they are at work, or because they want to be near the races? It's all right with me, except when they start pulling those 10-mile detours, as was the case at one meeting. Galt Davis' Trostar bowed a tendon and will be shipped back to the farm. That accounts for that poor race last week. Alan Clarke continues to back horses sired by Mowlee, his ill-fated stud horse. Mayfern paid him another dividend yesterday. Jockey Johnny Leyland is going to Rockingham to ride Hardy Bud in the stake there tomorrow. From Leesburg comes word that M. H. Everhart, trainer of Hiblaze, Roving Eye, Justa Jimmie and others, is the father of an 8-pound boy. Sammy Palumbo was slightly under the weather and canceled his mounts for the day. He was injured last week. That loose horse before the fifth race was a lead pony. The horse Terra, after that performance on the way to the post, should spell her name Terror. Tommy Daly returned to the public address system, for which we are thankful. Track records are being made in big numbers here, chiefly because this is the first time the chutes and the mile route have been used since they were changed. Idra Ike says the lines are longer at the water fountains than at the daily double windows. Murray Heagerty was a visitor yesterday and "almost" played Buddy Al, the $108 shot. Who didn't almost play him? Alloting stalls for the Cumberland meeting has Racing Secretary Eddie Brennan groggy. See you on the rail.

BILL.

First race—Rippling On may be the class of this field. Showed plenty of foot last out and I'm going to string along. Glitter Girl has shown punch on occasions and may make the most of the inside post position to be close. On The Beam has had several chances and plenty of tough luck.

Second race—Arboreal has shown enough to warrant a top selection in company of this sort. Needs only the right ride. The entry of Frank H. and Microplay is formidable. Either could make it a battle for the top one. Reigh Tetrarch should get a place in the money circle.

Third race—Edwin Booth was a winner over this course last week. May not get off the also eligible list, but will be the winner if in action. Forest Charm has shown enough to be dangerous in a field of this sort. Spinach has that old class to recommend him.

Fourth race—Molasses Julia gets in this with a light assignment and this could be the spot the stable has been angling for. Scarlet Flame figured in a dead heat last out and is fit. Wale Signal, a recent winner, should be in the money.

Fifth race—Nilon will be making his first start hereabouts but has been running good races. Wants a little help from the saddle, however. Chalotaur has done about everything asked and is a threat. Schley Goree is as good as that winning last.

Sixth race—Ace of Trumps likes this route and is in good hands. Sound as a bell of brass, this one looks like the goods. The entry of Balkanese and Postponement is strong and will be right there for part of the pay-off. Flagetta will be close if sent postward.

Seventh race—Charming Mary may have too much on the ball for this field. She has "won at the races," as the horsemen say, and seems to have her spot. Channing's excellent form must be respected. Kamport can better that last effort.

Eighth race—Extra Good appears good enough to hold these safe in the stretch run. Perfect Liar will be a keen factor. Odessa Frank closed like the wind in a sprint and will like the distance. He is a doubtful starter, however.

Best bet—Nilon.

Floragina, at 15-1, Wins Manchester Over Rough Pass

Salem, N. H., July 29 (A).—Mrs. H. O. Simmons' Flora Gina, a 15-to-1 shot, captured the Manchester, inaugural day feature at Rockingham Park's summer meeting today, scoring a three-quarter length decision over the fast-closing Rough Pass, a Yancey Christmas entry.

Rough Time, other half of the Christmas entry, managed to save the show award after breaking on top and setting the pace to the head of the stretch. Flora Gina, winner of two races at the recent Suffolk Downs meeting, found the deep track to her liking and reeled off the 6 furlongs in 1:12 4-5.

The winner paid $34.40, $9.60 and $6, while the entry returned $3.60 and $4.40.

Dennerlein to Rejoin N. Y. Football Giants

New York, July 29 (A).—Jerry Dennerlein, former St. Mary's tackle and standout pro player two years ago, will return to the New York football Giants this fall.

Dennerlein played on the Pacific Coast last fall while completing his school work. Unable to get a teaching job he notified Coach Steve Owen today he would be on hand when the Giants start practice August 15.

Valdina Star Wins Chicago Feature Race

Grossman Entry Drives to Victory At Meet Opening

By the Associated Press

Chicago, July 29.—Valdina Star, owned by Mrs. Joe Grossman, drove to victory in the featured Englewood Purse today as Washington Park opened its $450,000 meeting.

Before a sweltering crowd of 9,000, Valdina Star closed well on the rail and withstood a long drive to beat H. and H. Stock Farm's Betty's Bobby by a neck. Third in the field of eight 3-year-olds was Woolford Farm's Inscolassie, the only filly running.

Johnny Adams rode the winner, which returned $4.40, $3.20 and $2.40. Prices on Betty's Bob were $5 and $3.40, while Inscolassie paid $3.80. Time for the mile was a good 1:37.

Feature of the 31-day Homewood meeting will be the $40,000 American Derby. Other big races are the $20,000 Futurity for 2-year-olds and the $40,000 Washington Park Handicap for older horses.

Mrs. Keever, Willie Herbert Win in D. C. League Tennis

Mrs. Rowan, Miss Levy Are Defeated

Singles Play Moves Into Quarterfinals; Favorites Advance At Rock Creek

Mrs. Margaret Keever, the formidable newcomer to local tennis circles, and veteran Willie Herbert yesterday shared major attention in the District Women's Tennis League as single play moved into the quarter-finals at Rock Creek courts.

Mrs. Keever, whose debut in local events saw her upset seeded Charlotte Decker in the Public Parks tournament, advanced with a hard-fought three-set victory over Helen Levy, 6—2, 4—6, 6—2.

Meantime, top-seeded Mrs. Herbert, seeking to add the title of this tournament to her recently acquired Public Parks crown, polished off Frances Rowan with a minimum of difficulty, 6—0, 6—1.

Other Favorites Win

Other favorites in the singles kept pace. Second-seeded Miss Decker defeated Barbara Conard, 6—3, 6—2; Hazel Bishopp beat La Jeanne Echols, 6—1, 7—5, and Elizabeth Sowers defeated Anna Zlasak, 6—0, 6—2.

In the feature of two first-round doubles played, the unseeded combination of Catherine Wassman and Dorothy Braun offered stubborn opposition to top-seeded Joan Bransford and Frances Carter before losing out, 6—2, 9—7.

The other doubles marked the return to competition of Sarah Moore, erstwhile outstanding local star who is coming back after illnesses which have permitted her but little tennis in the last two years.

Moore-Miller Win

Miss Moore teamed with Dorette Miller to defeat Dorothy Towns and Louise Chinn, 6—0, 6—2.

For the second straight day the second-round singles between Eleanor Voith and Margaret Graham was interrupted. Yesterday the evenly-matched opponents split 7—5 sets, Mrs. Graham winning the first and losing the second only after she was at match point in the ninth game. Sunday Mrs. Graham defeated Miss Voith in the first set, 6—4, and was leading 4—2 when rain halted play. Instead of starting all over, the two will resume today from the point of yesterday's interruption.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

Singles (second round)—Charlotte Decker defeated Barbara Conard, 6—3, 6—2; Hazel Bishopp defeated La Jeanne Echols, 6—1, 7—5; Elizabeth Sowers defeated Anne Zlasak, 6—0, 6—2; Margaret Keever defeated Helen Levy, 6—2, 4—6, 6—2; Willie Herbert defeated Frances Rowan, 6—0, 6—1; Margaret Graham and Eleanor Voith split two sets, 7—5, 5—7, and will play the deciding set today.

Doubles (first round)—Sarah Moore and Dorette Miller defeated Louise Chinn and Dorothy Towns, 6—0, 6—2; Joan Bransford and Francis Carter defeated Catherine Wassman and Dorothy Brann, 6—2, 9—7.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE

Singles (second round)—5 p. m., Eleanor Voith vs. Margaret Graham.

Quarter-final rounds—10 a. m., Charlotte Decker vs. Hazel Bishopp; 4 p. m., Dorette Miller vs. Eleanor Pishburne; 5 p. m., Elizabeth Sowers vs. Margaret Keever.

Doubles—4 p. m., Bishopp and partner vs. Zimmerman and partner; Bageant and Bassett vs. Parsons and Fisk; Decker and Rowan vs. Echols and Jacob; 6 p. m., Bransford and Carter vs. winner Bishopp and partner-Zimmerman and partner match, Levy and Voith vs. Graham and Pishburne.

Consolation singles (first round)—5 p. m., Sally Miller vs. Jean MacGregor; 6 p. m., Catherine Wassman vs. Mary Gray, Louise Chinn vs. Anne Zlasak.

Panama Canal Routed, 14-1, By Marketmen

Center Market swamped Panama Canal Commission, 14-1, yesterday in a five-inning Departmental Baseball League game on the Ellipse.

The Marketmen banged out 16 hits while their pitcher, Wells, was limiting the losers to two, both by Catcher Kelso. Wells fanned ten.

Center Market scored two runs in the third, broke out in a tentally scoring rash in the fourth, and tapered off its attack with a final pair in the fifth, while Panama picked up its only counter in the first.

Steiner, with a triple and two singles, paced the winning onslaught. Taylor and Wells, himself, also made three hits for the Market nine.

U. S. Aggies Beat Senate Beer, 12-2

The U. S. Aggies defeated Senate Beer, 12-2, in softball last night, the victory being featured by three home runs and a seven-run outburst in the sixth of a seven-inning game.

While the Aggies were slamming Levenson for 13 hits, Pitcher Todryk was restricting the Beermen to four, one a homer by Acquilino.

Hudson, Krebs and Shaffner pounded round-trippers for the winners.

McCormick Is Spark Of Flag-Bound Reds

First Baseman, Advised to Forget Baseball, Typifies Cincinnati Club as Quiet, Sincere, Plodder; Holds N. L. Consecutive Games Mark

By George Kirksey
United Press Staff Writer

New York, July 29.—Every ball club usually has one player who typifies his club. With the Yanks of yesteryear it was Babe Ruth. With the Giants of a few years ago it was Carl Hubbell. On the hell-bent-for-leather Cardinals of 1930 it was Pepper Martin.

On the pennant-bound Cincinnati Reds Frank McCormick's the man. McCormick is just like the Reds—quiet, sincere, plodding. He minds his own business and plays ball right up to the hilt. Although he is one of the best all-round players in the league his name is seldom in the headlines outside of Cincinnati.

Few close followers of baseball know that the big 200-pound Cincinnati first baseman holds the current consecutive games played record among the active National League players. Since he won the regular first base job with the Reds at the start of the 1938 campaign he hasn't missed a game. Through today he's played in 395 consecutive games. Not bad for a fellow who was chased out of the ball park in his home town and then was labeled as a sucker for a curve ball when he was trying to break in with the Reds.

Hails from Bronx

McCormick hails from that cradle of first basemen—the Bronx. He was born a few miles from the Polo Grounds but when he showed up there in 1933 as a kid of 19, looking for encouragement, the Giants' instructors gave him a quick brush-off. "You got a job?" they asked him after one workout.

McCormick said he was a shipping clerk for the American Art Association.

"Well, forget about baseball and go back to your job," they told him. "You'll never be a ball player."

Not long after that McCormick dropped two expensive pieces of bric-a-brac and was fired. So he lost his job anyway. That made up his mind for him and he was determined to get a foothold some place in baseball. One of Larry MacPhail's friends tipped him off to McCormick, and the then Cincinnati general manager gave the Bronx boy a tryout at Beckley, W. Va.

Works Way Up

McCormick worked his way up through the Reds' chain from Beckley to Dayton, to Decatur, to Nashville, to Durham, to Syracuse, stopping only a month or so at some of these places, until he was ripe for the Reds in 1938. Even then the dope was that McCormick couldn't hit a curve ball. McCormick heard this talk until it made his ears buzz and his head ache. Even though he didn't think it was true he practiced hitting nothing but curve balls. In batting practice he had the pitchers throw him one curve after another. Now the curve is his favorite pitch.

McKechnie has nothing but kind words for all of his ball players but those who are intimate with "Deacon Bill" know that McCormick is his ideal ball player. He's the kind of a guy McKechnie likes—always in shape, never any trouble, always playing his heart out to win and at his best when the chips are down.

Sergt. Jasper, Stevens Meet In Crucial Tilt

Sergeant Jasper and Fort Stevens of the American Legion Junior Baseball League will meet at 2:30 this afternoon at Griffith Stadium in a replayal of a game staged recently in which a protest by Fort Stevens was upheld.

If Sergeant Jasper wins the game, it will clinch the second-half championship and meet Cooley-McCullough at Griffith Stadium for the league title. Should Fort Stevens win, however, there would result a four-way tie for second-half honors between Stevens, Jasper, Police and Costello. In that event announcement of time and place for the playoffs will be given later.

said Harris, commenting on Bloodworths' play at Cleveland.

It was true enough. Bloodworth showed an amazing ability to cover the position. He came up with hard smashes and he threw a runner out at the plate. He was a sure catch of thrown balls and his footwork was actually on the fancy side. But Bloodworth hasn't been able to hit enough to hold down a regular job as a second baseman. The Nats want more hitting power at first.

Sammy West may have provided hitting power, commensurate with first base, but he is at best a stopgap first baseman. He has not found the transition easy after 15 years spent in the outfield. Until the Nats come up with a professional first baseman, Bloodworth is expected to get the call over West.

Pitching Picks Up

The Nats may be on the verge of their most successful road trip of the season despite their current record of three victories against four defeats. Dutch Leonard, Ken Chase and Sid Hudson have been giving them well-pitched ball games, and Buddy Myer, George Case and Cecil Travis have been making important hits. Jimmy Pofahl is playing better ball than at any time this season.

The two players who have been a severe handicap to the club in recent games are Outfielders Gee Walker and Buddy Lewis. Walker has been lax both in the outfield and at bat. He has been slovenly on fly balls, and no great help with runners on bases. Lewis has been getting his hits, but they are chiefly singles. He hasn't given the club an important extra base hit in weeks. Sadly off form is his batting stroke, Lewis has produced few of the long drives he used to make for the Washington club.

Tomorrow night the Nats plunge into a two-game series with the Browns that may go far toward determining the owner of sixth place. Dutch Leonard, who had pitched two noctural victories for the Nats this season, will go to the mound again tomorrow night.

Greyhound Runs Away With Trot, Beats Field for $3,105

E. J. Baker's Champion Wins Both Heats Of Race of Trotting Club Stake Over 4 Foes

By the Associated Press

Pawtucket, R. I., July 29.—E. J. Baker's Greyhound ran out in front in both heats of the first division trot of the Trotting Club Stake to win easily from a small field today.

Only four went to the post for this stake worth $3,105.20, including Greyhound's stablemate, Sister Mary. The trotting champion led all the way, winning both heats from Elbridge T. Gerry's Dale Hanover with Sister Mary third.

The first heat was timed in 2:03¾ and the second in 2:01½, the latter a new track record. "Sep" Palin, trainer and driver of the "Grey Ghost," kept the horse under some restraint in the first heat, but allowed him to pull away from the field going down the back stretch in the second mile.

The crowd of 2,000 cheered as Greyhound opened a wide gap between himself and Dale Hanover. He covered the first half mile in 1:02 and three-quarters in 1:31. Palin had him under a slight restraint again in the last 70 yards.

'Dark Horses' Loom in Pro Tourney Here

Two of the boys that have been overlooked in the assistant pro championship tomorrow at Woodmont played the course in 73 strokes yesterday in a practice round and may be hard to beat in the 36-hole medal tournament.

Stanley Collings, Columbia, and Brick Wood, Washington, who have not played the course in ten years, each reported the 4 over par scores and broke even in a match, Collings with Tom Lightbown against Wood and Host Assistant Raymond Willett.

Gene Larkin is accepting entries until this afternoon at Woodmont.

Sixteen lady-pro combinations will play in a unique tournament at Chevy Chase this afternoon, with net prizes only. Team handicaps will be deducted from the gross scores. Play starts at 3:30.

Outstanding duos, paired by blind drawings, include Wiffy Cox and Mrs. Leo Walper, Rut Coffey and Mrs. Betty Meckley and Gene Larkin and Mrs. Walter Stokes.

Fan, Shedding Pop Bottle, Picks Off Ump and Loses $25

Chicago, July 29 (INS).—George Shepherd, of Watertown, Wis., admittedly is an ardent White Sox fan, but it was merely a coincidence, he told Judge Irwin J. Hasten today, that a pop bottle flew from his hands in the general direction of Umpire Bill Summers when the arbiter called a pitch a ball instead of a third strike on Joe DiMaggio during yesterday's White Sox-Yankees double-header.

"I was just disposing of the pop bottle," George told the court.

The judge admitted it was quite a coincidence, and, incidentally, fined George $25 and costs.

Buddy Knox Wins Nod Over Crowell

Chicago, July 29 (AP).—Buddy Knox, young Dayton, Ohio, heavyweight, won a ten-round decision over Chuck Crowell, of Los Angeles, tonight in the main event at Marigold Gardens.

Knox piled up his winning margin with a two-fisted attack on the huge Californian. The winner weighed 186, Crowell 215. There were no knockdowns.

28 Yearlings From Virginia Go on Block

Foals of Famous Stars Will Be Shipped to Saratoga for Sales

Special Dispatch to The Post

Charlottesville, Va., July 29.—Twenty-eight choicely bred yearlings from two Albemarle thoroughbred farms—the Morven Stud, establishment of the Stone Farm Association (Charles A. and Whitney Stone, of New York), and Nydrie Stud, located 10 miles south of Charlottesville and owned by Ray Alan Van Clief, of Buffalo, N. Y.—will be sent next Saturday to Saratoga Springs, N. Y., where they will be sold at public auction on the following Thursday.

Of the 16 from the Morven Stud, seven are colts. Most promising, perhaps, are a bay colt by Omaha, out of the stake winner Blind Lane, of the family of Seabiscuit and Equipoise; a dark chestnut colt by Pompey, out of Riva, and brother to Pomiva; and a chestnut colt by Hard Tack—Sunana, by Sun Edwin.

Eight yearlings in the string are Pompeys—out of Blue Eagle, Bonne Etoile, Eagleton, Flickaway, Foxim, Margie C. Marshmallow, and Pola Negri. Others include a chestnut filly by Tintagel, out of Brown Rose; a roan colt, half-brother to Scouting Girl; a chestnut colt by Diavolo, out of Galarose, sired by Gallant Fox; a chestnut filly by Stimulus, out of Plucky Polly; and a bay colt of the family of Colombo, and sired by Tintagel, out of Raynham Rose, by Stimulus.

In the string from Nydrie Stud destined for the Spa auctions are six colts and six fillies. Two of the colts and one filly are by Pompey—a chestnut colt out of a daughter of the great race mare Embroidery; a bay colt out of Parco, by Omar Khayyam; and a dark bay filly out of Peggy Byrne, by Stimulus.

Others are a chestnut colt by Omaha out of Amble, half-sister to Canter and Single Foot; a bay filly by Jacopo, out of Broad Ripple, winner of Empire City Stakes; a chestnut filly by Diavolo; a dark bay filly by Tintagel out of Highland Dell, and half-sister to White Tie; a bay filly of the family of Flying Fox; a chestnut colt by Stimulus, out of Melodiana, daughter of Gallant Fox; a chestnut filly by Omaha, and half-sister to Donita M; a chestnut colt by Gallant Fox, out of Morning, and a chestnut colt by Tintagel out of Tenting, sired by Omar Khayyam.

Bosox Buy Hurler, Option Another

Boston, July 29 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox announced today the purchase, for cash, of Pitcher Yank Terry from the Louisville club of the American Association and the release on option of Pitcher Charlie Wagner to the same club.

Terry, a resident of Bedford, Ind., will report to the Sox at Cleveland tomorrow. He is 27 years old, 6 feet 1 inch tall and weighs 170. He throws and bats right-handed. Wagner will report to Louisville immediately.

The purchase price for Terry was not announced.

Four A. A. Ball Players Fined for Verbal Tiffs

Columbus, Ohio, July 29 (AP).—Three members of the Louisville club and a Kansas City catcher were fined today for verbal tiffs with Umpire John B. Molenda of the American Association.

Bill Burwell, Louisville manager, was assessed $25 by League President George M. Trautman, and Coach Ed Madjeski and Infielder Baxter Jordan $10 each. Catcher John Riddle, of Kansas City, also must pay $10.

Yank Club Better Buy Since Going Is Tough

Slump of 'Walk-Away Championship Team' Stimulates Attendance at Home and Abroad, Says Negotiator for Purchasing Group

By the Associated Press

Cleveland, July 29.—The fourth-place New York Yankees are a better bargain to their prospective purchasers than a walk-away championship team would be.

Take the word of Smith Davis, Cleveland broker, who has been negotiating purchase of the Yankees and affiliated clubs, for a reported $4,000,000, in behalf of a group including James A. Farley.

Davis Explains

Davis explained:

"There's a hot contest for the American League pennant. The baseball public likes a contest and will pay for it."

Davis, dynamic 38-year-old former halfback, warmed to his subject today as he sped to Cleveland airport to catch an eastbound plane:

"The attendance figures tell the story. The Yankee Stadium bulged with 82,437 fans Memorial Day when New York and Boston met in a double-header. That's the third largest crowd in all baseball history.

And only a week ago a crowd of 68,590 saw a twin bill there between the Yanks and Detroit."

Better Times Generally

This slump-inspired prosperity, said Davis, is not confined to the Yankees' home acres.

"Attendance at a three-game Philadelphia series amazed Connie Mack's town," he said. "Look at the Yankees in Chicago. A Friday night game drew 48,104 fans and Sunday's double-header attracted 39,537. That's appeal."

Davis believes the flag scramble is "the best thing that ever happened to the American League and baseball generally.

Want to See Explosion

"The public realizes the Yankees are in the running. They know Joe McCarthy's boys have power—and they want to be on hand for the ever-likely explosion. The Yanks showed in Chicago they still have what it takes by collecting half a dozen homers in one game."

Davis maintained silence concerning the identity of the prospective Yankee purchasers, but Farley has been linked reliably with the project. Counsel for the estate of Col. Jacob Ruppert, Yankee owner, recently said a deal virtually was closed.

Davis, a native Ohioan and former member of the New York Stock Exchange, was a stellar football halfback at Western Reserve University, where he studied law. He has closed many millions of dollars' worth of newspaper purchases.

Herberts Lose In Finals of Mixed Tennis

Charlotte Decker, Ritzenberg Take Public Parks Title

Charlotte Decker and Allie Ritzenberg yesterday won the first Public Parks mixed doubles championship tournament with a three-set victory over Mr. and Mrs. George Herbert in the finals at Rock Creek courts. Scores were 6—4, 5—7, 6—1.

Deciding factor of the match which was closely fought until the third set was the all-around play of Ritzenberg, who recently won the Public Parks men's singles title for the second straight year.

The first set was a see-saw affair, the count being deadlocked four times until the winners held Ritzenberg's service for a 5-4 lead and broke through Mrs. Herbert's for the 6—4 victory.

In the second set Miss Decker and Ritzenberg hopped away to a 3—0 advantage, but the losers braced and ran off the next four games to go into the van at 4—3. Decker-Ritzenberg deadlocked the set at 4—4 and went ahead at 5—4.

The Herberts won out, however, by winning three successive games, holding Willie's service, cracking Ritzenberg's and retaining George's in the twelfth game.

Ths exertion appeared to have sapped considerable strength from the Herberts and they were easy victims in the deciding set. Their only game won in the 6—1 affair was the third when Miss Decker's service was smashed.

May Hardware Title Winner, Beats Roofers

May Hardware Co. yesterday won the championship of the Northeast Commercial Softball League by taking its second straight victory in a scheduled two-out-of-three series from Allied Roofing. May poured it on to the tune of 10-0 behind airtight seven-hit pitching by "Bush" Marston, who also pitched the Hardwaremen to victory in the opener of the series.

May made every hit count in scoring ten times on as many hits. Bill Hutchinson, catching flawlessly and banging out three hits, including a double, in four trips, was May's outstanding player.

The Hardware nine backed up Marston's steady hurling with nice support afield and also stole seven bases to make possible their high percentage of runs per hits.

U. S. Export Balance Sets Record For 19 Years in First Six Months

$774,000,000 Total Reported; War Materials Comprise Bulk

By the Associated Press

The Commerce Department reported yesterday that the Nation's export balance for the first half of 1940 was $774,000,000, the highest since 1921, due largely to shipments of war materials, which in June were the greatest since the European conflict began.

Exports totaled $350,000,000 in June, an increase of about 8 per cent over the level of April and May, while imports, amounting to $211,000,000, were about the same as in the two preceding months, although June ordinarily shows a recession in foreign trade. Exports of explosives, firearms and ammunition totaled $24,400,000 in June, more than ten times higher than in May, while aircraft shipments increased $5,000,000 to $27,600,000, and iron and steel mill products advanced $7,200,000, to $43,100,000.

French Flow Continues

Despite the drop in exports to France during the latter part of June as the result of the armistice with Germany and Italy, the value of American goods shipped to France was $8,000,000 more than in May. Shipments to Mediterranean ports declined, however, as a result of the extension of the war.

For the first half of the year exports of six leading commodities—aircraft, nonferrous metals, steel manufactures, metal-working machinery, munitions and industrial chemicals—increased by 132 per cent over the corresponding 1939 period to $643,000,000 and constituted 32 per cent of this country's total exports, as compared with 20 per cent in the previous year.

Shipments of aircraft, amounting to $138,400,000, were more than three times as large as in the first half of 1939, while iron and steel mill products, including scrap iron, were more than double the comparable period last year.

Cotton Gains Sharply

Cotton exports amounted to $173,700,000, a gain of $105,200,000 over the 1939 period, but tobacco fell off 31 per cent and foodstuffs dropped 10 per cent.

Imposition of additional taxes to finance the defense program was reflected in a 100 per cent increase in the imports of wines and spirits to $9,176,000. This was due principally to withdrawal of alcoholic beverages from customs warehouses before the new rates went into effect July 1.

U. S. Income Near 1937 Peak

The Commerce Department reported yesterday that the national income for the six months of 1940 was within 1 per cent of the comparable 1937 period, the peak "recovery" year.

June payments, reflecting a rise in industrial activity as well as a seasonal gain in dividend and interest disbursements, reached $6,202,000,000. This was $551,000,000 more than in May.

For the first half of 1940, total income payments were $35,333,000,000, a gain of $1,657,000,000 or 5 per cent over the 1939 period.

"In view of slightly higher living costs in 1937," the Commerce Department said, "the real income of the American people is currently somewhat above the 1937 level."

The department's adjusted index, using 1929 as 100, rose seven-tenths of a point to 87.9 in June, which was approximately the October level and only 2 per cent below the year-end high. This advance occurred, the department said, despite sharp drops in farm operators' cash income and work relief earnings.

June pay rolls aggregated $3,823,000,000, an increase of $29,000,000 over May. Work relief wages declined $16,000,000.

Wheat, Corn Edge Higher

Other Commodities Generally Display Lower Trend

By the Associated Press

Sluggish demand counted against commodity values yesterday, but declines were generally unimportant.

Wheat and corn at Chicago ignored the main trend, each getting a boost from buying on crop damage fears in connection with the extended heat wave. The former closed unchanged to ¾ of a cent a bushel higher. Corn ended up ⅜ to ⅝ cent.

The Associated Press weighted index of 35 wholesale spot commodities declined to 69.44 per cent of the 1926 average from 69.66 per cent Saturday.

'Floor' on Soft-Coal Prices Becomes Effective Sept. 3

By the Associated Press

Howard A. Gray, director of the Bituminous Coal Division of the Interior Department, said yesterday minimum prices for soft coal at the mines would become effective September 3 and range from 10 cents a ton for low grade Indiana coal dust to $5.25 for high grade lump produced in Washington State.

Secretary Ickes said Gray had completed work on the long awaited minimum prices, intended to stabilize the bituminous industry, and had already started mailing the schedules to members.

The prices, Ickes continued, cover substantially all commercial bituminous coal, and reflect the differences in quality. Producers who are members of the coal code may not sell their coal at less than minimum prices without risk of loss of their code membership, which loss would subject them to a 19½ per cent tax and possibility of suit for triple damages by code member competitors.

Steel Production Estimated 90.4%

New York, July 29 (AP).—Steel operations in the current week will be at 90.4 per cent of capacity, the highest level since last December 11, the American Iron & Steel Institute estimated today.

This was an increase of 2.2 points over last week's rate of 88.2 per cent. A month ago operations were 74.2 per cent and a year ago 59.3.

Reduced Rail Rates From South Deferred

By the Associated Press

The Interstate Commerce Commission suspended yesterday until February 28, 1941, reducer rail rates on gasoline, kerosene and fuel oil in tank cars from South Atlantic and Virginia points to other points in South Atlantic States.

The rates, scheduled to have become effective yesterday, were intended to meet motor and water carrier competition.

British to Ration Coffee, Market Hears

New York, July 29 (AP).—The New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange received a cable from London today which said: "The rationing of coffee is expected shortly, as it is claimed that consumption is exceeding the ministry of food's expectations."

Big Oil Firms Face U. S. Move

Suit Would Separate Control of Pipe Lines From Marketing

By the Associated Press

The Justice Department has prepared a civil action intended to separate control of oil pipe lines and marketing of oil products, but some officials said yesterday that the time of filing the suit depended upon conferences with the National Defense Commission.

Members of the commission were reported to have suggested such a suit now might tend to discourage cooperation in the defense program.

In any event, it appeared unlikely that action would be taken before Wednesday since Attorney General Jackson is out of the city until tomorrow.

The antitrust division has been working on the oil case for a year. It was reported reliably that it would involve 22 major companies and about 300 subsidiaries and affiliates.

Dividends Voted By Local Utilities

Directors of the Potomac Electric Power Co. have declared regular quarterly dividends of $1.50 on the 6 per cent preferred and $1.37½ on the 5½ per cent shares, it was announced yesterday. Both dividends are payable September 3, to holders of record August 15.

Directors of Washington Railway & Electrict Co. declared a quarterly dividend of $10 a share on the common stock and $1.25 a share on the preferred stock. In the first quarter, a $9 dividend was paid, in the second quarter a $10 dividend on the commmon stock. The common stock dividend is payable August 31, to holders of record August 15, while the preferred dividend is payable September 3, to holders of record August 15.

Travelers Plans Premium Boost

Special Dispatch to The Post

Hartford, July 29.—Travelers Insurance Co. announced increases in new ordinary and limited life insurandce and endowment premiums, effective October 1, and follows similar action taken by Aetna Life. Decreasing investment yields forced the action, it was stated.

No change in term rates is to be made. Reserve basis for surrender values has been calcuated on 3 per cent, instead of 3½ per cent heretofore, James L. Howard, vice president, says in a notice to agents.

Court Battle Opens On Rail's Solvency

Denver, July 29 (AP).—A legal struggle over control of the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad opened in United States District Court today with an attempt to determine whether the concern is solvent.

Fifty of the Nation's leading railroad attorneys are participating in the hearing on the plan of the Interstate Commerce Commission for a reorganization which would include consolidation of the Rio Grande and the Denver & Salt Lake Railway (the Moffat road), and the so-called Dotsero cutoff.

Nickel Plate Lists Refunding Terms

Cleveland, July 29 (AP).—Nickel Plate Railroad announced tonight it was ready to make a 20 per cent cash payment on its three-year 6 per cent unsecured notes due October 1, 1941, and to issue new ten-year 6 per cent debentures for the remaining 80 per cent of principal.

The plan for refunding the notes, of which $12,678,750 are outstanding, was announced June 25.

Increase in Purchasing Power Brightens Auto Trade Outlook

By the Associated Press

Detroit, July 29.—Noting that the car and truck production schedules of Chevrolet and Ford have been virtually cleaned up, Ward's Automotive Reports in its current issue says that "to all intents and purposes, the 1940 model season is just about at an end, with minimum production for the calendar year immediately ahead."

Of the outlook for the remainder of the year the trade publication says:

"Anticipations for the period between now and the end of the year may be considered as quite bright. There are several reasons for this

Job Gain Noted

"Dominant among them is the improvement in employment. Statistics show that "reemploying is increasing in industrial centers, not only because of the armament program, but also out of a general acceleration of the business tempo. Machine tool centers are busy; steel production gives indication of holding above 80 per cent of capacity into the winter; retail trade anticipates a minimum 5 per cent advance this fall. This all improves the purchasing power.

"Added to this fact is the obvious development that prices may be expected to go up—always a stimulating factor. Much automobile buying now going on is predicated on this anticipation; so is some buying in other lines.

"As regards the automobile industry specifically, there is yet another factor pointing to good manufacturing activity between now and the end of the year—and quite possibly beyond. That is the fact that manufacturers will produce inventories against any possibility of order priority that might interfere with normal operations.

Shadow of War

"Sales at retail, of course, will have an indubitable effect on production, but assemblies may be expected to proceed at a faster rate than would be the case if the shadow of war were not always present."

The survey says that current indications at many points disclose a mounting used-car price situation, particularly in the case of higher priced models, and adds that rapid disposal of cars at certain points "raises the interesting possibility that somewhat of a used car shortage may develop in local situations by the end of the summer."

Copper Buying Continues Brisk

New York, July 29 (AP).—Consumer demand for copper continued brisk at the resumption of business today after the week-end buying flurry. Sales were reported to have been made early at 10⅞ cents a pound in the custom and small producer market, an increase of ⅛ of a cent over last week's late levels.

Nearly 5,000 tons of the red metal were reportedly sold Friday as the buying spurt gathered momentum. Thursday's sales were 3,788 tons. In the shortened Saturday business, more than 300 tons changed hands.

Today's custom price lifts it to within ⅝ of a cent a pound of the primary producer quotation of 11½ cents which was not changed during the outside market weakness of the past several weeks.

Dip in Bank Loans Ends 7-Week Rise

Week's Aggregate At $4,462,000,000, Reserve Reports

By the Associated Press

The Federal Reserve Board reported yesterday that commercial, industrial and agricultural loans of banks declined slightly last week, ending a seven-week rise that had carried the total up $97,000,000. The aggregate was $4,462,000,000 at the end of the week, a drop of $2,000,000.

The board said that deposits credited to domestic banks had declined in all districts a total of $220,000,000, principally due to decreases of $50,000,000 in New York City, and $45,000,000 in the Chicago district.

The board's 101-city member bank condition statement gave the following summary of assets and liabilities on July 24 together with changes for the week and with the same week last year, in millions of dollars:

Tolerance Urged for Leaders Who 'Muff With Bases Full'

By Merryle S. Rukeyser
Economic Commentator.

In business and in public affairs, the public is intolerant of failure. When a leader fails to achieve his goal, he is on the spot.

There is likely to be a searching of his record to ascertain whether in the process of failure he happened to make any technical violations of the law.

On the other hand, nothing succeeds like success. The fellow who is putting it over tends to find the public tolerant of his shortcomings.

These observations have been precipitated by the forthcoming trial in France of former Premier Edouard Daladier and associates.

M. Daladier is to be subjected to a sweeping investigation of his part in France's participation in this disastrous war.

If any degree of law and order still prevails in France, then presumably the intent is a fishing expedition to determine whether they can hang any law violation on him.

This searching for pretexts is analogous to sending Al Capone to jail for income tax matters rather than because of his gangster activities.

In the business world, there has been a similar pursuit of scapegoats.

Certainly Samuel Insull, the utilities man, erred in a variety of ways, but the real motive for prosecuting him was because his dreams and accomplishments ran into a snag.

As long as he was making bigger and better mergers, there was little questioning of his operations.

Likewise, when the railroad empire builder, the late Orvis P. Van Sweringen got into financial difficulties during the depression, he was indicted on a criminal charge, from which he was acquitted.

The nature of the legal offense charged is only a pretext. Fallen leaders are in the dog house because they have met with failure.

This trait hardly squares with Matthew Arold's noble sentiment to the effect that it is better to aim high and fail than to aim low and succeed.

Where human behavior is free of fraud and wilful negligence, there should be tolerance for the conscientious man who steps up to the plate with the bases full only to strike out.

There should be some appreciation of honest effort.

There is also the obverse side of this question.

There is likely to be too much blind tolerance of the leader who appears to be going places. He too should be periodically audited and checked up. This is not only a good principle for private corporations, but also for governmental operations. In the circumstances the American tradition of rotation in office serves a constructive purpose. It enables a new office holder to check up on his predecessor.

To M. Daladier as he contemplates trial, the old truism that fame is fleeting must stand out as a flaming reality.

In democracies we inflate heroes only to knock them down.

Admiral Dewey's decline from peak popularity was rapid when he displeased the public.

And Charles A. Lindbergh, outstanding hero of our time, experienced unpopularity when he undertook to tell the unvarnished truth about Nazi air power.

Bullish Steel Rate Report Arouses Market; Metal Issues Lead Moderate Advance

New York, July 29.—We were just about to pick at random any one of the market stories of the last four weeks and label it "reprinted by request" and let it fill the bill in explaining what happened in today's stock market. For the day started out as another dull and dreary affair in which price changes of an eighth and a quarter would furnish the feature and the trading would be dull.

This was all spoiled, however, by the weekly figures on steel operations which showed this key industry operating at a new high, when the guesses had been it would show very little change. The news came as near electrifying a dead corpse as anything we have seen in the last four weeks. Comparatively speaking, we had a boom in the last few hours of trading.

The average for the market gained only 0.27 point, the largest gain since July 16 and the volume was only 255,990 shares, but one hesitates to state what it would have been if it hadn't been for the good old steel industry. In fact, during the second hour, before the steel announcement, trading amounted to only 20,000 shares. This breaks another one of those records of 22 years' standing, and everyone in the street hopes it will be another 22 years before they sleep through another such hour.

The entire list improved when it was announced that the steel industry goes into this week at 90.4 per cent of capacity, a gain of 2.2 points over the preceding week.

A bullish automobile report, as well as the certainty that the motor manufacturers will be called upon to help with the defense program, helped the motor shares yesterday, the feature being Chrysler, which jumped 3½ points. General Motors was up ½ and Willys Overland was active but slightly lower. Packard was unchanged. United States Steel and Bethlehem each added 1½ and Republic was up a fraction. Loft was the market's most active stock. There was a flurry in the tractions, led by Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit. Both Pennsylvania and New York Central did well in the rail division.

In sluggish trading the bond market on the New York Stock Exchange displayed a moderate degree of firmness in most sections today. United States Government bonds showed small price changes, but for most of the issues any change shown was in an upward direction. The very large oversubscription, as disclosed by the Treasury yesterday, for the Commodity Credit Corporation notes indicates the underlying firmness of the market for Government issues.

In the foreign bond list strength was manifested by Australian, French and Norwegian issues, while German government loans, in which the speculative interest recently has been waning, were unchanged to 1 point lower. The Cuban railway issues, in which a default looms on the next coupon date, sagged further to new low ground for the year.

Class 1 Rails Report Sharp Climb in Nets

Operating Incomes In First Half Show $7,743,615 Gain

The Association of American Railroads reported yesterday that the net railway operating income of Class 1 railroads during the first six months of this year totaled $242,366,834, compared with $165,623,219 for the first six months of 1939.

Gross operating revenues for the six months of 1940 were $1,995,596,635 as against $1,804,126,557 for the corresponding months of 1939, and $2,658,254,307 for 1930.

Operating expenses for the first six months of 1940 amounted to $1,497,536,062, compared with $1,400,744,163 for the same period in 1939, and $2,048,678,522 for 1930.

Taxes paid by Class 1 railroads in the first six months of this year amounted to $189,219,222, an increase of approximately $17,000,000 over the first six months of 1939, and $11,000,000 over 1930.

Twenty-five railroads failed to earn expenses and taxes during the first half of 1940.

Tidewater Plans Refundnig Issue

New York, July 29 (AP).—William F. Humphrey, president of Tidewater Associated Oil Co., said today proposals are being considered for refunding the company's $37,000,000 outstanding 3½ per cent debentures of 1952 which were issued in 1937.

Negotiations in the company's behalf are being conducted, he said, with the securities firms of Kuhn Loeb & Co. and Lehman Brothers.

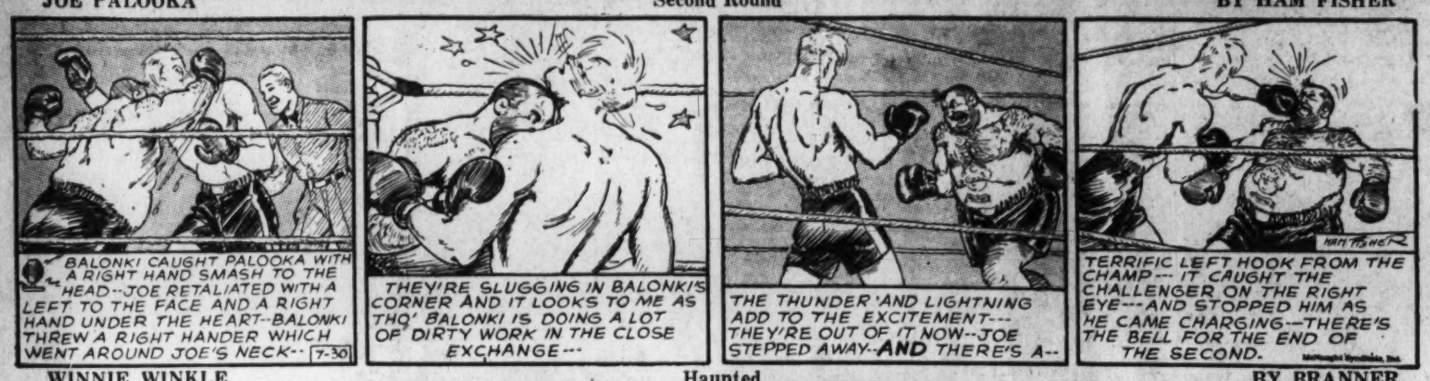
SUPERMAN — The Fall Guy — By Jerry Siegel and Joe Shuster

CLARK'S SUPER-HEARING ENABLES HIM TO OVERHEAR THE GANGSTERS' CONVERSATION..
WHAT'S TH' IDEA OF BRINGING THAT LAMEBRAIN HERE?
HAVE YOU GONE BATTY, OR..?
YOU BOYS OUGHT TO KNOW ME BETTER THAN THAT!
THAT NITWIT IS GOING TO SAVE YOU AN' ME A LOT OF HEADACHES! AS YOU KNOW, SOME OF TH' BOYS ARE PULLIN' A SNATCH RIGHT THIS MINUTE....
HOW DOES THAT FIT TOGETHER?
ALL YOU BOYS ARE A LITTLE TOO WELL-KNOWN TO THE COPS TO ACT AS GO-BETWEENS.
I THINK I KNOW WOT YER GETTIN' AT!
YER GONNA HAVE THIS SAP PICK UP TH' RANSOM JEWELS FOR US!
RIGHT, MY LAD! YOU'RE BEGINNIN' TO SEE TH' LIGHT! HE TAKES THE RISKS, AN' WE TAKE TH' CASH!

JOE PALOOKA — Second Round — BY HAM FISHER



BALONKI CAUGHT PALOOKA WITH A RIGHT HAND SMASH TO THE HEAD--JOE RETALIATED WITH A LEFT TO THE FACE AND A RIGHT HAND UNDER THE HEART--BALONKI THREW A RIGHT HANDER WHICH WENT AROUND JOE'S NECK-- 7-30
THEY'RE SLUGGING IN BALONKI'S CORNER AND IT LOOKS TO ME AS THO' BALONKI IS DOING A LOT OF DIRTY WORK IN THE CLOSE EXCHANGE---
THE THUNDER 'AND LIGHTNING ADD TO THE EXCITEMENT--- THEY'RE OUT OF IT NOW--JOE STEPPED AWAY--AND THERE'S A-- TERRIFIC LEFT HOOK FROM THE CHAMP--- IT CAUGHT THE CHALLENGER ON THE RIGHT EYE---AND STOPPED HIM AS HE CAME CHARGING---THERE'S THE BELL FOR THE END OF THE SECOND.

LOOK— I ALREADY KNOW WHERE YOUR BROTHER IS HIDING—IF I WANTED TO BETRAY HIM, I WOULDN'T HAVE COME TO YOU!
THEN WHAT DO YOU WANT?
I'M AN AMERICAN— WE DON'T HAVE SECRET POLICE AND POLITICAL MURDERS HERE— AND NEVER WILL HAVE!
THESE AGENTS WHO HUNT YOUR BROTHER— THEY DON'T BELONG HERE— THAT'S WHY I'M ON YOUR SIDE!
YOU ARE ONLY A GIRL. LIKE ME— WHAT COULD YOU DO?
WE'RE ABOUT THE SAME SIZE— LEND ME YOUR HAT AND COAT— I'LL GET RID OF THOSE SECRET POLICE FOR YOU!

Today's Radio Highlights

11 a. m., WOL—Mutual offers a half-hour of transcribed news reports, the first from London, the latter from Berlin.

1 p. m., WMAL—"Growing Up About Mondy."

3 p. m., WJSV—"Gulliver's Travels" receives its just treatment as a bitter satire on humanity and not a colorful childs' fairy story when Bergen Evans discusses Dean Swift's curiously fated masterpiece on Of Men and Books.

3:15, WJSV—The Marine Barracks present a program in the interest of possible recruits for the corps. Maj. Harold E. Rosecrans, a veteran of the Fifth Regiment, talks and the celebrated Marine Band offers a special program from the band auditorium.

7, WRC—No sooner do we tell you something about Johnny Green in the Sunday Post than he goes and drops one of his programs. Johnny presents will be presented by Ray Bloch, who will keep to much the same program planning.

7:30, WMAL—John Gunther, the inside-continents man, and Alva Johnson, who's a very noted journalist himself, join F. P. A., John Kieran and Clifton Fadiman on Information Please.

8, WMAL—Lucy Monroe, star of opera, concert and radio, chooses "How Can I Ever Be Alone," from the New York World's Fair production "American Jubilee," in which she is starred as her contribution to Musical Americana. To appear for this program she's had to get special permission from the Fair's Chairman Harvey D. Gibson, to retire for one day from the cast of the big musical.

8, WOL—Senators Gerald P. Nye and Rush Holt speak on behalf of the Trade Union Women's Committee for Peace.

8, WJSV—Katie, the Florida dog with a college degree, might be tonight's most interesting We, the People.

9:30, WOL—The Nats play a night baseball game with St. Louis and Arch McDonald moves his airing paraphenalia over to the Mutual outlet for the event.

This coming Saturday is to be known as "Broadcasting Day" at both the New York World's Fair and the Golden Gate Exposition in San Francisco. Those friendly, fair competitors have conceived the "day" as an expression of public good will toward the radio industry.

A highlight of the celebrations will be a joint, hour-long broadcast from both fairs, with practically everybody who is anybody in radio taking part. We don't mean to stagger you, but here are just some of the microphone personalities you'll hear:

Kate Smith, Maj. Bowes, Rudy Vallee, Ted Husing, Lowell Thomas, H. V. Kaltenborn, James Melton, Paul Whiteman, Amos 'n' Andy, Colonel Stoopnagle, Lanny Ross, Graham McNamee, Tommy Riggs, Morton Downey, Howard Barlow, Conrad Thibault, Margaret Speaks, Alfred Wallenstein and ho , well, lots of others like that. They're all to take part in a program which will emphasize radio's efforts to promote national unity through the free expression of ideas.

Governmental, educational and other important points of view on what radio has done and is doing for the Nation will be expressed in brief talks by James L. Fly, chairman of the F. C. C.; John W. Studebaker, United States Commissioner of Education; Roger Baldwin, of the Civil Liberties Union, and Mrs. Haroid V. Milligan, president of the National Council of Women.

The program will be heard over WJSV between 7 and 8 p. m. Saturday.
